DEMPSEY WINS BY KNOCKOUT IN FOURTH

Harding's Signature Ends War With Germany

RIGHT HOOK TO CHIN ENDS BATTLE WITH CHALLENGER ON FLOOR; BOTH CHEERED

Champion Picks Up His Fallen Foe; Frenchman Senseless But Few Seconds; His Thumb Broken

THRONG APPLAUDS LOSER

(By United Press)

ARENA, JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 2.—Georges Carpentier broke the thumb of his right hand in the second round, Francois Descamps, his manager, announced in the dressingroom after the fight. Witnesses could see that the thumb was badly swoolen, though it was pointed out that a bad sprain sometimes has the appearance of a fracture. Descamps said it was the overhand right which staggered Dempsey that resulted in the injury.

(By Associated Press)

RINGSIDE, Jersey City, July 2.—Georges Carpentier finished flat on his face, his leg and arms outstretched in the fourth round.

Jack Dempsey, the world's heavyweight champion, knocked him out a few seconds after the round opened, sending him heavily to the canvas with a short right hook to the chin.

The actual time of fighting in the fourth round was one minute and sixteen seconds. Previous to the knockout, Carpentier was floored with a left to the body and a right to the chin. Carpentier took a count of nine before springing to his feet, where the grim, determined Dempsey measured him with a punch to the chin which ended the battle.

Dempsey stood over the fallen French idol until the count was finished and then tenderly picked up the bleeding and dazed Frenchman and dragged him to his corner. Dempsey gave Carpentier an unmerciful beating. He opened up a cut under the Frenchman's eye and battered him seriously around the head with vicious rights and lefts until Carpentier's face was swollen and bleeding. Carpentier fought gamely back at the champion, but he was outclassed.

Once he was half knocked and half pushed through the ropes and most of the time was going away from the champion. Dempsey kept after him, driving him to the corner whenever he had an opportunity.

Carpentier was out only for a few seconds. Manager Descamps applied first aid as quickly as the dazed Frenchman dropped into his chair. Police immediately climbed into the ring and made a path for the champion and Carpentier to go to their dressing rooms.

SHRIEKS OF WOMEN FOLLOW KNOCKOUT.

When Dempsey sent home the winning punch the sweltering crowd that had packed the arena was on its feet yelling.

The crowd, so apathetic during the preliminaries, went wild when the fighters entered the ring.

During the four rounds and at the knockout shrieks of women were heard as blow followed blow and blood was drawn.

The sudden manner in which the main bout was staged, with postponement of the last preliminary, caught the spectators by surprise. There were cheers when the American champion was introduced, but the crowd, the arena around, cheered itself hoarse as Carpentier was hailed as champion of the Old World, idol of his country and a soldier of France.

CROWD CHEERS BOTH WINNER AND LOSER.

As calm and as unperturbed a fighter as ever entered the ring, the French birdman kept his eyes turned up, watching planes circling over head with a noisy stacco at the very moment the boxers appeared.

There was not the usual rush after the knockout—that championship rush that carries all before it. What rush did start soon was checked by a heavy detail of police around the ring.

The throng, which during the bout rose and sank in their seats in a wave, which rippled from ringside to rim, stood in their places after the knockout came. The crowd cheered the conqueror but it also cheered the vanquished. The Frenchman's supporters clung around his corner until he was revived and staggered from the ring—the "battle of the century" over.

The continual bombardment of heavy body blows from Dempsey's fists was rapidly weakening Carpentier. The Frenchman began to sag noticeably at the knees and after about fifty-five seconds of punishment, crumpled up on the floor from the vicious right to the body and left to the chin. Carpentier was not unconscious but in sore distress as he lay curled up on his side. Referee Ertle began the count as he stood alongside the prostrate Frenchman, while Dempsey, leaning against the ropes with a sardonic grin on his face, watched the rise and fall of the referee's hand.

CARPENTIER RISES AT COUNT OF NINE.

At the count of nine Georges rose to his knees and arose in a game but weakened fashion. The champion was upon him again in a flash and another crushing left to the mid-section followed by a flashing right to the chin with all of Dempsey's weight behind it hurled Carpentier to the floor again with a thud that could be heard many feet from the ring.

TWO A—

Again Carpentier lay on his side while the count went on and at the sound of eight he made a desperate attempt to regain his feet. He raised his body part way from the floor with his right hand, but the effort was futile, and two seconds later the French champion was counted out. The time of the final round was one minute and sixteen seconds.

"Carpentier is a good, game fellow, but I think I've got it on him," Dempsey remarked as he entered his dressing room after the fight.

The champion was as happy as a school boy and there were no marks on his face or body to show the effect of the Frenchman's punches.

"I won just as I thought I would," the champion said. "It was a good fight and I think the public was satisfied. They say Carpentier staggered me with a right-hand punch in the third round. I never even remember being hit hard enough to shake me up.

TOOK NO CHANCES, DEMPSEY ASSERTS.

"Perhaps he caught me off balance, and it looked as though I was staggering. Perhaps I could have finished him sooner, but I was taking no chances. Carpentier is the heavyweight champion of Europe, and I had my own title at stake and wanted to take no unnecessary chance of losing it."

Jack's first thought as he came from the ring of his mother. He wrote her the following: "Mrs. C. Dempsey, 3572 South State street, Salt Lake City, Utah: Dear mother: I won in the fourth round. Received your wire. Will be home soon as possible. Love and kisses. (Signed) Jack."

LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

RINGSIDE, JERSEY CITY, July 2.—Carpentier made his way through the crowd and entered the ring at 2:52.

A big floral horseshoe was brought into the ring. It was a gift to Dempsey from admirers.

Dempsey entered the ring at 2:58 through Carpentier's corner. He shook hands with the challenger and put his arm around him. Dempsey looked fine. He looks like a race horse ready to face the barrier.

Carpentier looked across the ring and smiled as the photographers went to work. Tommy Gibbons just bounded into the ring, followed by Bill Brennan. Announcer Joe Humphreys sai dthere would be no challenges from the ringside.

Dempsey and Carpentier posed for their picture shaking hands. Carpentier said little. Dempsey looked towar dthe camera. This is the first heavyweight fight in history in which the bandages were put on under the supervision of the boxing commission. Three layers of bandages and gauze are all that will be permitted.

Descamps is in Dempsey's corner arguing about the amount of bandages they put on Dempsey's hands. Carpentier sat in his corner watching several friends. He recognized a friend in the audience and saluted and bowed. You might have thought he was sitting down to est his breakfast for all he was concerned.

"Both fighters look to be in good condition," said Jim Corbett. Carpentier is the coolest challenger I have seen in all my experience, unless he is acting, which I doubt. Dempsey's attitude suggests to me that he is ready to start off and set a fast pace."

The members of the New Jersey Boxing Commission were introduced to the crowd. Mayor Hague was also introduced. Kearns is standing in Carpentier's corner watching them put the bandages on.

Governor Edwards was next introduced. The governor got a big hand.

Bill Brennan was introduced and said he was anxious to meet the winner.

Next came Harry Ertle, official referee. He bowed to the fans at the ringside. Jim Savage, associate referee, also was introduced. Jim lives in Orange, N. J. They wanted Jim Corbett to climb into the ring, but Jim asked to scratch it. Jim gets enough applause during the long theatrical season to last him a year.

"I don't think they should take up so much time introducing people," says Jim. "It doesn't interest the audience. What they want to see is the fight."

Carpentier is binding on his own tape. Dempsey's hands have been taped and they are softening up the gloves for him. Teddy Hayes, Bernie Dempsey and Kearns are behind the champion.

Gus Wilson, Descamps and Marcot Denys are behind Carpentier. The weights were announced. Carpentier, 172½ Dempsey, 188.

Tex Rickard climbed into the ring and the fans gave him a nice hand. He shook hands with the champion and Carpentier.

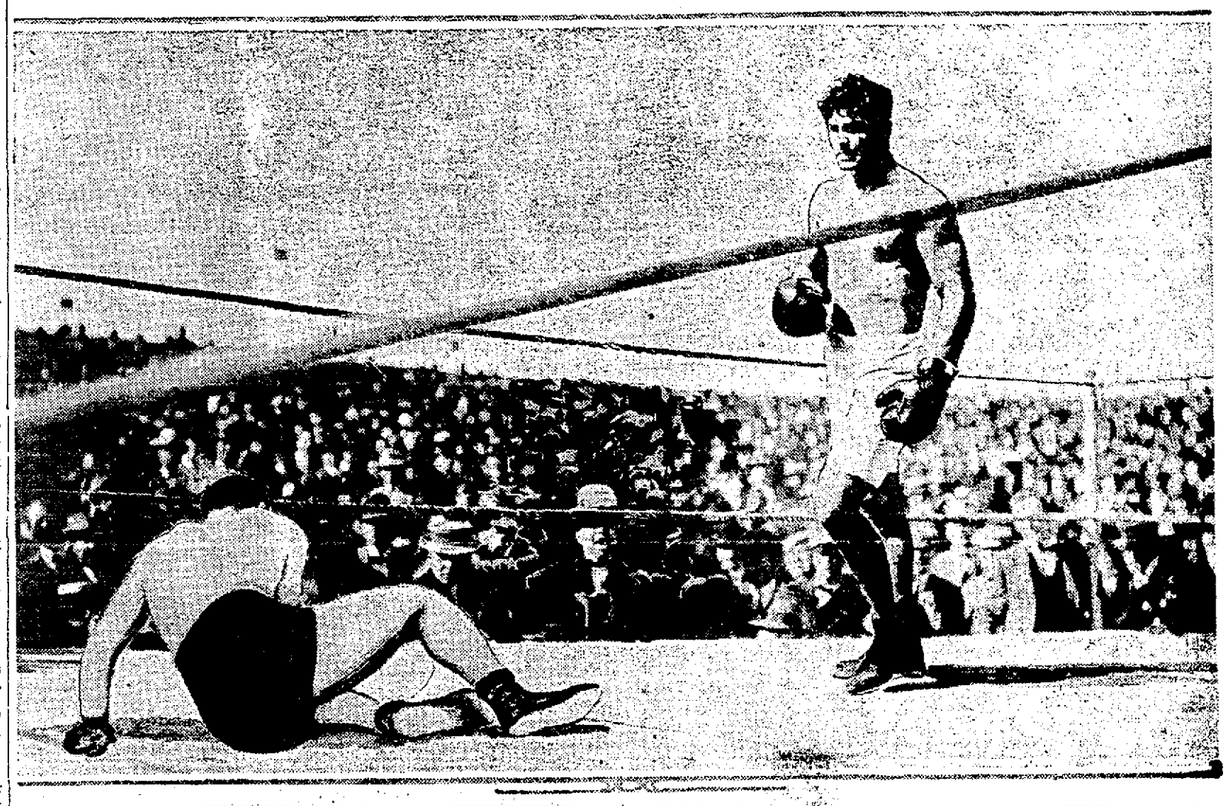
Announcer Humphreys just ordered everyone but the fighters, seconds and the refree to leave the ring.

Joe Bannon was announced as the official timekeeper.

Descamps has evidently taken stock in the report that Dempsey's hands were full of some foreign element at Toledo. He did not turn to his own corner until after Dempsey's gloves had been laced up and the laces cut.

The Knock-out at Jersey City Today

Artist's conception of the finale of the "Battle of the Century." Jack Dempsey, champion of the world, is seen standing in the ring waiting for Carpentier to arise. Carpentier was knocked out with two vicious rights to the jaw, and although he struggled manfully to get up he was unable to get his knees off the canvas.



The Fight by Rounds

Round One

Carpentier led with his left. They clinched. Carpentier started the fight by carrying it to Dempsey. He planted a solid left against the champion's chest. They went into a clinch. Carpentier landed right. Dempsey broke the clinch with disgusted look on face.

Carpentier walked away from Dempsey and the champion followed him and hit him again with a left. Clinch.

Round Two

Dempsey came out cruching. Clinch. Dempsey chasing Carpentier around ring.

Exchanged rights and lefts to body. Carpentier swung, missed and fell ,but was up in an instant. Dempsey chasing him around the ring.

Carpentier hit Dempsey flush on the jaw, but did not stir up the champion. He is backing away from Dempsey.

Clinched again, exchanging light taps. Dempsey stuck three right handers into Carpentier's stomach. Carpentier staggered Dempsey with right to jaw.

Carpentier uppercut Dempsey and they exchanged blows in neutral corner. Dempsey knocked back on his heis by Carp's blows.

Dempsey landed another right, but ith merely grazed Carpentier's jaw. Carp's face was bruised and bleeding. Carpentier missed wild swing. Dempsey countered with light swing to head.

Carpentier started right, but Dempsey blocked and they clinched as round ended. Carpentier's round.

Dempsey is getting tired. It was all Carp's round, said Corbett.

Round Three

Dempsey started after Carpentier, who ducked him and went clear around the ring.

Dempsey landed light right to jaw. Carpentier landed light right and they exchanged body punches.

Carpentier is running away again. He missed right and left. Clinch. They break. Dempsey apparently has Carpentier groggy as the bell ends the round.

Wicked rights and lefts to the body made Georges slow up. It was Dempsey's round.

Round Four

Dempsey went right after Carpentier and the challenger walked away.

Dempsey punished Carpentier severely with right

Dempsey followed the challenger around the ring, sinking rights and lefts into his body.

A right to the jaw floored Carpentier for a count of nine. He got to his feet with an effort. Dempsey stood up and immediately went after the Frenchman and knocked him out with a right hook to the chin, after one minute and sixteen seconds of fighting.

Crowd Is Greatest

RINGSIDE, JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 2.—(By the Associated Press).—Gates to the big fight opened at 9:30 and in popped the crowd.

The saucer of yellow pine, which when the sun was out glistened like a giant bowl of brass, was soon flocked with humanity. But, unlike an ordinary saucer, it filled from the brim down instead of the bottom up, for the first to arrive was the gallery god with the periscope eye, who had camped all night outside the arena for the privilege of paying Promoter Tex Rickard $5 and 50 cents.

Gradually, however, the wave of humanity rolled down to the ringside, as the more plutocratic ticketholders reached the stadium. Unlike the ordinary show, today's "battle of the century" had no exclusive bald-headed row. Hairless plates, in many cases, were replaced by coiffeurs par excellence, for women in which 90,000 odd could nestle just as cosily as the proverbial sardines, and speculate on future ring history.

A sultry day followed a humid night. The sun tried to pierce the screening clouds that gave a constant threat of rain, then gave up the attempt after a brief unsuccessful effort. It was an ideal day for the spectators, for no one longed for the scorching sun and no one wanted rain.

But the crowd had many things to talk about. Everyone had something in common and this led to conversation even among men and women as far separated as Fifth avenue and the lower East Side, New York and Chicago, America and Europe, as foreign to one another as prince and pauper; with interests en who recently had espoused the boxers' art had turned out in full force for today's carnival of blows.

The early comers sat down to wait. They found just three things to do; They came these pilgrims, equipped for anything from a trip to the moon to a journey featured by Signor Dante.

Travelers who landed in Host Tex Rickard's circle of seats, rimming the amphitheater, came as for the racetrack with glasses to span the 300 feet to the ring.

Many carried as part of their regular equipment: Sun glasses, one pair; pillows, as many as the old family sofa at home had held; sandwiches, a legion; fans, as numerous as the wings of the famous Jersey "skeeters" that also voiplaned to the "thirty acres."

In the arena, which from its topmost tier flew at regular intervals the tri-color of France and the starry flag of America, an army of workmen were putting on the last touches.

Women contented themselves chiefly with an analysis of the boxers' looks. The fighting jaw of the American, which they had come to know in the movies, apparently fascinated some; while others it was the smile of the dashing young French birdman that cast the spell. There were many gasps of dismay when word was passed down the line that Carpentier, described by one English writer as a Greek god with a punch, would fight without his wavy blonde pompadour, which had gone the way of all pompadours when a serious match was at hand.

Indeed, after hearing all the accounts of how Jack was growing whiskers to protect his jaw and Georges had shorn his locks so that he could not be towed around the ring by them, a spectator wondered if he would be able to recognize the fighters when they entered the ring.

The folks who were closer to the ring in today's big fight than anyone else could not see a thing. They were the wire chiefs, with headquarters under the ring beneath the boxer's very feet. They could hear the thud of a knockout, but could not tell who won.

RICKARD TESTS GONG; IT RINGS MIGHTILY.

Tex Rickard was taking no chances today on the ring gong giving a gentle tinkle such as was lost in the roar at Toledo. It was tested early and loosed a loud clatter.

The first of the six preliminary bouts—that between Babe Herman

Sidelights On the Big Fight

There was practically no betting around the ring. Wherever a wager was offered, it was on a 3 to 1 basis that Dempsey will win. There were few takers.

Johnny Dempsey, brother of the champion, arrived at the ringside a little after 11 o'clock. He had a badge with a picture of his big brother pinned on his lapel.

The bleacher gates were opened at 10 o'clock. A mad stampede started, but was quickly smothered by an avalanche of cops, who rushed the unruly by sheer weight of numbers and subdued them.

To the cheering of a big crowd lining the shore and the tooting of boat whistles, Georges Carpentier sailed down Manhasset bay today on the private yacht Lone Star, en route to Jersey City.

A light misty rain broke through the heavy clouds at the stadium at 9 a. m. today, but ceased falling at 9:25.

The woman's fan championship was won by Miss Martha O'Hare, New York. Miss O'Hare, a singer, was thirteenth in line. She picked Dempsey in three rounds.

The fight fan championship of the world goes to Alfred Phipps, colored, Phipps, a native of New York city, was in line before one of the bleacher seat ticket wagons at 10:15 last night.

At 11:40 a. m. Tex Rickard announced positively that the big fight would start at 3 p. m., rain or shine.

Charles Rosenbloom, a 17-year-old "newsie" of Memphis, Tenn., won the admiration of thousands who saw him by taking fourth place in the general admission line. Rosenbloom has no legs. He rested on his crutches and smiled cheerfully when anyone spoke to him.

Resolution for Formal Peace With Germany, Allies Approved

Chief Executive Signs Measure Terminating Technical Hostilities.

RARITAN, N. J., July 2.—The resolution of Congress declaring war with Germany and Austria-Hungary at an end was signed here late today by President Harding.

The conference report on the peace resolution was adopted by the Senate yesterday by a vote of 38 to 19, following favorable action on the measure by the House Thursday. The report was then sent back to the House to be signed by the Speaker in regular session. A moment later it was back again before the Senate, where Vice-President Coolidge attached his signature. It was then sent at once to the White House.

ALL RIGHTS ARE RESERVED BY U. S.

The resolution as finally adopted by Congress merely declares the war with Germany and Austria at an end and reserves to the United States all rights and privileges which this nation would have obtained under the Treaty of Versailles. The provisions repealing the declaration of war was stricken out because of the contention of House members that it might be construed as a repudiation of the war.

The Senate Republicans presented a solid front in favor of the peace resolution. All of the nineteen votes against it were cast by Democrats. Three Democrats—Shields of Tennessee, Walsh of Massachusetts, and Watson of Georgia—supported the resolution, while several others, including Reed of Missouri, were paired in favor of it.

AMERICAN TROOPS TO BE RETURNED.

Democratic Senators wanted to know if the American troops would be brought back from Germany upon the proclamation of peace.

"It is my hope and my expectation," said Senator Brandegee, "that the troops will be returned from Germany as soon as the President signs his resolution. If the troops are in Germany to enforce the terms of the Versailles treaty, as some of my Democratic colleagues have intimated, then there is all the more reason—and my desire for it is all the greater—that they may be returned. My highest hope is that America may get back to a peace status with Germany and mind her own business as far as Europe will allow us to do so."

Railway Leaders Are Firm Against Strike

By CARL VICTOR LITTLE,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, July 2.—The majority of the two million railroad workers were held at bay today by conservative leadership. Rail union leaders, meeting here to decide what action to take on the 12 per cent wage cut ordered by the United States Railroad Labor Board, stood out against a walkout in spite of the fact that members of unions are overwhelmingly opposed to the wage slash.

In railroad circles today it was believed that the will of the leaders would prevail—that they would prevent a railroad crisis in spite of the $400,000,000 annual pay reduction.

THREE HOMES ARE BURNED IN BERKELEY

Blaze Starts in Residence of Prof. E. P. Lewis and Spreads to Group of Structures; Oakland Sends Aid

Several Hundred Children Are Marched From Deaf and Blind School When the Institution Seems Menaced

Flames that climbed the slopes and rose so high in the air that they could be seen from all points in Berkeley this afternoon destroyed the home of Prof. E. P. Lewis on Panoramic way, and are threatening the group of frame residences that are closely grouped nearby.

Three alarms were turned in to the Berkeley fire department, and at 3 o'clock this afternoon every company in Berkeley and four from Oakland were on the scene.

Hope was given out that the fire could be confined to the Lewis home, but the intense heat, flying sparks, and the fact that most of the houses near are of light wood construction make the menace of a serious conflagration serious and apparent.

Several hundred children at the California School for the Deaf and Blind were marched out, so close did the flames and the dense clouds of smoke come to the grounds of the institution. It was said at 2:15 o'clock that three residences had been destroyed and that roof fires were threatening others.

Light water pressure is making it difficult for the fire department to win headway in the fight.

Nine Arrested For Kidnaping Kate O'Hare

Socialist Carried Off On Eve of Lecture is Released in Nevada.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

OGDEN, Utah, July 2.—Kate O'Hare, Socialist lecturer, who was forcibly taken from Twin Falls, Idaho, last night, was released at Montello, Nevada several hours later, and at once had nine of her alleged kidnapers arrested by a deputy sheriff there, according to the assistant chief despatcher of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, who was in touch with Montello, Nev., by wire.

BOISE, Idaho, July 2.—Mrs. Kate O'Hare was kidnaped at Twin Falls last night. She was taken from the home of H. H. Friedheim, who had arranged for her to deliver a lecture at Twin Falls Friday night.

Accounts of the abduction stated that about twenty men appeared at the Friedheim home and quietly removed Mrs. O'Hare to an automobile. Later reports from Hollister, Idaho, about twenty miles south of Twin Falls, were to the effect that several automobiles passed rapidly through Hollister, headed south, presumably toward Wells, Nev.

Mrs. O'Hare was believed to be in one of the machines. She was pardoned by President Wilson after she had served fourteen months of a sentence for violation of the espionage law. None of the members of the party who escorted the woman out of Twin Falls was identified and officials professed ignorance of her destination.

WOMAN'S HUSBAND ACCUSES LEGION MEN.

PITTSBURG, Kan., July 2.—Frank P. O'Hare of Girard, husband of Mrs. Kate Richards O'Hare, and manager of her speaking tours, made in the interest of the Socialist party, in a telephone communication to this city early this morning, expressed little fear for the safety of his wife, who was last night kidnaped at Twin Falls, Idaho.

Expressing his opinion of the abduction O'Hare stated that many such attempts have been made to prevent the speeches of his wife, and that the one at Twin Falls just happened to be successful.

Speaking of her abductors, the husband said he was in a position to name them and that they were "tools" of the Chamber of Commerce in a leading city of Minnesota, which organization, he said, has been opposing her lecture tours for several years. He refused to give the names of the men who kidnaped Mrs. O'Hare, but said they were members of the American Legion, and that the authorities in Twin Falls knew who they were.

RAN FOR CONGRESS; CONVICTED OF SEDITION.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 2.—Kate Richards O'Hare formerly lived in Kansas City, Kan., and in 1910 she ran for Congress from the Second Kansas congressional district on the Socialist ticket. Later she went to St. Louis and edited a Socialist publication, the Buzz Saw.

Arena Resembles Big Soup-Plate With 90,000 Flies Spread Over It.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1921, by International News Service.)

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 2.—Imagine a soup plate with 90,000 flies rapidly settling on its surface.

You have imagined the gathering of beauty as it looks at half-past twelve, daylight saving time.

Two unimportant fellows—"Irish Johnny" Curtin and Mickey Delmont—both of Jersey City, are fighting to kill "time."

Mickey is bleeding at the nose Both wear green trunks. Nobody notices them. They are not what the crowd came forth to see.

"Mickey," by the way, is a Jewish gentleman, according to Damon Runyon. His name and green trunks are camouflage.

"They'll have bigger cauliflower ears after this," says Runyon

EVERYBODY WHO'S WHO SEEMS ABOUT RING.

Almost everybody you ever heard of, among them those who seek notoriety and amount to little, is here. Some of a different class—not many.

How does the fighting look? The four posts are of heavy iron. The floor is of white canvas The blood will show clearly on it

Pete the Goat is in the ring back of Packey O'Gatty.

Here's hoping he wins his eight rounds, but not wishing any harm to Frankie Burns, who was a good featherweight in his day.

This soup plate sems to be about a third of a mile in diameter and one mile round The featherweights are still fighting here gently.

Packy O'Gatty is not getting the luck wished for him.

How do they fight? It is hardly worth telling. They step around and swing their arms and stab at short range "Old" Burns feels his 30 years and, knowing the tricks, rests his head on Packey's chest every little while until the referee tells them "Break!"

Suggestion for patriots, both Irish and American. If Dempsey should be beaten, we can all remember that he is only half Irish The other half is North American Indian The Irish can say, "It was the Indian half of him that lost."

The American can say, "Well we licked all the Indians: it is not so wonderful that a Frenchman should lick half an Indian."

The band is playing, "I've Got the Home Again Blues."

It is beginning to rain, very light. It won't stop the fight.

David Belasco has just arrived "to see the first fight I ever saw." Miss Lenore Ulrich is with him. She may be forgiven, for she's an actress and ladies of the stage must study all emotions. Great painters, Leonardo, for instance, went to see men and women tortured, wanted to study the facial and neck muscles that express agony

Belasco will get an idea out of all this, which is more than you can say for most of the other 90,000. You understand, of course that this is written at the ringside, as events progress You are free to skip to the big fight, which will come farther on For your guidance it will be marked with a sub-head, in big letters, "The Fight."

GREATEST CROWD IN HISTORY VIEWS TITLE CONTEST

Every Seat in Big Arena At Jersey City Taken When Preliminaries Began.

and Joe Metranga—will be started at one o'clock eastern daylight savings time All of the preliminaries were carded for eight rounds, with no delay between bouts The other bouts were.

Packey O'Gatty vs Frankie Burns; Dick Griffin vs Midget Smith; Jackie Curtin vs Mickey Delmont or Willie Spencer; Gene Tyney vs. Soldier Jones, Jack Renault vs. Billy Miske.

The principals were due to enter the ring at 3 o'clock eastern daylight saving time, although Tex Rickard, the promoter, promised to bring them a few minutes earlier if the preliminaries were disposed of before that time

RICKARD'S MINSTREL BAND MAKES HIT.

In reporting fights in New Jersey newspaper correspondents indicate at the close of each round the respective merits of the boxers, but these expressions of the trend of the fight are merely the personal opinions of the persons rendering them and are without official basis or authority of any kind

Tex Rickard's wandering minstrel band made a hit. Garbed in snowy white jackets they wandered in the morning from ringside to rim to make sure no one could escape their jazz

The champion did not let the bout affect his appetite. When the call came for dinner Jack was first "among those present" He ate generous portions of steak, potatoes, string beans and toast and wound up with a large pot of tea.

"He's got a good appetite for a supposedly nervous man," remarked the servant who waited on table

DEMPSEY PLAYS POOL WITH MAYOR BADER.

Before luncheon Dempsey played a game of pool with Mayor Bader of Atlantic City, who accompanied him here from his training quarters Later Mayor Hague of Jersey City and a host of other city officials called

Just before 1 o'clock Jack stole upstairs for an hour's nap before getting ready to go to the ringside.

In accordance with the New Jersey boxing law, no decision was rendered in the preliminaries, but Curtin was generally conceded to have outpointed Delmont in the first tilt The crowd was extraordinary quiet for a fight audience

There was a sigh of relief as the bout ended The crowd arose and stretched after its first taste.

The second bout, between Packey O'Gatty and Frankie Burns, bantamweights, followed immediately

Between rounds there encircled the ring a plump lad of some 100 pounds, with the benig features of a cherub in white ducks He bore aloft a sign proclaiming the round

The crowd still was apathetic, munching its lunch as the preliminaries wended their weary way through the program

ALL SEATS IN ARENA SOLD OUT AT 1:30.

Frankie Burns had an advantage on points in the second eight-round preliminary The referee stopped the Herman-Metranga bout, the third preliminary, in the fifth round when Metranga was hanging helpless on the ropes.

Announcement was made at 1:30 p. m. that "the house was sold out"—meaning that the 91,600 seats were occupied

Governor Edwards and his military staff in full regalia paraded by the house where Dempsey was staying, on foot on their way to the arena. Notified that Dempsey was asleep they did not stop, but waved their hands in greeting to members of the champion's party as they walked by.

Close around the ring were several girls apparently witnessing their first fight.

SIXTH PRELIMINARY STOPPED BY REFEREE.

The fourth bout between Griffin and Coster was stopped in the sixth round when Coster was kneeling on the floor.

At 2:15 there arrived at the ringside for Dempsey a great floral horseshoe inscribed "Success." It was composed of red carnations and gladiolas

Dempsey was given a rousing cheer by a crowd of several thousand persons as he started for the arena at 2:35 p m.

Escorted by Shief of Police Bentley the champion entered an auto and preceded by a squad of motorcycle policemen he was driven to the arena through a lane of cheering admirers. Dempsey smiled and waved his hand in friendly greetings to the crowd.

The champion entered one of the Tremont street entrances of the arena, virtually unobserved at 2:40 p. m.

A large crowd that had gathered on Montgomery street, expecting him to enter the saucer on that side, was disappointed.

The fifth preliminary was stopped in the seventh when Soldier Jones was hanging in a defenseless condition on the ropes.

Dempsey reached the arena at 2.50 p. m.

When Dempsey entered the Fremont street entrance he found he was heading for Carpentier's dressing room instead of his own and he immediately emerged from the structure and entered the Florence street entrance.

Air Raid Sirens Will Give Fight Result to Paris

By WEBB MILLER,
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, July 2.—The air raid sirens of Paris, silent since the last time boche aviators bombed the city, will shriek the news of Carpentier's or Dempsey's victory tonight.

Three siren blasts — Dempsey wins.

Twelve siren blasts—Carpentier wins.

Three million in Paris gathered in resutarants, theaters, clubs, sidewalk cafes and in thousands of homes, will begin listening for the siren at 8 p. m. (3 p. m. Jersey City time).

When the whistling begins, if it stops at three blasts, the heart of Paris will drop to the depths of despair. But if the tooting goes on announcing a Carpentier victory—the lid will fly sky high.

Governor Refuses Ticket to Fight

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—Governor Sproule of Pennsylvania, who wos invited by Gov. Edwards of New Jersey to be his guest at the big fight, said today he would not attend because he does not believe the people of Pennsylvania would like it.

BANK TELLER NOW OVER HIS TROUBLE

S R. Brown, well-known teller in the Commercial National Bank, residing at 1332 West 58th place, Los Angeles, California, is among the latest to come forward with his unqualified endorsement of Tanlac In discussing the medicine at the Owl Drug Store recently, Mr Brown said:

"Tanlac helped me so quickly it was really a surprise to me. I came to California about a year and a half ago, in the hope that the change in climate would be beneficial to my health; but regardless of the change and of everything I took in trying to get relief from my troubles, I did not improve I had been in poor health ever since I had a severe case of influenza, and could hardly eat anything or sleep enough to give me my rest I was so weak when I got home from work that I often felt too exhausted to even try to eat my dinner.

"My wife urged me to try Tanlac, and finally I began taking it with the result that my appetite improved and in a little while I was really enjoying my meals My strength came back rapidly, and now I am so strong I can stay on my feet all day without feeling fatigued In fact, last Sunday I was out walking nearly all day and came home feeling fine My physical condition is so much improved that I don't hesitate to give Tanlac my unqualified endorsement I shall always keep a bottle in the house It certainly proved to be the right medicine for me"

Tanlac is sold in Oakland by the Owl Drug Company and leading druggists.—Advertisement.

NIMBLE GEORGES UNABLE TO MEET DEMPSEY WEIGHT

Good Little Man Is Defeated by Good Big Man; That's Whole Story.

By JAMES J. CORBETT,
Former Heavyweight Champion.
(Written for the International News Service.)
(Copyright, 1921, by International News Service.)

RINGSIDE, JERSEY CITY, July 2.—Old, old story. A good big man whips a good little man.

Carpentier today, although defeated, proved he was positively no false alarm.

His friends do not need to be ashamed of him, and his country can well be proud of him, because as an ex-champion of the world I can truthfully say that he is one of the swiftest and gamest light heavyweights that I have ever seen in my life. He was licked by Dempsey today because Dempsey was a bigger and stronger man.

CARPENTIER GOT TIRED.

Carpentier got tired, that was all. He lost his strength and punch because he could not rough it with Dempsey or stand up against a man of Dempsey's type, who hits hard with both hands

In the first round it looked about even. In the second round Carpentier had Dempsey groggy without any question of doubt with a right hand punch to the jaw, and it looked like Dempsey was a licked man.

After this Carpentier got tired and could not stand the strain of roughing it with Dempsey. From that time on it was all Dempsey. It was just a question of how long Carpentier could go.

All the reports about Dempsey not being in condition proved untrue.

The champion showed that he was a champion. He came back strong after being groggy in the second round He went through the storm and came out of it very gracefully

When Dempsey is right it would take SOME man to beat him

His short punches are terrific and he proved he is game and cool under fire.

DEMPSEY HAS CLOSE CALL.

Although he had a close call today, especially if Carpentier had been a little bit heavier and could have kept up the pace he started in the second round, you would have seen some fight, although as it was it was very good. Dempsey is champion. He's a regular champion. Good luck to him.

The crowd, I think, was well paid for all the trouble it took in getting over to this monster arena. Today it was short, as I predicted it might be, especially if Dempsey won, but it was very sweet while it lasted. Every minute of it was a thrill. There was nothing brutal about it. The fight was fair in every way. It was a shame that all the reformers in the world were not in the audience today to see it. It would convert all of them in favor of boxing.

Oregon Legionaries Backing Carpentier

EUGENE Ore, July 2.—"We want the 'Frog' to win," say Oregon's legionaries. From the annual convention of the Oregon department of the American Legion a telegram was sent to Theodore Roosevelt asking him to convey to the ringside the department's best wishes to Carpentier. "If Dempsey is a slacker, I hope he will get a good beating tomorrow," said State Commander W. S Gilbert of Astoria.

SCENARIO WRITER OF HOLLYWOOD TO WED DEMPSEY

NEW YORK, July 2.—"I will marry Jack Dempsey either tonight or tomorrow, no matter how the fight comes out," said Miss Sylvia Jocelyn of Hollywood, Cal., to an International News Service reporter, when seen at the Hotel Belmont at noon today. Her statement was the first confirmation of the persistent report that the champion intends boarding the good ship Matrimony. Miss Jocelyn is a scenario writer and met Dempsey while the latter was making his moving pictures in Los Angeles.

GRIFFITH'S "DREAM STREET" AND HIS FIRST FEATURE ARE HELD THIRD WEEK AT FRANKLIN

Scene from the artistic triumph which represents D. W. Griffith at the zenith of his power—his 500th picture—years ahead of "the product of the movie mill."

Record-breaking crowds, jamming the New Franklin Theater daily and each evening for the two weeks originally set aside for the showing of "Dream Street" have forced the New Franklin management to hold the program for a third and final week, ending next Friday night

"Dream Street" is the last word in photoplay making—different, artistic, beautiful, and so thoroughly interesting as to carry audiences away from the humdrum world to a strange street where big things of life take place

The story is of Gypsy Fair, a graceful dancer of London's Limehouse, and of two brothers whose devotion to each other is tested when each finds that the other loves the girl. A powerful climax, in which one brother makes the supreme sacrifice in a man's power for the sake of the other and the girl, make the picture one to be remembered always Griffith's first feature, by way of showing the improvement in pictures in the past twelve years, features Mary Pickford Owen Moore, Mack Sennett and a dozen celebrities.—Advertisement.

COUPLE PARKED IN CAR VICTIMS OF HOLD-UP TRIO

Charles Bernlardy and Woman Companion Lose $25, Gold Watch.

Police are today conducting a search for three armed bandits who last night held up Charles Bernlardy, 6257 Marmon street, and a young woman as they were sitting in a parked automobile at Fruitvale and Alameda avenues, securing $25, a gold watch and a wallet containing valuable papers. The bandits compelled Bernlardy and his companion to keep their hands up while they searched them.

"There's no cause for a fight or an argument," said the leader of the bandit trio. "We're going to get what you've got."

Bernlardy and the young woman, whose name the police were unable to ascertain, were driving in the former's automobile last night.

Bernlardy parked the car at Fruitvale and Alameda avenues, and the couple remained in the machine.

Three men, described by Bernlardy as being between the ages of 18 and 21 and poorly dressed, leaped out of the shadows and ordered the couple to throw up their hands.

They searched the motorist and his companion and then vanished, after warning them not to report the matter to the police.

Harvey Right About League, Says Butler

LONDON, July 2. (By the Associated Press.)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, has emphasized to all inquirers here that he had not come to Europe as "President Harding's Colonel House," and that any suggestion to that effect was preposterous.

In an informal talk yesterday, Dr. Butler said:

"Ambassador Harvey told the Pilgrims and the world of America's definite decision. But, despite his assurances that it was absurd to believe that the United States might yet be beguiled into the league, I have found many in England still cherishing the idea that this is not really the case. These people cite as justification of their views letters they have received in considerable number from friends of the league in the United States, telling them that the reported rejection of the league is nothing but political by-play, and that in the end the United States will certainly join.

"I am of the opinion expressed by some prominent British spokesmen that any misunderstanding on this point is mischievous. I have therefore concluded that the best thing to do is to tell such folks simply and bluntly that Harvey spoke the real truth, and I'm doing it."

JEWELRY STOLEN.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.— Burglars entering through a fire escape, obtained jewelry to the amount of $710 from Miss Mollie McClure, 1242 Sacramento street, while she was in the theater last night.

Will These Features Appear

Europe is sick, says William Bird, and the political doctors in attendance do nothing to improve the patient. In fact their method of treatment leads to serious doubt as to ultimate recovery. From Ireland to the Far East, he says, there is an uninterrupted chain of diplomatic and political blunders. Meantime there are calls to America for help—financial help. But one may inquire, says Bird, as to what has been done with the money already advanced.

Europe is still under the sway of old ideas, is the assertion of Maximillian Harden, German publicist, who takes a pessimistic view of the situation. He declares that unrest, discontent and intrigue is everywhere and possibilities of new wars are freely discussed. Cunning alliances are being prepared and he believes the only hope lies in prompt action by the United States

Final settlement of the Aland islands controversy between Sweden and Finland is held by George R. Barnes, former member of the British war cabinet, to be a great achievement of the League of Nations. The Silesian situation, he says, is brightening, but war clouds obscure the Far Eastern sun; the fate of thousands of Christians depends on the success of the new Greek offensive in Asia Minor; the Irish question is at a critical stage.

On the eve of the anniversary of American independence, Andre Tardieu, former French commissioner to the United States, reviews events of the last five years, taking a gloomy view of the result. The allies, he declares, have not compelled the Germans to live up to their obligations, but he believes that the common sense of the people will prevail and the problem yet will be solved.

Ralph Barton says that agriculture is in such a condition that Secretary Wallace is considering steps to place the industry on a sounder business basis. He is seeking some means to lessen the speculative risk that the farmer faces each year with his crops.

Harden Colfax gives out the cheerful prediction that building construction, key log in the business jam, is about to move and with the resumption of activity in this industry will come prosperity for the entire nation. Material, labor and other costs are on the downward grade, while the demand for homes is increasing. Altogether, Colfax reports, the outlook is bright.

Several of President Harding's intimate friends and advisers in the Senate will go before the people for re-election next year, says Robert T. Small. Some of them are in danger and the President will use his personal influence and efforts to save them from disaster.

Stuart P. West believes that Wall street has seen its worst and that bottom has been reached in prices for the general run of stocks. Many shares are advancing while bonds are experiencing a vigorous upward swing. The credit situation is encouraging and prospects are bright for easier money.

Robert C. Benchley, associate editor of Life, has an amusing reference to the big fight and Jessie Henderson says that the Jersey City affair is regarded in New York as a society event, women of much prestige having engaged seats at the ringside.

The second chapter of Frederick O'Brien's great story of the Pacific land of adventure, "Mystic Isles of the South Seas" will feature the magazine section.

"America's Oldest Rodeo" will link up history of the past with the present, showing that the famous American cowboy fiesta had its birth in the valleys of California. The oldest rodeo in America is that at Livermore.

"The Jute Mill and Other Prison Industries," by George C. Henderson, takes one through the gates of San Quentin and Folsom and reveals new facts about our prisons.

John Augustine Cull continues his fascinating California romance, "The Bride of Mission San Jose."

Geraldine discusses "The Girl Who Paid." Edith Johnson continues her serial, "Would You Marry Your Husband Over Again?" Andrew Carnegie tells of his association with great men in his "Autobiography."

The Knave throws light on events of the week in original and entertaining style.

Marines Beaten by Strike Sympathizers

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Mistaken in the darkness for strike-breakers, Bailey A. Frazier and Martin Saedeke, United States Marines from Mare Island, were set upon by twenty men and beaten on the waterfront early today. The two sailors came here for the Fourth of July celebration and crossed over from Oakland on the last boat. They had never been in San Francisco before and were walking along Jackson street near Front in search of a hotel, when the attack occurred. Frazier sufferd a lacerated scalp and an injury to his nose. Saedeke was practically unhurt and escorted his companion to the Harbor Emergency hospital.

HEART MASSAGE FAILS.

MINOT, N. D., July 2.—Massage of the heart by hand failed to revive Miss Rose Ahearn, a 19-year-old nurse, who was drowned here in the Mouse river. Upon failure of a pulmotor to revive her, an operation permitting the hand massage of the heart was performed.

COUPLE LEAVE FOR LAKE.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clifton Ernst left today to spend the holidays at Lake Tahoe. They were joined at Sacramento by a party of friends.

LEGITIMACY OF GUY, MOTIVE OF STILLMAN ACTION

Banker Is Silent Regarding Alleged Bribes Paid to Witnesses.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 2.—James A. Stillman, former president of the National City Bank, was willing that Mrs. "Fifi" Stillman should get a divorce from him and he started his divorce action against her only because he was advised by counsel that the legitimacy of Guy Stillman youngest son of Mrs. Stillman could be attacked in no other way

This was brought out at the hearing before Referee Gleason yesterday by questions asked Stillman by William Rand of his counsel, which Referee Gleason would not permit him to answer. Although the referee's ruling prevented even the questions being made part of the record, the series indicated clearly that Stillman's main motive in starting his suit was to have Guy adjudged illegitimate and thus prevented from sharing in the $7,000,000 trust fund established by the will of the late James Stillman father of James A Stillman.

It was explained later that the prearranged questions furnished another clear indication that Stillman and his attorneys, like Mrs. Stillman and her attorneys, consider the legitimacy of Guy the principal issue in the case.

"Did you have all the information which you now have and which caused you to start this action at the time you were making these gifts to your wife?" his attorney asked

"I did not," Stillman replied.

An effort to show that witnesses for Stillman had been bribed was made by John E. Mack, guardian ad litem for Guy, during his cross-examination of Stillman.

"Do you know a man named Lafontaine in Grand Piles?" Stillman was asked.

"Yes," he replied.

"Did you meet him in Montreal?"

"Yes."

"You were in the company of Mr. Sullivan?"

"Yes."

"Was the question of witnesses brought up?"

"I refuse to answer that on the ground that it might tend to incriminate me." Stillman replied.

"Did you authorize the payment of money to witnesses?" Mack asked.

Stillman refused to answer.

"Did you authorize an effort to bribe witnesses?" Mack asked.

"I refuse to answer," Stillman again replied.

Most of the morning session was devoted to legal arguments before it was decided to adjourn the hearing to July 13, 14 and 15, and July 28 and 29, to hold no hearings during the month of August and to fix a date for the resumption early in September at the July 29 session.

Brennan and Mack were said to have more than sixty witnesses to testify for Mrs. Stillman. It was said to be Mack's intention to put on about four witnesses to show that Mr. and Mrs. Stillman were together during the period before Guy's birth and then to move to have Guy adjudged legitimate.

If this motion should be granted, only the divorce action proper would be left to try out, and Mr. Stillman would be left, it was said, without the issue which caused him to bring the suit.

SINKING SPELLS OF LAKE BOATS MAY BE SERIOUS

Triumphant despite scorn, jeers and profanity, which echoed in their vicinity less than half a year ago, the rowboats and whaleboats on Lake Merritt are now being transformed by a master craftsman into proud dreadnaughts and stately cruisers, prepared to battle for freedom or something on Lake Merritt during the magnificent air-naval pageant July 4.

Last winter, all those boats could do was sink. They sank unanimously and with great regularity every time a heavy rain came, and there was plenty of rain. The boats piled up and went under. Later they were pumped out by an overworked boat-house crew and floated till the next rain when they sank again. This kept up all winter. They sank and sank and sank.

The Fourth of July committee, in planning its pageant, decided to transform those boats into warships which will be attacked by Eddie Rickenbacher and other bomb-dropping aviators, who will fly over the lake and perform a spectacular destruction of the splendid fleet

Boat house employees, however, are betting on the boats

"The airman don't understand what they're up against," declare the pessimistic boatmen. "Our boats only sink when it rains."

SUMMERLINE GETS "33," BUT ONLY FOR HIS HAT

MEXICO CITY, July 2. George T. Summerlin, American charge d'affaires here, was recently given "33" at a reception tendered by President Obregon, much to the amusement of the chief executive and the charge.

Summerlin received it when he checked his hat before entering the reception hall and as he approached the president he displayed the ticket and inquired if there was anything personal meant.

President Obregon immediately saw the humor of the situation and promptly introduced the United States diplomatic representative as the latest victim of the well-known Article Thirty-three.

This article of the Mexican constitution provides for the immediate expulsion without trial of "pernicious foreigners," and to receive "33" is a fate that all foreigners who wish to remain here avoid.

Tokyo to Spread Out Over 10-Mile Radius

TOKYO, July 2.—If present plans are carried out, Tokyo will, in thirty years, by absorption of its suburbs, have a population of seven and a half millions. A circle is to be drawn with the Tokyo central railroad station as its center and all towns within a radius of ten miles will be taken into the new metropolis. Twenty-six towns and 56 villages will be absorbed.

BLANKS FURNISHED.

4. Upon application from ex-soldiers, the officers mentioned in paragraph 2 will furnish blank forms, will assist in the preparation of applications, will carefully examine all papers or instructions on the forms in question and will themselves promptly forward the completed applications or statement directly to the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C

The Pershing order is expected to go far toward relieving a situation caused by the lack of an adequate organization of soldier relief agencies. The pending Sweet bill, creating a veterans' bureau, is designed to provide an adequate organization.

SWEET BILL DELAY.

Congress adjourned until next Tuesday, however, without any move by Senator Smoot to call a meeting of the sub-committee before which the Sweet bill, passed by the House, is pending. He said he would call the members of the sub-committee together on short notice next week, at which time he "hopes to hold hearings" on the measure as the first step toward putting it through the Senate.

The inadequacy of the hospitalization program authorized by Congress is already apparent. There are nearly 30,000 ex-service men now undergoing treatment and the applications for care are increasing at the rate of 1000 a month. In the Army, Navy and Public Health Service hospitals there are nearly 18,000 discharged soldiers receiving treatment while approximately 11,000 more are scattered through 800 or 900 State, county and private institutions on a contract basis

FACILITIES INADEQUATE.

Surgeon-General Cumming of the Public Health Service says there are 10,000 ex-service men in hospitals lacking facilities for proper care. It will take from one to two years to complete all the Government hospitals now under construction or projected and these will furnish less than 10,000 additional beds. By that time the demands will far exceed the Government facilities and it still will be necessary to farm out patients to State, county and private institutions.

GIRL DEFIES ZION ON DRESS AND IS UPHELD

ZION CITY, Ill., July 2.—Mrs. Sarah Johnson, who is 19 and pretty, stood up in court yesterday and defied Wilbur Glenn Voliva and his dressing laws. She was arrested recently when she appeared on the street wearing a shirtwaist that was cut out, according to Zion City specifications.

"I bought it in Mr. Voliva's store," she told the jury. "If he policemen arrest one for wearing the clothes he sells, what is a poor girl going to do?"

The prosecutor suggested that she should have read the ordinance, which was posted on every tree

"I am going to keep on wearing this waist as long as I please," she said. "And Voliva and his police can't stop me."

The jury agreed with her and reprimanded the new ordinance against the law that says women and girls must not expose their knees or their throats

SCHOOL BUILDS MOVING STANDS FOR AUDIENCES

Here is the latest in school equipment: a portable bleacher seating 750 persons which can be set up in ten minutes.

The manual training department of Claremont school has evolved the creation, which has neither nuts nor bolts. At present it is being used in the auditorium of the school for the benefit of audiences at school gatherings but the supervisors are now considering the use of such a structure on the athletic fields of the city.

For some time there has been agitation for bleachers at several of the school grounds, especially at Bushrod park and in the grounds where the school track teams compete. It is believed that Claremont's movable bleachers may solve the problem.

If each school brings along a light, portable bleacher and sets it up for its own crowd there is no limit to the seating capacity at any athletic gathering, it is held

The school department is advising serious study of Claremont's innovation.

SENTENCED FOR BRIBERY.

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—Walter Lips, formerly a deputy sheriff of Los Angeles county, was sentenced yesterday to serve from one to fourteen years in the state prison at San Quentin after conviction of accepting a bribe to free a prisoner under arrest. Notice of appeal was given.

FLEET DIVISION WILL ASSIST IN FOURTH FESTIVAL

San Francisco Prepares Program of Entertainment for Officers and Men.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2 — Dances and automobile rides throughout the city will be some of the means of entertainment for the officers and men of a division of the Pacific fleet, consisting of three battleships, twelve destroyers, a cruiser, a plane tender and eleven sea planes which dropped anchor in the San Francisco bay yesterday to await July 4, when it will take part in the Independence Day celebration. The fleet will remain here over July 5 to take part in the Diamond carnival.

The vessels under command of Vice-Admiral Clarence S. Williams, were manned by a crew of 9000 men. Admiral E. W. Eberle commander of the Pacific fleet will raise his flag upon the battleship New Mexico, his flag ship upon his arrival here July 5.

Thousands of persons stood on the crest of Telegraph hill and watched the giant fighting craft steam slowly through Golden Gate to their anchorage in San Francisco bay. Other crowds watched the arrival of the armada from Land's End. Flying in column formation, the sea planes heralded the approach of the fleet. The Tennessee led the armada. Just after her came the flagship New Mexico. The great battleships hardly came into full view, when the cruiser Charleston, mothership of the flotilla of destroyers, appeared. Then three abreast came the slender destroyers.

Gradually the ships formed in single line and as they passed Alcatraz island one gray hull came in the wake of another. A variety of water craft greeted the men of war. Liners from the Orient were docked at the wharves, tiny sail boats fluttered their white canvas in the breeze and ferries plowed their way through the water as the warships steamed toward Man of War Row, where they anchored.

A round of gayety has been planned for the officers and men from the ships during their stay here. Dances and automobile rides through the city will be features of the entertainment. Visitors will go aboard the hospital ship Mercy, which carries 300 sick and wounded sailors, with flowers and magazines.

The following are the vessels that came in:

The battle-ships New Mexico, Tennessee and Mississippi; the cruiser Charleston; the plane-tender Aroostook; the hospital ship Mercy; the destroyers Lamberton, Badford, Montgomery, Breese, Gamble, Ramsay, Parrott, Edsall, McCleish, Simpson, Crane and Crosby.

Pacific Gas and Electric Company

A California Corporation with More than 12,000 California Stockholders

Offers Its First Preferred Stock—to Yield 7½% on the Investment

For Californa investors this stock combines, in a pre-eminent degree, the element of safety with a number of special advantages due to the present unusually favorable investment conditions

1. Factors of Safety

(1) The Company Supplies Every-day Necessities. Its business is, therefore, inherently stable and has increased in every single year of the Company's history, regardless of fluctuating general business conditions. In the seven years since the Company's first offering of this stock to its customers, it has added 220,000 new customers, invested $40,350,000 of new capital in additional facilities, and increased its business by $18,600,000. It is today the second largest public utility of its kind in the United States, and does 40% of the entire gas and electric business in California.

(2) It Occupies an Unexcelled Business Field. California is one of the wealthiest and most rapidly growing of the forty-nine States. Its population of 3,426,861 represents an increase of 1,049,312, or 44%, in the last ten years. The Company's business field, in which 578,397 consumers were being served on May 31, 1921, includes more than one-half of this population.

(3) Sixty-seven Years of Experience are Back of its Trained Organization of more than 6,800 employees, a large number of whom are also stockholders. Its properties and service are maintained at a high standard.

(4) Dividends Have Been Consistently Earned by a Large and Increasing Margin—

Available for Preferred Dividends for last five years	$16,460,000
Dividends Paid on Preferred Stock	7,643,000
Surplus Over Dividends—Margin of Safety	$8,817,000

These results during the unfavorable war and readjustment period are a convincing demonstration of such stability of earning power as assures uninterrupted income. Recent earnings have been as follows:

THREE YEARS' EARNINGS

Year	Surplus Avaiable for Dividends	Preferred Stock Dividends	Balance
1918	$3,071,303	$1,490,463	$1,580,840
1919	3,340,353	1,528,961	1,811,392
1920	3,919,950	1,777,933	2,142,026
*1921	4,298,867	1,917,756	2,381,111

*12 months to May 31, 1921.

(5) Dividends on Preferred Stock Paid Continuously Since 1909.

(6) A Consistently Strong Financial Position, with ample cash resources, has been the Company's policy for years. Cash balances during the past five years have averaged more than $3,000,000, and at May 31, 1921, amounted to more than $8,400,000.

(7) The Equity Back of this Preferred Stock, measured by the market value of the Company's common stock, exceeds $17,500,000. This indicates a property value equal to $150 per share of First Preferred Stock.

(8) Supervision of the Railroad Commission of California, which also extends to new capital issues and the use of the proceeds derived therefrom, serves to protect the interests alike of consumers, investors and the Company. The proceeds from this issue of stock will be expended for income-producing additions and extensions, including extensive hydro-electric developments now under way, aggregating 137,000 H. P., which will place the Company's production on a still sounder economic basis and result in substantial reductions in operating costs.

2. Special Advantages

(1) An Immediate and Direct Return of 7½% is received by the investor in this preferred stock.

(2) It Is Non-assessable.

(3) It Is Free from All State, County and Municipal Taxes in California, except inheritance taxes.

(4) It Is Exempt from the Normal Federal Individual Income Tax.

(5) It Assures a Continuation of the Liberal Return obtainable under the present favorable market conditions, as distinguished from short term investments which may, and many of which probably will be redeemed when opportunities for reinvestment are not as advantageous as at present.

(6) Dividends Are Paid at Convenient Intervals—four times a year, on the 15th day of February, May, August and November.

(7) Established Markets for this Stock in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and other financial centers make it acceptable security to banks for loans. It is, therefore, an excellent medium for the investment of private and business reserve funds.

(8) Conversion of the Stock Into Cash may be readily accomplished because of its established market.

(9) Investment May Be Made in Any Amount from one share upward.

(10) Information Regarding the Company Is at All Times Available to stockholders.

(11) The Development of California and of the communities in which we live will be aided by investment in this stock.

Dividends $6.00 per share per annum, payable at the rate of $1.50 per share every three months by check mailed to stockholders.

OPTIMISTS TOLD SCHOOL STATE'S BEST 'FACTORIES'

Montana Attorney, Addressing Club Here, Gives Travel Impressions.

While business and financial men of the state of California are manufacturing material things in the struggle in competition and trade, they must not forget the greatest and most important factories in the state—the schools and universities—G. C. Pease, attorney of Bozeman, Mont., told members of the Optimists' Club at their weekly luncheon at a downtown cafe. Pease is a brother of Dr. J. Loran Pease, former member of the Oakland Board of Education.

During his talk concerning impressions gathered from his trip through California, Pease declared that while New York was the "cosmopolitan city" of the United States, California was the cosmopolitan state.

R. C. Bitterman, president of the club, presided at the meeting. Dave Dutton, chairman of the day introduced the speaker. Plans were made for the club's picnic to be held at Calaveras dam on July 4.

Captain Who Ordered 'No Whistling' Retires

SAN DIEGO, July 2 — Captain William Wirt Gilmer, U. S. N., who attracted national attention two years ago when he aroused the ire of the natives of Guam through the issuance of his famous "no whistling" order, has reached the statutory age limit for retirement from active service. He will not retire to private life until relieved about July 10 by Captain John Church, who is now en route here from Philadelphia.

Captain Gilmer was assigned to duty at San Diego when he was relieved as Governor of Guam by the Navy Department. His house was stoned by the natives and the feeling against the naval governor was so intense that a petition was sent to the Secretary of the Navy asking that the naval officer be removed. The retiring naval officer has been twenty-three years at sea since he graduated from Annapolis in 1880. For the last year he has been president of the examining and court-martial boards at the North Island Naval Air Station.

MISS LUCILE HURLBUT IS A BRIDE.

One of the prettiest events of the season in Piedmont was the wedding of Miss Lucile Hurlbut and Harold K. Langdon last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Caldwell. The spacious rooms were beautifully [illegible] with greenery, pink roses and sweet peas. About fifty guests witnessed the ring ceremony, which was performed by Dr. John Snape, pastor of the First Baptist church of Oakland.

The bride wore a gown of white crepe de chine, enveloped in a veil of silk net which was caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Cecil Bruner roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Marion Meads of this city acted as bridesmaid, her dress being of pink silk trimmed in gold lace. She carried a bouquet of snapdragons and ferns. The two flower girls, Lois Caldwell and Idamae Wells, were charmingly dressed in pink and white and carried baskets of sweet peas tied with white ribbons, thus forming an aisle for the bridal procession. Horace Sturgis attended the groom.

Mrs. A. B. Jones of Modesto played the Wedding March, and Miss Ruth Crandall of Berkeley sang "At Dawning," by Cadman, just preceding the ceremony.

Following the ceremony refreshments were served, the bridal party sitting at the bride's table, in the center of which was a mammoth bouquet of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Langdon left for a brief honeymoon, and will be at home after July 15 at 3748 West street.

The out-of-town guests included Mrs. E. J. Hurlbut, Mrs. J. H. Pratt, O. S. Hurlbut, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Jones, of Modesto, and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Appling of Waterford, all relatives of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Langdon of Sacramento, brother of the groom; also Mrs. A. B. Jones, Miss Bethel Jones and Miss Bernice Hight of Modesto. Miss Elmo Clark of Madera; Miss Mary Brainard of San Jose; Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Brinstad of Healdsburg.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. E. J. Hurlbut of Modesto, and has been the efficient secretary of the First Baptist church the past year. The groom is a representative of the Simonds Mfg. Co. of Fitchburg, Mass., which has a branch office in San Francisco. He served for two years with the 146th Machine Gun Battalion in the recent war, serving in France for eight months and receiving his commission as second lieutenant of infantry. Both the bride and groom have been active in Baptist work in Northern California for several years, having held different offices in connection with the young people's work, and are at present members of the State Executive Committee of B. Y. P. U. work.

Mrs. Langdon has been the motif for several social events since the announcement at a unique party given recently by Mrs. Hugh Thomas.

HOW WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

May Escape the Dreaded Sufferings of That Period by Taking Mrs. Block's Advice

Hopkins, Minn.—"During Change of Life I had hot flashes and suffered for two years. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the paper and got good results from taking it. It has been said that not one woman in a thousand passes this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms. Those dreadful hot flashes, sinking spells, spots before the eyes, dizzy spells, nervousness, are only a few of the symptoms. Cry on Geraldine's Shoulder

Listen, World!

THERE may be two opinions as to whether a university training for a boy pays in academic values, but there isn't a doubt that it's worth its weight in gold if he goes through college for the sake of athletics.

Time was when a knowledge of the classics was of great help in shaping a masculine career. But nowadays the young fellow who gets on doesn't shape his career—he shapes his fellow man. There's the whole pinch. A course in social economics may equip him with some brilliant, after-dinner conversation. But a course in college athletics, conscientiously applied, will give him a strangle hold on life that nothing can break.

You can quote Plato mellifluously and still be no end of a rotter. But if you foul in football you're kicked off the team. If you break training before wrestling, your wind will give out. If you cheat in baseball, the kids in the bleachers will hoot you off the field.

I believe in college athletics for young men because the tests of college athletics are the tests of life. They dig into the essentials of character—self-control, resourcefulness, honesty, an ability to be a mixer, squareness, wholesomeness, humor, patience, grit. College scholarship, on the other hand, merely tests out a man's brain—and that is almost the last tool which a regular fellow uses when he tackles the Big Game.

About the biggest slogan in American-Man-Life of today is—"PLAY BAAALL!"—with all that phrase implies. If you don't know what it implies, you're outta luck, Friend.

I'm proud to state that the following letter made me RIP SNORTING MAD and though it be with my last literary gasp, I'm going gunning for the Johnny that wrote it:

Dear Jerry:

May I be permitted to take exception to your attitude in regard to what you admittedly term "woman's most terrible brand of shame." It is not in the man's power to brand this woman. The brand is there for him either to reveal or conceal before the world's judgment, and we all know what that verdict would be. Society has always demanded chastity of its women; it never has for its men. There is no denying that this is hard, unjust, and cruel, but for the welfare of the human race, since time immemorable, this has been exacted of woman.

The law is clear and those who transgress know the consequences, and man, as you infer, is not alone responsible for this. I know of no harsher, unrelenting judgment than that passed by women on women. If this man finds it in his heart to forgive so much to his credit, if not, he is merely reflecting the world's judgment.

Sincerely yours, B. B.

Jerry's Comment

Do you know what you'd be doing, my lad, were you in some other countries at present? You'd be goading maddened bulls on to gore blinded old horses BECAUSE LOCAL SOCIETY COUNTENANCED IT! Or were you in other places you'd be fastening steel knives to cocks' feet that they might disembowel other fighting fowl. BECAUSE LOCAL SOCIETY COUNTENANCED IT. Or in the days of Nero, you would have been right in the front line burning Christians at the stake, feeding babies to tigers, tearing women limb from limb—BECAUSE IT WAS SOCIALLY CORRECT. It is true I spoke of "Woman's most terrible brand of shame." But I did not speak as you do with smug conviction that since society had "demanded chastity" she was worthy of branding because she had violated the creed. I spoke with scorn and anger, and with a greater vision of justice in my heart than such so-called "society" presents.

Yes—she is branded. BUT WHO MADE HER FIT FOR THAT BRAND? SOME MAN. And by whom would you expect her to be forgiven? BY SOME MAN WHO HAS SINNED A HUNDRED TIMES TO HER ONE. BY A SOCIETY COMPOSED OF OTHER MEN AND WOMEN WHO, FOR THE MOST PART, HAVE BEEN SINNERS THEMSELVES OR SO FORTUNATELY SITUATED THAT THEY HAVE ESCAPED THE TEMPTATIONS OF SIN.

It matters not whether man or woman brand this sinning girl. IN EITHER CASE IT IS ABOMINABLE. And it is just as abominable for an organized mass of people to brand her as for individuals.

Indeed, if you will wake up and look about you you will find that organized masses of people are not branding her. Come out of the arena and put on pants instead of a toga. This is America in 1921. Nowadays people are not stoning those who err. They are studying their sick minds and helping and protecting them. Do you know anything of the work of the Juvenile Courts—of the Schools for Delinquents—of the Binets tests for mental and moral deficiency—of the work of the organized charities in dealing with such weaker ones? There—and not in some torture chamber code, will you find the attitude of MODERN SOCIETY.

The Spirit of Woman

Here's a beautiful letter. With glad enthusiasm I pass it on:

Dear Geraldine:

One of the brightest and most pleasant incentives that have been given to man is the good woman, the virtuous woman. As we shuffle along the dusty road of life, ever shouldering the burden of increasing years that Father Time piles on, our minds sometimes recalls bygone happenings, and always it is the good woman who has inspired, who has lifted us out of the gutter and made us bigger and better humans. From the cradle to the grave our strife-ridden existence is softened by the delicate white hands of woman; the bitterness engendered in our hearts by adversity and even dismal failure is washed away by the kind, gentle and considerate fairer sex. Like the golden incense burned in Paradise woman leads the way and smooths the rough spots for us, the stronger sex.

Pessimists decry the modern girl [illegible], as a follower of Folly and even as a disciple of the Devil, bent on leading men to destruction. Piffle! Tommy-rot! If the men were any account they would seek the clear waters of life and not the muddy and polluted waters—and then because they are covered with slime, they blame the waters into which they wilfully stepped. Life is a game of "take or leave," "do or don't"; and accordingly we pay the price. On the city streets we pass hundreds of modern girls and they are all good in their way; yet because they are attired in the very latest, the cynic shrieks that they are a sorrowful lot. And again we say with you, Jerry, 'Piffle!"

We men are very odd, as a matter of fact we are brimming over with oddities. Since we are odd it is only natural that the better half of humanity should likewise be a trifle queer. The poet, Edgar A. Guest, tells us the truth when he wrote regarding woman:

"There's one thing about here that I know that I know
At weddings or funerals, dinners of taste,
You can bet that her hand will dive into her waist,
And every few minutes she'll strike up a pose
And the whole world must wait if she powders her nose."

This life is much like a hospital where every patient is desirous of changing his bed. One wants to suffer in the sunshine, another prefers some shaded spot and still another craves some darkened corner. "Variety is the spice of life"; but there are many kinds of variety. Some buoy us up, make us happy; others weigh us down and we sink into the mire of misery. Then it is that we wish we were out of life and done with it forever. This is abject pessimism, and out of this pit many cry to you, Geraldine. Sometimes we have noticed that the cry savors of the "Champagne Liz" type, and goes:

"Said a woman's soul to a woman's heart and said:
"I live forever, but dust thou art;
But despite the fire that today doth burn,
Tomorrow you die and to dust return."
And the heart replied to the soul and said:
"Though alive today and tomorrow dead,
My hour of life is worth to me
More than your years of eternity.
For I'll love and I'll laught and I'll sin, and say:
'What doth it matter; The soul will pay.'"

From just such a "Champagne Liz" character, the cynic gets material to construct his assinine sneers. There is absolutely no call for these ever-gushing and painful pseudo-critics: after all, "they are like zebras—either black horses with white stripes or white horses with black stripes. But we know they are not horses—they are asses."

And so in concluding, Geraldine, drink with me in spirt this simple toast of Grape Juice to Ye Gentle Women:

"O, woman! in our hours of ease,
Uncertain, coy, and hard to please,
And variable as the shade
By the light of quivering aspen made;
When pain and anguish wring the brow,
A ministering angel thou!"

HERVE RIEL.

Two Indian Pals

Folks—meet my two little Indian Pals. Are they good fighters? I'll say they are. And if you don't love them instanter you can hop right out of this column and stay out. L. Y. L. A. wrote an immortal insult concerning the American girl. "An American Working Man" trimmed him good an' proper but, unfortunately, used the word "squaw" in doing so. I am sure he did not mean it in its Indian significance—but these two little girls are here with a most delicious remonstrance. Grovel, you "American Working Man" and hurry up about it.

Jerry Dear:

My sister and I read your interesting page in "The TRIBUNE" every night and have read what the "American Working Man" said about L. Y. L. A. and the squaws. We have nothing to say about the latter, but he should not say that a squaw is what L. Y. L. A. needs because they are too good for such as he. We know as we are ¼-breed Indian, and having married American men we figure we are 100 per cent American. Don't you think so, Jerry? There are good and bad among all races—why down the Indians?

Please print this so the American Working Man may read and change his mind.

The Country of Upside Down

By Jack Burroughs

Chapter 14

The Barefoot Procession

ONE of the important public buildings in the City of Head-Over-Heels, capital of the Country of Upside Down, was the Upside Down Hospital.

While Alex and his companions were taking the man with the broken jaw to the hospital, Alex asked Reddy what sort of a place it was and Reddy told him it was almost as large as the hotel which the paper said would burn down on the following day.

"And the Upside Hotel is one of the largest buildings in the whole city," he added.

"What a pity the hotel must burn down tomorrow," Alex sighed. "Are you sure there is no way to save it?"

"Oh, Alex!" said Reddy sadly, "didn't I tell you that you must never doubt a Doubtful Duck'"

Alex apologized and said he did not doubt Reddy, whereupon Reddy became sprightly and cheerful once more.

Alex was about to make some polite remark to the Duckess about the weather when his attention was attracted by a strange procession that was coming down the street in their direction. Upwards of a hundred men, women and children were walking in their bare feet and wearing their shoes on their hands, which they held above, or rather below, their heads, just as Alex's friend from the Right Side Up World had done.

"Dear me," said Alex, "who are these people?"

The man who had worn his shoes on his hands blushed guiltily.

"They live here in the Land of Upside Down," he said. "They have always lived here. But I urged them to wear their shoes upon their hands because I believed that one's shoes should point down instead of up."

"Better try to straighten things out again," Alex suggested.

The man who had worn his shoes upon his hands said he would do his best, and when the strange procession drew near he made a long speech to his followers, telling them they should put their shoes back upon their feet.

They listened politely, and clapped the soles of their shoes together by way of applause when he had finished. But they made no move toward putting their shoes back upon their feet.

They shook their heads sadly when their former leader told them how he had become convinced that shoes should be worn upon the feet. With a long, reproachful look at him they resumed their march, singing as they walked. And this is what they sang:

"It may be elegant and neat
To wear one's shoes upon one's feet,
But though it makes for grace and beauty,
It leads us not in paths of duty.

Barefoot, the wise and noble stand,
And wear a shoe on either hand,
The while they stumble, limp and hobble
And stub their toes on curb and cobble.

However much our feet we bruise,
They shall not know the shame of shoes.
Those poor benighted ones we scorn,
Whose shoes upon their feet are worn!"

Daily Almanac

SATURDAY, JULY 2

Heavy blows in Jersey City. The reaping machine was tried out in public for the first time on this day in 1833, the danged contraption causing no end of comment favorable and otherwise. In 1863 the Battle of Gettysburg was raging and in 1881 President Garfield was assassinated. The Americans captured Vaux in 1918 and the Italians began the attack on Monte Grappa.

SAMMY RZESCHEWSKI.

Blessings on you, little lad
(Your king's knight's move was not so bad).
With your dark-eyed guiltless stare
(Rook to queen's fourth—got you there!)
Do you find our manners strange?
(Pawn for pawn is fair exchange).
Do you like our parks and lake?
(Bishop's gone, 'twas my mistake).
Something old-world, quiet, fine
(Now you've got me, I resign).

Disquieting reports from several private news sources indicate that this year is finding favor with an old enemy, the flea. The flea as a domestic animal is subject for discussion in this fireside Almanac.

'Tis the flea himself who has sounded the call to arms. He has bitten the crust of our complacency and he sings at an itching discomfiture. All hands to the swatting!

Let us, then, vie with one another in a campaign, a race for his extermination. We will play no favorites, start at scratch, and hop with him to the grim conclusions.

To catch the flea the first thing to do is to clean one's spectacles. A spot on the lens has started many a zealous hunter on the false trail. Next, one should avoid all the most comfortable chairs, for it is in them that he lurks.

With the strategy mastered we approach the coup. Steal or borrow a neighbor's Spitz dog. Wash him well and deposit him on all those spots frequented by the flea. Then send him home.

The plan, fairly tried, has never been known to fail except in those cases where the hunter, at a later date, has allowed the neighbor, or the neighbor's children to call. In such an event begin all over.

IN JULY

I turn me from "April's lady,"
I turn me from "lords in May,"
I sing to the mid-summer weather,
Of romps in the meadows together;
A song of the creek-bank shady,
A brazenly indolent day.
I turn me from April's lady,
I turn me from lords in May.

When I was a lad in knickers
July was the lure of the year.
I swam and I sought out the flowers,
I planned and I dreamed by the hours;
With air-gun I hunted the flickers,
A reed was an Indian spear.
When I was a lad in knickers
July was the lure of the year.
—FLACCUS.

For his timely rhyme and his courage in struggling with the difficult and Swinburnian meter, Flaccus wins an honorable mention in the Contributors' Club. This is his third score, which brings him within fair hailing distance of the irrepressible, and fitful, Archie. In time it is just possible that we will start a popularity contest among contribs. Any suggestions?

The fight has gone and men have writ
A lot.
'Tis not their fault if we don't know
What's swat.

M. A. B.—Thank you, we are at work on the speech.

Holding a Husband

by Adele Garrison

I didn't need to glance across the table to see the look he meant. I had seen it often enough in Edith Fairfax's eyes, and had only had strength to endure it because I had been reasonably sure that no answering kindred glance was to be seen in those of my husband. I wondered if Dr. "Jim"—or—Maj. Grantland had seen more than I had.

"You see, he isn't in love with her," the astonishing man went on. "So I don't see why he should carry on like that unless he's trying to get even with you for something—men do these things sometimes, you know. And if I were in your place I wouldn't give him any cause. He's too good-looking a fellow to be let have his head."

He laughed a bit sardonically, and I was thankful indeed that Aunt Dora just then gave her little old-fashioned signal for the ladies to rise, and so released me from the necessity of making any answer to Dr. "Jim's" astonishing monologue. When, next I saw him he was in the drawing room bending over Edith devotedly, evidently determined on keeping all other admirers at arms' length.

MADGE'S JEALOUSY 'ROUSED

But his words lingered with me I felt as if I could not smile and utter the small talk in which the various "cousins" near me were indulging, so at the first opportunity I slipped into a curtained alcove at one end of the room. The curtains were looped apart, but behind them there was a cosy seat screened from view, into which I slipped, determined to plead fatigue in explanation if any one found me.

"He has no business bringing that look to Edie's eyes." "Unless he's trying to get even for something." "I wouldn't give him cause." "He's too good looking—" the phrases rang themselves over in my brain until I felt like shrieking.

The sound of Dicky's voice just outside the curtain arrested my attention.

"Rita got too fresh," he was saying. "There's your answer."

"What do you mean?" Alfred asked in startled tones.

"Only that Rita tried to hand out a choice assortment of scandal about you to Leila. Of course, Leila wouldn't stand for it, and I guess little Rita got her walking papers pronto. Madge is in it somewhere, according to Edith—probably put the skids under Rita. I'll find out before long and let you know. But I think, old man, it's good riddance—you know the rest of it."

"Amen!" heartily rejoined Alfred Durkee, and they moved away. But my jealous spirit had fixed upon that phrase "according to Edith." How close they must be in each other's confidence!

Margaret, do you know what Richard is up to?"

My mother-in-law came into the little living room of the cottage where I was repairing a rent which my gown had received in stepping out of the carriage the night before when coming home from the Paige dinner. Junior was seated on the floor near me, playing with a string of empty spools I always keep in my work basket to amuse him with when I sew. I know that his grandmother was unusually perturbed, for she neither stopped to caress him, nor found fault with anything about him, two almost invariable proceedings with her when coming near him.

I looked up, smiling, for I generally find her mountains concerning Dicky or Junior to be very small mole hills.

"I haven't the slightest idea," I said. "Indeed, I haven't seen Dicky this morning. He wasn't up when I breakfasted."

I didn't add that I had forced myself to waken early, and had dressed with extreme caution in order to breakfast before my sulky husband, and had kept out of his way ever since.

DICKY WRITES SOME LETTERS.

For Dicky had returned from the Paige dinner in high dudgeon, and, except an occasional word to his mother, had sat stonily silent during the drive home. I knew, of course, what was the matter—his overhearing of Major Grantland's confidential undertone, without knowing the words uttered. But I, conscious of no word or action at which he could cavil ever so little, equally conscious of his marked attention to Edith Fairfax during the entire evening, had made no effort to conciliate him. We had not spoken to each other since, but, of course, that was something I didn't care to tell my husband's mother.

"Good reason why you have'nt seen him!" she retorted tartly. He's been in my room writing letters till I'm nearly crazy from that clicking typewriter of his. I wish the pesky things had never been invented. People wouldn't write so much foolishness if they had to do it with a pen."

"He must have suddenly been convicted of his epistolary sins, and be making up for lost time." I urged, reasouringly. "You know Dicky is probably the worst correspondent in the known world."

THE TENDER BLOSSOMS

"I will gather some flowers for our friend," she said,
So into the garden with her I went
And stood for awhile at the rose's bed
As she stooped to her labor of sentiment.

"Why not the full blown blossom there?
Why do you leave it and pass it by?"
Those were the questions I asked of her.
And she answered me: "It is soon to die."

"Here is a withered and blasted rose,
Better without it the plant would be;
Cut it and mingle it now with those
You are taking away for your friend to see.

"Here is a peony stained and torn,
Take it and cling to your choicest bloom."
But she answered me with a look of scorn:
"These flowers are to brighten a sick friend's room.

"Only the tenderest bud I'll take.
Never the withered and worn and old;
Of my fairest flowers is the gift I make,
By which my love for my friend is told."

"So, when the angels call," said I,
"And fold in their arms a little child,
Passing the old and the broken by,
Think of this and be reconciled.

"Always the tenderest buds they take,
Pure and lovely and undefiled.
When a gift of love unto God they'd make,
Always they come for a little child."

The dance is going to be down to the opra house where they give there shows when they have them. Well I guess you know how I all ways been a bout dancing Charley & never cared nothing a bout it & I was going to tell Grace of corse we wouldent go but when I give her the invatation & seen how good she felt a bout it I dident have the heart to say nothing a bout not going. I throwed the outside cover a way before I give Grace the invatation and she says are you sure its for us & I says dident the boy bring it to us & besides wont our money do them Armeniums as much good as any body elses. Tho where the Armeniums needs help any more than I need it I cant figure out. Well I says do you want to go and she says certunly but you cant dance & I says well I can go there and set a round & talk wile you dance and she says o no she wouldent do that way & if I wouldent dance she woulent go so I says all right I will brush up & practice a little & may be I can get a way with it & she says you cant do nothing of the kind because the dances there dancing now isent nothing like what you use to dance the waltz & the 2 step and them things. Uncle Wiggily Stories

By Howard R. Garis

"Will there be candy?" asked Jackie Bow Wow.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S FOURTH OF JULY.

Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the nice muskrat lady housekeeper for Uncle Wiggily, the bunny rabbit gentleman, came into the room where Mr. Longears was just putting on his tail, with the glue. Excuse me, I mean the pink ribbon.

Well, did you ever? I'm wrong again! What I mean is that Nurse Jane came in where Uncle Wiggily was, and she asked:

"You're going to help us, aren't you, Wiggy?"

"Of course I am. What is it?" the bunny gentleman wanted to know. "Is it to buy tickets for a fair or go to the store for you?"

"Neither one," replied Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "But Monday will be Fourth of July, and we ladies thought, instead of letting the animal boys make a lot of bang-bang noises, that we would give them a picnic in the woods. Would like you to help us."

"I shall be most happy to do so," Uncle Wiggily answered. "But what about the animal girls? Isn't there going to be a Fourth of July for them?"

"Oh, yes!" exclaimed Nurse Jane. "They'll come to the picnic, of course. But you know how boys are! They will think they must have their fire crackers and torpedoes and skyrockets. But if you tell them you're going to help with the picnic the boys will all be glad to come, and they won't make noises to give us all headaches."

"I'll do my best!" promised Uncle Wiggily. "What specially did you want me for?"

"To make molasses candy," answered Nurse Jane. "We want many good things to eat at the Fourth of July picnic, and you are a good candy maker. So we'll leave that to you and some of the other animal ladies and I will bake cake, pies and cookies."

"I'm sure the boys will like this as well as shooting off Italan candles," spoke the bunny uncle. "I'll go to the store now to get the molasses," which he did, limping along on his pink twinkling crutch—

Say, I'm getting everything twisted! But it is so near the Fourth of July you'll excuse me; will you not?

Anyhow, Uncle Wiggily hopped to the store for the molasses, and when Dickie Flipfall, the sparrow boy, flew around through Woodland, with invitations to all the animal children to come to the Fourth of July picnic, Mr Longears started to make the molasses taffy. He began early so he would be sure to have it finished in time. Meanwhile Nurse Jane and the other ladies bakes the cakes, pies and cookies.

At last Fourth of July came. It was a bright, beautiful day, and the animal boys had heard so much about the good things they were to have to eat that they did not mind not having firecrackers, torpedoes and other noisemaking things.

"Will there be candy?" asked Jackie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boy, as he helped Nurse Jane carry the basket of cakes.

"Yes, Uncle Wiggily will bring that," said the muskrat lady. "He told me to run on ahead, and said he would follow with the molasses taffy."

"Well, he isn't coming," said Johnnie Bushytail, the squirrel boy, looking back toward the bunny's hollow stump bungalow. "I'll skip back and help him carry the candy."

"Mind you don't eat any of it!" bleated Billie Waggtail, the goat boy, who was helping Aunt Lettie carry the cabbage tarts.

Back through the wood scampered Johnnie, and as he reached the hollow stump bungalow he heard a voice saying:

"This time I've caught you, and you can't get away until I nibble your ears."

"Oh, dear!" thought the squirrel boy. "Uncle Wiggily must be in trouble!"

And when Johnnie looked through the partly open door, into the kitchen of the bungalow, he saw the bad old Skillery Scallery Alligator reaching out a claw to grab the bunny gentleman.

But did Uncle Wiggily allow himself to be caught that way? Indeed he did not. All of a sudden he gave the Alligator a push backward toward a chair and cried:

"Stay there until I can get a Policeman Dog and have you arrested!" Down sat the 'Gator, and though he tried to get up out of the chair he couldn't. And as the chair was screwed fast to the floor, being one Nurse Jane used for beating eggs, the lad chap couldn't move.

"Come on, Johnnie!" cried Uncle Wiggily, catching up a basket and hurrying out. "We'll go to the Fourth of July picnic, and leave the 'Gator to the Policeman Dog."

"What makes the Alligator stay stuck fast like that, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Johnnie, as he skipped along with the bunny gentleman.

"It's because of molasses candy," answered Mr Longears. "I had some [illegible] molasses candy left over. I put them on that chair while I looked for some waxed paper in which to wrap them. Then the 'Gator came in to get me, but I thought of that way of holding him fast! Wasn't it a good way?"

"Fine!" chattered Johnnie. Then he and Uncle Wiggily went to the picnic and the 'Gator went to jail and the animal boys, girls and everybody said the bunny's molasses candy was just fine and it was the nicest Fourth of July that ever happened.

To Visit Old World

FATHER LEONARD (upper) and FATHER MODESTO of St. Elizabeth's Parish, who leave next week to visit relatives in Germany.

PRIESTS PREPARE FOR VISIT TO THEIR BOYHOOD HOMES

Twenty-five years without the sight of one face familiar in boyhood, or without a greeting from a near-relative, and fifteen years spent in planning for a trip half way around the world to renew youthful acquaintance and visit a mother who has been waiting patiently in the fatherland, only to have those plans frustrated time and again, first because of tasks that had to be done, and during the last years because of the great war—then, at last, the realization of dreams, the passports which make the trip possible.

Such is the history of the lives of Father Leonard Bose and Father Modesto Munemann of St. Elizabeth's Catholic church, Fruitvale, who left neighboring towns in Germany in their boyhood, came to America, and after years spent in training in schools of the Franciscan order, are now devoting their lives to the service of others. They will leave San Francisco July 8 for New York, and will sail from there on July 16, Father Leonard going directly to Kreuzeber, a little hamlet in the central part of Germany, where a mother waits him, and Father Modesto to Letnefelde, an adjoining town, where he will be welcomed by six brothers.

Father Leonard left Germany in 1895, and went to Quincy, Ill. Father Modesto, with three neighbor boys, followed a year later, entering St. Joseph's college in Tutupolis, Ill. Although they were from neighboring towns, it was not until years later that they were thrown together in their work.

Both men have served in parishes throughout the West and Middle West. Father Leonard has spent the greater part of his years of service in parishes, while Father Modesto has taught in several of the Catholic colleges in the west, including six years in St. Anthony's college, Santa Barbara. Father Modesto also was in parish work in Chicago, St. Louis and Portland, and has been in Oakland several years during his nomadic life. Father Leonard also taught in Santa Barbara, and has been connected with St. Anthony's and the St. Boniface parish in San Francisco and spent several years in Sacramento. He took up his work at St. Elizabeth's four years ago.

But never during their lives did either of the men forget the desire to return, for a short time, to the haunts of youth. Always have they planned to go back, to ride again over the little railroad on which they took their first ride and began the new life a quarter century ago.

They will be gone only a few months on this pilgrimage, but it will be well worth while, they believe, for, in all probability, it will be the last time that either will ever see the land in which he was born.

Changes Will Be Sermon Subject of Rev. Govette

Olivet Pastor to Tell Folly of Worrying About Temporary Affairs.

The existing folly of men concerning themselves with things that are continually changing, when there is so little value in those things, and such a great value in the unchanging institutions, will be emphasized in the Olivet Congregational church tomorrow evening, in a sermon on "Changing and Changeless," delivered by the pastor, Rev. Harold Govette. Material factors are continually changing, according to Rev. Govette, but Christ is the same, yesterday, today and forever.

Tomorrow evening the subject of the pastor's sermon will be "The End of All Things." He will answer the following questions: Will there be an end of the world? Will there be an end to the present social system? Will evil ever be stamped out? Will there be an end to happiness?

Seventh-Day Adventists Gather

The annual camp meeting and convention of the California Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists will be held in Oakland July 7 to 17. One of the largest tent cities ever erected in Northern California has been pitched on the space at Fruitvale avenue and East Sixteenth street. At least two thousand people will live on the encampment during the convention, it is said. A mammoth canvas pavilion with seating capacity for 3000 will be used for the principal session, and several smaller ones will be used by the various departments.

Among the churches that will be represented are those at Crescent City, Arcata, Eureka, Fortuna, Ukiah, Healdsburg, Santa Rosa, Sebastopol, Sonoma, Calistoga, St. Helena, Napa, Vallejo, San Rafael, Byron, Martinez, Richmond, Berkeley, Alameda, San Francisco, Oakland, Mountain View, San Jose, Santa Cruz, Monterey, Morgan Hill, and others. Coming to the camp meeting, besides the larger part of four thousand members of the conference, will be leading clergymen from different sections of the United States. Practically all the preachers and other workers employed by the California Conference will assist in the various departments.

Including departmental and other meetings, not less than twelve services will be conducted each day. Of particular interest to the public will be the lectures at 11 a. m., 3 p. m., and 7:30 p. m., daily. The camp meeting will be in the nature of a Chautauqua. No admission charge of any kind will be made. Elder G. W. Wells, president of the California Conference, will be in charge of the large encampment.

Leading officials of the California Conference are agreed that this will be the most important camp meeting ever held in the history of the conference, inasmuch as it will precede the quadrennial session of the General or World Conference, which is to be held in San Francisco May 10-31, 1922, and the California Conference will be the host to the 10,000 delegates expected to attend. Visiting officials will present statistics showing that the total contributions for the last statistical year amounted to $8,577,050.86, the largest by far of any year in the history of the denomination. This is an average of $48.12 per member.

Among the leading ministers coming, and who will take prominent parts in the program, are Evangelist Fred C. Gilbert; Prof. C. L. Benson, of College View, Nebraska; R. W. Quinn, Washington, D. C.; J. W. Christian, president of the Pacific Union Conference; J. Adams Stevens, executive secretary of the Home Missionary Department, Pacific Union Conference; F. E. Painter, field secretary of the Pacific Union Conference, and others.

One of the prominent features of the encampment this year will be the medical dispensary operated by the Medical Staff of the St. Helena Sanitarium. Special tents will be provided and trained nurses will be in attendance. Lectures on health and the rational treatment of disease will be given by specialists during the meeting.

Christian Endeavor Members Increased

NEW LEADER BEGINS WORK AT PLAYGROUND

Paul E. Sloane of Pasadena, who was recently made director of religious education and center activities at Plymouth Center, began his new duties yesterday following several days spent in outlining plans and familiarizing himself with the work.

Sloane, who is the son of Judge W. A. Sloane of the Supreme Court, is a graduate of Pomona College and Harvard Law School. He served an enlistment of eighteen months in the aviation corps during the war, being commissioned a first lieutenant in France.

Long training in settlement work and religious education while attending Harvard combined with his athletic career while he was a student of Pomona College have given him the broad knowledge of human nature and the leadership which is necessary to direct the manifold activities at the center, it is believed.

"In my new work I shall endeavor to incorporate everything into center work which will tend to make the boys and girls who go there interested in clean living," he said yesterday in speaking of his plans. "I shall not place a great deal of stress upon the wholly religious or secular, for I believe that undue urging is not beneficial in interesting boys and girls in religious ideals. Religious activity cannot be too closely linked with true religion and the latter comes as the result of the former."

Patriotism Feature of Elmhurst Service

Presbyterian Synod Conference

The summer conference of the California Presbyterian Synod and the annual business meeting of Woman's Synodical societies will be held at the First Presbyterian church, Berkeley, during the week July 21-28. Rev. Robert Freeman, moderator of the synod, will preside.

The number of delegates and visitors who will attend the conference is as yet a matter of speculation according to those who are in charge of reservations, but it is expected that at least 500 representatives from churches throughout the state will be present.

Leaders of the national organization of Presbyterian churches of the New Era movement, Home Missions Society and young people's division will be present during the entire conference, it is stated. Among the national leaders are Dr. William H. Foulkes, New York, general secretary of New Era movement; Rev. William J. Wen of Chicago, general secretary of the permanent committee on men's work; Rev. Harold M. Robinson, Philadelphia, secretary of the Board of Publication and Sabbath school work; Rev. W. P. Shriver, New York, director of city and immigrant work, Board of Home Missions; Rev. J. E. Clarke, New York, field secretary general Board of Education; Rev. Edmund de S. Brunner, New York, director of town and country survey committee on social and religious survey; Miss Lucy P. McCurdy, New York, secretary young people's work, Woman's Board of Foreign Missions; Rev. A. B. Keeler, Seattle, home mission superintendent; Frank A. Getty, field representative of young people's work; Rev. W. P. Schell, New York, secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions.

One of the features of the conference program which is made up of the presentation and discussion of church and missionary problems will be the presentation of a masque entitled "The Light of the West," written by Rev. Remsen Du Bois Bird, president of Occidental college, which will be given Saturday afternoon, July 23, in the newly constructed open air auditorium at San Anselmo.

The conference is divided into three sections, the first from 10 30 to 11 15, the second from 11 15 to 12 and the third from 12 to 12 45. The conferences will be held in departments, special attention being given to New Era, Sunday school, city and immigrant work, church and country life, foreign work and religious education. Six lectures are provided in each of the departments, making 108 lectures in all for the entire conference period.

Speech-tying is prominent according to the official program. Presentation and discussion of each subject occupy 15 minutes, the period of each class.

A part of each day will be given over to recreation and sightseeing. On Monday, July 25, an inter-Presbyterian tennis tournament will be held. The visitors will be taken through the University of California and the San Francisco theological seminary at San Anselmo.

CAMPFIRE IS THE SCENE OF CEREMONY

Week end services at Mt. Hermon were held last week beginning with a huge camp fire on Saturday evening. Three hundred campers and week end visitors took part in the entertainment, which was held around the fire and which consisted of community singing and a burlesque of Antony and Cleopatra, in which Miss Roberta Wells of Oakland as Cleopatra, Horace Jones of San Francisco as Julius Caesar, and Erwin Addicott of Oakland as Mark Antony were the chief stars.

Services Sunday were held in the tent auditorium with Rev. P. H. Geto Dodd of Pacific Grove preaching both morning and evening. His theme carried out in both sermons was "Faith Greater Than Fire." The Sunday school for the summer has been organized under the direction of H. K. Sanborne of Los Angeles Bible Institute. The Young People's services are led by Miss Hazel Dell Kendrick, formerly of Oakland. Miss Kendrick also helps direct the singing at all services.

Men's activities are under the direction of Superintendent Sanborne of the Sunday school. Games, hikes and swimming are among the activities which are held under his direction.

Wildest Wild West Show Ever Staged Opens Livermore Rodeo Before 10,000

NINETY OUTLAWS HERDED IN FOR WILD HORSE RACE

Riders Are Given But One Assistant and Must Saddle After Starter's Shot.

LIVERMORE, July 2.—Ten thousand guests, from every quarter of the state, helped Livermore open its Rodeo today, and they were treated to a little of the wildest wild west show ever put on, according to Frank "Texas" Walker, one of the track judges and himself one of the "top hands" in the roundup world.

The Rodeo officials got together last night and switched rules and regulations until it was assured that every ounce of horsemanship in the riders and every buck in the broncs would have to be brought out on the field to get within yelling distance of the prize money.

Incidentally, the change in rules made of the wild horse race one of the most spectacular affairs possible. Ninety odd outlaws were herded down from Nevada. Not one of them wore a brand, and none of them had ever felt a rope until they were rounded up for the Livermore show.

Working them down the hills and into Livermore was in itself a feat to test any cow hand, and cutting them into the corrals at the Rodeo arena required the help of every cowman that has booked in for the show.

BUT ONE HELPER ALLOWED

Under the old rules, every rider was allowed two or three assistants and was permitted to saddle before the horse he had drawn was fired at him through the chute. Last night the rule was changed. As it is now, each rider is permitted only one helper, and required to keep his saddle on the ground until after the pistol shot, when he must saddle, blindfold and mount before the start.

Under the old rules, it was a race. Under the new, according to Judge Texas Walker, it is a murder, and every hand that gets inside the money will have earned it several times over. The wild horse race is counted on as one of the heavyweight features for tomorrow and Monday's program, as so many entries have been pulled in by the attractive money offered that it was necessary to extend the entry limit.

TY STOKES ALL SET

Ty Stokes, counted the greatest colored all around cowboy in the world, and a prime favorite with every cowman in the show, arrived on the lot yesterday and, despite a recently mended break in his left leg, put himself through a gruelling tryout at trick riding. "She'll last," said Tyrus, meaning his leg, and he reported in to Manager Joe Aurreocochea as 100 per cent ready for work, which means that the honors for all around spectacular work will be settled between Ty and Benny Corbett, another "all around man whose tryout work has been of a sensational order.

Two Stars of the Livermore Rodeo

On the left is VERA McGINNIS, world champion woman trick rider, whose horsemanship was a feature of today's opening card. Incidentally, Miss McGinnis holds the championship for "guardians." She is the honored little sister to every right cowman on the big time circuit and always a favorite and welcome visitor with Rodeo officials. On the right, meet BENNIE CORBETT, cowboy extraordinary, straight and fancy roper, bucking horse rider, trick rider and high card at all the other stunts of the roundup. His work on the opening day qualifies him as tophand contender.

Defamatory Remarks Are Alleged in Suit

RICHMOND, July 2.—Harry S. Curry, local auto dealer, was named defendant in a $5000 slander suit filed in the Superior court yesterday by Mrs Angie M. Russell through her attorney, Will Robensen. Defamatory remarks the auto man is alleged to have made, with reference to the woman, form the basis of the suit.

The trouble that led to the action is said to have taken place in the office of Attorney Robensen last Saturday, where Mrs Russell and Curry came together. In a heated argument between the two Curry is claimed to have made several "scandalous and false" illusions with regard to the character of Mrs Russell.

Wife Divorces Mate Fond of Home Brew

LODI, July 2.—That the advent of the Eighteenth Amendment was marked by the falling of her husband from grace and that he was drunk most of the time for a year and a half from drinking home brew, was the unusual complaint upon which Mrs Rena M. De Force of this city was granted her divorce decree from Byron A. De Force. The decree was issued by Judge J. A. Plummer.

'DOLLAR-A-DAY' PEDDLERS UNDER FIRE IN HAYWARD

HAYWARD, July 2.—A finish fight against the so-called "dollar-a-day" peddler was begun at the regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce here last evening. Under the present ordinance in Hayward a license to vend goods on the street can be obtained for the sum of one dollar per day. This ruling is considered unjust to the merchant who pays a yearly tax and expects to do a yearly business. A committee, consisting of F. E. Pererla, J. T. Carsen and R. R. Smithson will approach the trustees today. The immediate matter demanding attention is the restriction of certain alleged "over-night" fire-cracker merchants, who have begun operations here to the detriment of the home merchant, according to the committee.

Jacob Harder, Jr., in delivering the last appeal for the passage of the school bonds, an issue which is before the voters here today, laid particular emphasis on the growing need of vocational training. Harder stated that the Hayward schools had increased 25 per cent during the last two years. Only temporary arrangements had been made during that time for the care of the children. Class rooms were overcrowded and teachers, in some cases hopelessly overburdened. Harder informed the Chamber of Commerce that unless the bond issue passed it was likely that over 200 children would be sent home when the schools opened August 15, because of lack of space. The members of the Chamber of Commerce pledged themselves to use every effort in supporting the school bond issue.

[illegible] was authorized to add Hayward's endorsement to the growing list of Eastbay boosters for the proposed Oakland-San Francisco bridge.

Manager Cook of the White Lunch ranch spoke of the plans for the opening night of the ranch on July 7 which is to be known as Eden Township night. He stated that over 1000 guests were expected on that date.

WOOD INSTRUCTS 'BROKE' TEACHER TO FACE BOARD

Lodi School Trustees Lack Sense of Humor, Says Superintendent.

LODI, July 2.—Instructed by State Superintendent of School Will Wood to return here and face the Board of School Trustees, in an effort to have that body reinstate her as a teacher in the Lodi schools, Miss May Stamp, "the absolutely broke university girl," who created a sensation by placing an advertisement in a San Francisco newspaper, asking for a position during the summer because she was "poverty-stricken," will arrive here shortly after July 4, it was declared here today.

The advertisement placed in a newspaper by Miss Stamp aroused the ire of the superintendent of schools here and later caused her dismissal from the teaching staff. Members of the Board of Trustees declared that activities of Miss Stamp in San Francisco reflected against the good name of the city of Lodi and asked that she be dismissed.

Miss Stamp declares she is still employed in the Lodi schools, according to the terms of her contract, and has enlisted the aid of State Superintendent Wood in securing reinstatement. In promising aid to Miss Stamp, Wood asserted that he would see that she was given a fair trial and hinted strongly that the matter would be taken to court if she failed in her endeavor to secure dismissal of the charges against her.

When Wood received the telegram from Miss Stamp last night he uttered something, to the effect that Lodi school trustees lacked a sense of humor, and then said:

"The matter is simply ridiculous. Miss Stamp is not guilty of any breach of etiquette or anything else. I only wish we had more teachers like her. I'll certainly see that she gets a square deal."

Wood instructed Miss Stamp to make an appeal to the County Superintendent of Schools at Stockton, where he declared a satisfactory agreement could be reached. It is expected the teacher with "acute wanderlust," as she termed it, will arrive in Lodi July 5 or 6.

TRAIN BARELY ESCAPES WRECK

SANTA ROSA, July 2.—Plunging from the tracks but ten feet from the Santa Rosa creek bridge, a freight train of the Northwestern Pacific Company narrowly escaped crashing to the bed of the creek Friday afternoon.

Only the swerving of the locomotive into the high bank along the side of the track prevented the plunge. The wrecking train from Sausalito was sent to Santa Rosa to clear the road.

Investigation showed that defective rails had caused the accident.

LECTURER SAYS BURIAL SERVICE OVER DEAD DOG

KANSAS CITY, July 2.—E. R. Humble, a retired editor and lecturer, conducted a funeral service over the body of Jiggs, a fox terrier dog, who came to his death when running to meet the car in which Frank Schults and his family were returning to their home at 1136 N. Thirty-second street, Kansas City, Kansas.

The dog had been the constant company of the Schults children. It was Margaret, aged five, who went to Humble with the request that he would preach for Jiggs funeral.

Humble said: "Poor Jiggs is dead. But he died happy in his love. That is more wonderful than I can tell you. And Jiggs will live in you. When you are grown, my children, you will often think of this faithful animal and wish that all men were like him—faithful unto death. Jiggs was a good dog. That is saying much. When the sun sinks in the west for me, I could ask no higher words of praise than those I have applied to him. To say he was good is highest praise."

Protest Is Made On Separate School Law

SACRAMENTO, July 2.—A letter of protest against legislation enacted at the last session of the legislature providing separate schools for Asiatics was received at the office of Governor Stephens from the Chinese National Welfare Association. It was held in the latter that the law was a violation of the Burlingame treaty of 1868 between the United States and China.

A portion of the treaty was quoted to prove that citizens of either country were given the right to attend the schools of the country in which they were living.

MAN HEROICALLY SAVES HOME AND IS BADLY BURNED

C. P. Richards of Byron Is Recovering From Severe Injuries.

BYRON, July 2.—C. P. Richards, traveling salesman of the Albers Milling Company, who was badly burned at his home here last week, is slowly recovering at the Dr. W. L Meyers' Hospital in Livermore. It will be months, however, before he is able to walk. The skin on both feet was entirely burned off, and grafting is now being resorted to. Other burns on the legs, arms and back are slowly healing.

The accident happened when Richards attempted to adjust a coal oil lamp in its socket in his bath room. It fell, striking the stationary stand, the burning oil falling over him. He was in his underclothes, minus stockings.

Unmindful, however, of his terrible burns, he roused his sleeping wife and two children and made a heroic and successful attempt to save his home. He poured salt on the flames, some of it getting into his burns, and being barefooted he stepped on the blazing oil and broken glass, cutting his feet, but he did not desist nor cry out till the flames had been extinguished.

Dr J. W. Hammond gave first aid and the sufferer was taken to Livermore by H P Winegar, his father-in-law, who had been summoned. For two days the patient lay partly unconscious, the physicians, Dr. W L Meyers and Dr S. Bunnell of San Francisco fearing death as a result of shock.

Richards is a member of the Stockton Lodge of Elks. He carried accident insurance and a policy in a commercial travelers' association. The family have resided here for two years past. Mrs. Richards is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Winegar, wealthy pioneer Livermore residents.

Extensive improvements are being made at the Mt House on the Lincoln highway, between Tracy and Livermore. J. B. Bunte is erecting a service station and garage to better supply the wants of the traveling public. A complete electric lighting plant has been installed, and for the first time in its history, this old spot, shown on early day maps and known to every traveler up and down the San Joaquin Valley, will be lighted and a welcome extended. The new station is being erected at the southeast corner.

Irrigation of a large territory in that section through the Byron-Bethany Irrigation District has brought the Mt. House section into prominence, and good roads are a necessity to future development. Supervisor Murphy has promised to take the matter in hand.

Early sweet corn of the bantam variety was picked in the demonstration gardens here on Saturday, June 25. This is the earliest that corn has matured in Byron, the best previous record being July 5. The Marsh Creek section, heretofore famous for its early corn, is this year far behind the record.

Monday night the wind blew so hard that it carried away the top of an automobile on the concrete highway near Herdlyn, lifting it about 30 feet and lodging it on the telephone wire, where it was still balancing Tuesday morning.

Chico Plant Station May Be Extended

CHICO, July 2.—Larger Congressional appropriations for the Department of Agriculture will mean an extension of the local plant introduction station, it was announced here.

The work done here by Morrow and his predecessors has been recognized by the department's field experts, who have made many visits to the station in the past year.

PORTOLA, July 2.—Manuel Azaza, during a fit of despondency, set fire to his house here yesterday and burned himself to death. Efforts of neighbors, who noticed the fire in its incipiency, to save him were futile as he fought them off and barricaded the doors and windows and then placed himself on his bed and gave himself to the flames. He had saturated the entire house and the interior with coal oil before applying the match.

Smythe, head of the "mosquito squadron," and Mr. Flynn, the U. C. student engaged in fighting the pests, told the club of their efforts in enlarging the scope of mosquito fighting. Flynn had approached the county supervisors with the idea of enlisting the aid of the whole county and was told that they approved of the plan so far that they would endeavor to get the two neighboring counties to also assist them, and thus it is said, by Flynn, the mosquitos could be practically eliminated.

At the conclusion of the meeting President W. S. Van Winkle announced that the subject of incorporation of Bay Point would be brought up at the next August meeting.

Plane Abandoned After 1000 Feet at Richmond

RICHMOND, July 2.—Abandoned by two unidentified men, a partially wrecked airplane of the latest design lies in a hay field near here. Jagged holes in the blue colored wings and fuselage caused, by a three thousand-foot fall from the sky, that miraculously spared the lives of the two unknown passengers, and other damage, have rendered the plane helpless.

Most of the instruments in front of the pilot's seat have been removed by others than the original owners. The controls, the engine and other parts are still intact.

Three weeks ago the machine was seen in a western sky. It suddenly hovered like a stricken bird and dropped like a plummet to earth. Five hundred feet up it straightened out and landed right side up the field, butting its nose against a wind mill tower as it taxied across the rough ground surface.

Two men jumped from the double seats, and after hastily taking note of the damage climbed a fence surrounding the field and disappeared down the road, chatting of the fall as if it were an event of no great moment. They never returned.

The initials K. A. C. are painted on the side beneath the pilot's seat, but no other marks of identification were found.

There are rumors that the machine was the property of two bandits, who intended it for use in a daring robbery or who were employing it for an escape following a big job.

VALLEJO YARD IS CLOSED FOR LACK OF FUNDS

$100 Employees Temporarily Laid Off; Repair Work Is Held Up on Vessels.

MARE ISLAND, July 2.—Work at the navy yard here is paralyzed today following the failure of Congress to pass the naval appropriation bill. Construction of the dreadnaughts California and Montana was discontinued and a great deal of repair work was held up. Upwards of $100 employees were affected.

The daily payroll at the navy yard is almost $60,000. It is also announced that, even if work had continued, each employee would have had his salary reduced $240 per year anyhow because of the abolition of the war-time bonus. In this connection it was learned that at least 6000 navy yard employees lost the $240 a year, commencing yesterday, when the war bonus, which has been in existence for two years or more, was stopped. Failure of the last Congress to continue the war bonus system in the appropriation bill is the cause of the loss of this sum, which was received by all men and women who were not receiving over $8 a day.

VOLUNTEERS FOR PAYROLLS.

A few payroll clerks volunteered to complete the clerk's payrolls so that the clerks could be paid next Tuesday, and some of the mechanics on Friday. The California is scheduled to be commissioned on August 10. The Montana has not yet been launched.

The order closing down the yard indefinitely, which came from the navy department at Washington, was announced by Captain Edward L. Beach, commandant of the yard. The order, it is understood, was entirely unexpected by the workers.

Captain Beach explained that lack of appropriations was the reason for shutting down operations, and that he did not know when relief might be expected. This is the first time the navyyard here has ever been closed down.

FIFTY VESSELS IN YARD.

Among the ships awaiting repairs in the yard here are more than fifty destroyers, submarines and other vessels, among which is included the hospital ship Comfort.

Washington despatches yesterday stated that the naval forces of the nation are being operated today technically without funds. This situation, it is understood, will continue until the middle of next week at least. The attitude of Senate leaders seemed to be not to accept the large naval appropriation bill with the reductions in appropriations and other changes made in the House.

It was declared that there was no intention of rushing through a resolution to continue last year's appropriations. It is emphasized that the lack of funds is a technical one only, and that the naval forces would not undergo hardships unless the deadlock dragged over a long period.

RADIO COMPASS WARSHIP GUIDE

WASHINGTON, July 2.—A remarkable demonstration of the peace-time value of the radio compass, a war development, was furnished during the recent passage of Battleship Division Five of the Atlantic Fleet from Hampton Roads to Boston, according to an announcement at the Navy Department. The entire voyage was made in a heavy fog, and navigation all the way was accomplished by shore radio compass stations, submarines bells and soundings, not a light or fixed aid to navigation being sighted on the trip.

"From the time departure was taken until Boston lightship was picked up NOT a light vessel or lighthouse was seen," says a report from Vice-Admiral H. P. Jones, commanding the battleship force. "The fog was so dense that during most of the passage the ships astern of the division flagship were invisible.

"Had it not been for the radio compass situation the arrival of Battleship Division Five would have been greatly delayed. This practical demonstration of radio direction finding is a clear indication of the military value of radio compass stations for ten thousand dollar prizes. An electrical parade will be held at tions and of the necessity for continued development along this line."

Radio compass stations have now been established along the coasts so that vessels at sea in foggy weather can communicate with the stations, and in a few minutes establish their correct position. About 2500 ships now receive the service each month, and a carnival will close the celebration Monday.
it was announced.

S. P. Drops Petition to Close Streets

STOCKTON, July 2.—The Southern Pacific Company announced today that it would at once withdraw a petition now pending before the Railroad Commission asking permission to close Oak and Locust streets in Lodi. The hearing before the commission had been set for July 5 in Lodi. Practically every organization in that city consolidated and aroused the indignation of the citizens to the point where several hundred were preparing to appear before the commission to protest the petition. They contended that the streets were necessary to maintain public traffic through the city, especially during the fruit shipping season. The town had recently paved the two streets The railroad company proposed to close them for the convenience of a switching yard.

Plea For Father of Unborn Child Fails in Court

SAN JOSE, July 2.—The plea of a young wife who expects soon to be a mother, failed yesterday afternoon in the superior court here to save her husband from a term in the state penitentiary at San Quentin.

Mrs. William Webber was the young wife in question. With tears streaming down her cheeks, she pleaded with Superior Judge J. R. Welch to spare her husband, convicted by a jury here two weeks ago with having aided in holding up Fred Riccomi, wealthy rancher of the San Antonio road, at the point of a gun, after which Webber and three others stole $15,000 worth of liquor from the Riccomi place.

Webber had asked for probation. His plea was denied and he was sentenced to spend from one year to life behind the bars of the state prison.

"There is absolutely no ground in this case for a plea for probation," declared Judge Welch, "although my heart goes out to the little woman who is soon to be the mother of your child. You cannot hide your crime behind her skirts."

JAIL TERM GIVEN FOR DRIVING AUTO WHEN NOT SOBER

San Jose Man to Spend Six Months in Prison; Probation Denied.

SAN JOSE, July 2.—Six months in the Santa Clara county jail was the sentence imposed here yesterday afternoon on Peter Lajcovich on a charge of driving his automobile while intoxicated, judgment being passed by Superior Judge J. R. Welch after he had denied a motion for probation in the man's case. Lajcovich had entered a plea of guilty.

Statements to the court by Deputy District Attorneys Percy O'Connor and J. P. Fitzgerald to the effect that the crime charged is "getting to be a too common occurrence," and that men of such practices are "worse than a band of murderers; not petty larceny thieves," presaged the judgment of the court.

PLEA FOR PROBATION.

Attorney V. A. Chargin made a strenuous plea in behalf of Lajcovich, declaring that many others in similar cases had been granted probation.

Judge Welch himself stated that he had not known of anyone placed on probation when similarly charged who had violated his probation to which Deputy District Attorney Fitzgerald replied:

"Yes, your honor, but the very same night some woman or child was getting killed by somebody else who thought they could get by with the same stuff and get probation."

Sheriff George Lyle, who arrested Lajcovich, told the court the man had first run off the state highway into an orchard, wrecking the top of his car, after which he again took to the highway, wrecked another machine and then crashed into a ditch. He declared his office had made eight such arrests during the month of June.

SENTENCE REDUCED.

Judge Welch first imposed a fine of $500 or an alternative of 250 days in the county jail on Lajcovich. He allowed him two hours liberty on bail to raise the $500. When the man returned to the court without the money his attorney pleaded for a reduction of the sentence, whereupon Judge Welch lessened the jail term to six months.

Judge Welch recently released a man similarly charged, on probation, with the stipulation that he pay $830 damages caused to two women whom he struck.

COURT SENTENCES THIEF TO PRESTON FOR INGRATITUDE

Placed On Probation After Stealing Auto, Youth Robs Benefactor.

SAN JOSE, July 2.—Three and a half years in the reform school at Preston is the price that 17-year-old Edwin Hopper must pay for what Superior Judge J. R. Welch has termed a "shining example of rank ingratitude."

That was the sentence imposed on the youth today when he was ordered to Preston until he has attained the age of 21.

Hopper was arrested several months ago on a charge of stealing an automobile from this city, being nabbed at Dallas, Ore. During his trial here Judge Welch appointed Edward Nicholson, young local attorney, to represent him.

Hopper pleaded guilty and then Nicholson, acting as his counsel, waged an energetic fight to secure probation for the youth. He even went so far as to inform the court that he would take Hopper into his own home and give him a chance to make good, whereupon the plea was granted.

Six weeks later, while Nicholson was away from home, Hopper stole more than $500 worth of stuff from his benefactor's home. He was captured and his sentence today closes his case, temporarily at least.

SALESMAN SENTENCED.

Charles A. Geary, former Palo Alto automobile salesman, must spend from one to fourteen years in San Quentin, according to a sentence imposed on him yesterday afternoon by Superior Judge J. R. Welch, following an energetic plea on the part of the defendant for probation. The plea was denied.

Geary was arrested in Oregon with an automobile which he was accused of having stolen from the Palo Alto garage at Palo Alto. He put up the defense that he was merely using the car as a demonstrator and intended to return it to his employers. With that defense he went before a jury and in seven minutes was found guilty.

PROBATION DENIED.

Yesterday Geary made a plea for himself on the ground that he has a wife and 8-year-old child needful of his support. The court was informed, however, that the family had been getting along nicely without his support during the past few months, whereupon the application for probation was denied. Judge Welch declared that the probation system was not put into effect for such men as Geary.

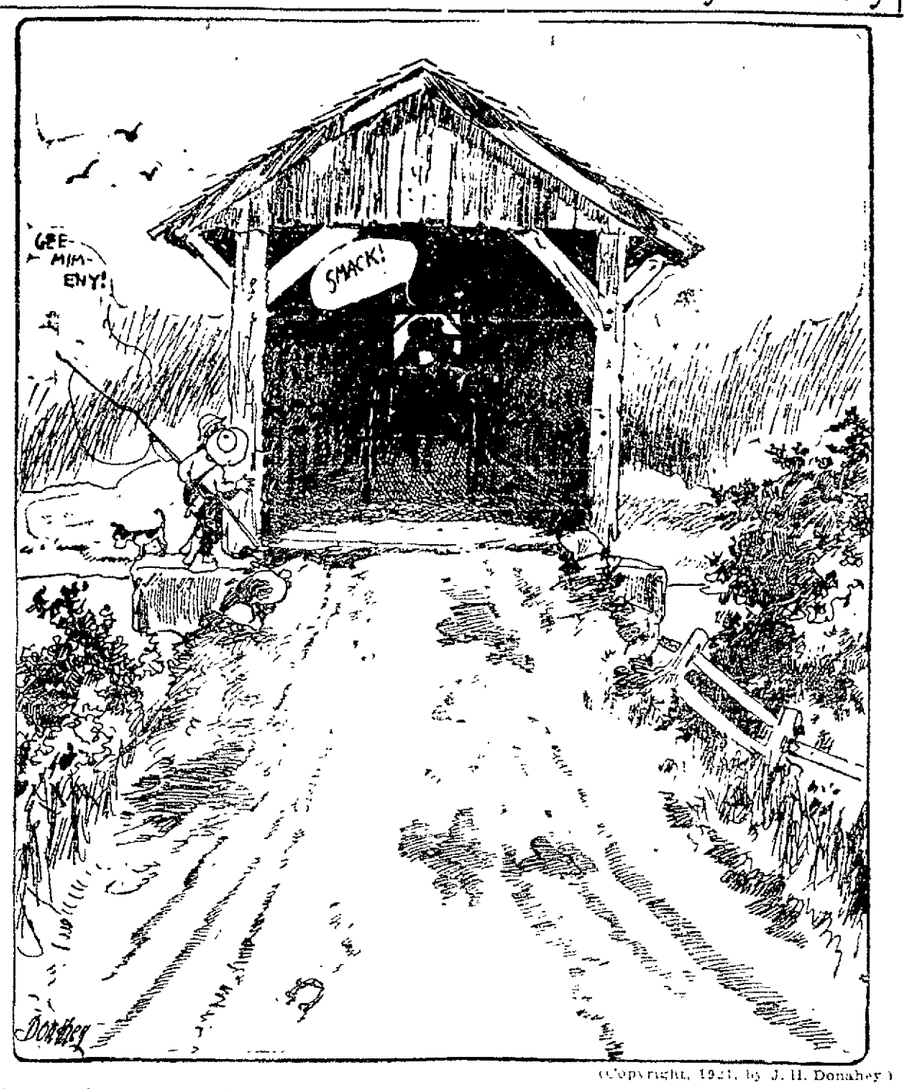
KIN YOU REMEMBER? -:- By Donahey



(Copyright, 1921, by J. H. Donahey.)

Kin you remember that old wooden bridge?
It's boards were so loose they rattled as the horse walked over them. There's a new twenty-thousand dollar steel contraption there now but no romance about it at all.
Last evening a couple in a flivver were driving with one hand, going quite slowly, too, and they went right through the steel railing into the creek, by ginger!

Each club has won and lost the same number of games, the result being that Sunday's game will determine the cellar championship for the first half of the Mission league season. Monday the two clubs will clash in the opener of the second half.

The two San Jose clubs opened the season here, staging a 16-inning game, which was won by the Stephens nine, 2 to 1. They have not met each other since that time. OAKS HAVING HARD TIME WINNING BALL GAME IN SOUTH

SUNDAY AND MONDAY WILL FIND EVERY SAND LOT OCCUPIED BY THE AMATEUR BALL TEAMS

NOW TRANSBAY FANS ARE HAVING SOME FUN KIDDING ABOUT OAKS

Gillespie and Schnell, Local Bush Hurlers, On Devine Club, Sought by New York Yanks.

By EDDIE MURPHY.

Two weeks ago the Oakland baseball fans were having a lot of fun with their rival fans from across the bay, because the Oakland club was keeping the Seals at the top by trimming the Sacramento Coyotes while the Seals were being taken down the line by Seattle. But this week, or at least for the couple of days, the San Francisco fans, when they happen to come in meeting with Oakland fans, have been getting even on their tormenters of a couple of weeks ago, by reminding them that it is the Seals who are keeping the Oaks from sliding into sixth position. And the local fans have no way of coming back at those from the other side of the bay, for the Seals have saved the Oaks from sixth place by the way they have trimmed the Vernon Tigers, while the Oaks were being handed three straight beatings by the Angels in the South.

Again the Oakland pitchers are failing to deliver, while their teammates are doing all that can be expected of them with the bat. After the Oaks had taken five games in a row from the Salt Lake Bees and thereby won their fourth series in a row, Mel Anderson, the local baseball enthusiast made a suggestion that a pennant winning fund be raised for the Oakland ball club. But a good friend of Mel's advised him that this pennant fund stunt had proved a jinx for the last five or six years, and that he had better lay off for a while. So Mel took the little tip, and he is now thanking his stars that he did, for everybody would be blaming him with bringing the jinx on the Oaks.

Jones Hasn't Yet Taken Up His Transportation.

But there is not a jinx bothering the Oaks at the present time—it is the sudden blowup of the pitching staff that has put an end to their wonderful drive toward Pennantville, and it is hoped that the pitchers will soon get back to the form that helped the Oaks to advance so close to the top of the list in the four weeks previous to this. John Paul Jones, the pitcher purchased from the Indianapolis club of the American Association hasn't yet taken up his transportation, and there is cause for a bit of worry around the local headquarters. So if the pitcher reports at all it will not be before next week when the Oaks return home to play the Seals. Here's hoping that George Valentine, another new pitcher, will deliver as well as Joe Devine has said he will, for he will certainly be a big help to the local club right now.

Victory of Devine's Club A Big Boost for California.

Once again, California baseball fans will have to doff their lids to Joe Devine, the Oakland boy who is managing the Calgary club in the Western Canadian League. Last year Joe made his debut as a manager in organized baseball by leading the Calgary club to the championship in the Western Canadian League. And just a couple of days ago, Joe sent the glad news to his Oakland friends that his club had won the championship for the first half of the 1921 race, which assures him of his boys playing in the post season series after the close of the second half of the season. Still Joe's boys may not have to play a post series, for they may step out and also finish first in the second half.

Up around Canada, Devine's boys are being called "The Fighting Broncs From California." It is no wonder that they are being called that, for they certainly put up the old fight to win in the first half. They won nineteen out of their last twenty-two games to gain first place, and for the last couple of weeks they led by only half a game. In the middle of the first half, Devine's boys looked hopelessly out of the running, for there wasn't a player hitting as high as .300 and most of them were on the sick list. Carl Manda, Jack Mooney, Pat Kilhullen and First Baseman Anhier were on the sick or injured list for a good while, and Bernie Viveirous went to pieces on his first road trip, but later came around and developed into the best second sacker in the league.

Gillespie and Schnell Sought By N. Y. Yankees.

The success of Devine's club is another big boost for California, especially the bay section, for when Joe invaded the Canadian country to seek a second championship he had four new youngsters with him from the bay section. They were Bernie Viveirous, Jack Mooney, Johnny Gillespie and Carl Schnell. All four have delivered big. Also there was Anhier from Southern California and Harold Nelson, not forgetting other players who played with Devine for a full season in 1920.

Last year Devine turned out three youngsters who were grabbed up by big league clubs. They were "Kettle" Wirts, a catcher and Nelson (Chicken) Hawks and Walter (Seacap) Christensen, outfielders. And those big league club owners haven't overlooked the talent that Joe turned out last season, and they are again ready to grab a couple of youngsters from him.

The players being sought are Pitchers Johnny Gillespie, the Oakland youngsters, and Carl Schnell, who was with the St. Mary's college team and also in The TRIBUNE Midwinter league. Bob Connery, scout for the New York Yankees, is now visiting in the bay section, and his next visit will be to Calgary where he will try and pry both pitchers from Devine. And there is a possibility of Bernie Viveirous being grabbed. In a letter to Ambrose Furrer, Joe told of the New York Yankees being after both those players, and also of the many handicaps which the club was under while fighting for the championship.

Oaks Trimmed For the Third Straight Time

Every Oakland Pitcher Has Failed to Show Any Class Against Angels.

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—The Oakland ball club has been here for three days now in hope of winning a ball game from the Angels, but in spite of the fact that they tried out every one of their pitchers, they haven't won a ball game, while the Angels have three more wins to their credit than they did when the Oaks arrived here. Russell (Buz) Arlett, the tall gentleman who was reported as having hit his old form of last season, was started against the Angels yesterday and his performance on the mound was short, for the Angels batted him to the clubhouse in the second inning. George Winn took his place and before the Angels completed their day's work they had piled up eight runs, while the Oaks got just three less.

The visitors outbatted the Angels, but the hits made by the locals were timely. Reinhart started on the hill for the Angels and although his teammates gave him a five-run lead in the first inning, Manager Killefer was forced to yank him in the second when the Oaks threatened to tie up the score. "Lefty" Thomas was the gent who went to his rescue and he quickly put an end to that second inning attack.

ANGELS START WITH FIVE.

The Angels were glad to see Arlett, or at least they indicated so in the first inning when they grabbed five runs. Statz sarted the trouble with a single and moved along to second on McAuley's sacrifice, and to third when Carroll reached first on a fielder's choice. Griggs chased one runner home with a double, and Sam Crawford, who had been hitting the ball all over the lot all week, was purposely walked to fill the bags. But the walk was a bad move, for Bert Niehoff cracked out a triple that cleared the sacks, and he scored himself on Lindimore's bunt.

Guisto's single, a walk to Brubaker and singles by Mitze, Arlett and Pinelli gave the Oaks two runs in the second and caused the yanking of Reinhart. Thomas stepped in and got rid of Cooper and Wille without any trouble at all. A walk to Knight and singles by Brubaker and Mitze gave the Oaks another in the third, but that left the score 7 to 3 against them, as the Angels had bumped Arlett for three more hits, and that followed by a sacrifice fly off Winn gave them two more runs. The Oaks also scored one in each of the fifth and sixth innings, but the Angels got one more in the sixth, and that ended the scoring for the day, and the Oaks were defeated for the third time in a row. The score:

Best Tractors Easily Defeat Colored Nine

Bill Wagner's C. L. Best Tractors didn't have to do much heavy hitting to defeat the Oakland Colored Braves. The Braves practically defeated themselves by making eight errors in the field and the Tractors almost run themselves to death on the sacks. Heinie Lay pitched for the Tractors and fanned twelve of the colored boys. Bill featured with the stick and on the bags for the Tractors. The score:

Shellenback Bumped Hard By the Seals

So Tigers Suffer Their Third Beating From Graham's Athletes.

Frank Shellenback, the pitcher who during the first couple of months of innings, but he failed to hold it as one of the best in the league as a member of the Vernon Tigers, is losing as regularly as the average pitcher in the league these days. Frank pitched against the Seals at Recreation Park yesterday afternoon, and what those Seals did to him was anything but nice for his pitching record. They lambasted his shoots for thirteen hits and wound up on the long end of an 8 to 5 score.

Shellenback's teammates built up a 3 to 0 lead for him in the first couple of innings, but he failed to hold it. The Tigers even batted Ernie Shore, a former Tiger, from the hill in the third inning. Shellenback cracked as early as the second inning when Jimmy O'Connell crashed a double to center, and scored all the way from second when Shellenback fielded Kelly's grounder and tossed him out at first. It was here learned that Ham Hyatt has such a sore arm that he can't throw the ball from first to the plate, so the Seals were taking chances all afternoon. They got two more runs off Shellenback in the third, and then rested until the sixth when they grabbed another, and then staged their big rally in the seventh when they scored three runs on four hits.

The most exciting event of the day was in the eighth inning when Sam Lewis, who relieved Shore of the pitching job, tried to lay down a bunt, and after failing he took a regular cut at the ball and knocked it into the left field bleachers for a home run. It was funnier than going to a circus to watch Sam run around the paths. And the hit was a regular line drive that went into the stands with inches to spare. The score:

MOVEMENT ON FOOT TO LIMIT PLAYERS IN GAME

Cleveland Indians Recently Used 25 Athletes in Contest With Tigers.

A suggestion has been put forward in the East that new legislation should be brought into baseball whereby managers will be limited to using only a certain number of players in any one game. In some games managers send in pinch hitters, pinch runners, substitute pitchers, etc., in such numbers that the scorers and spectators become bewildered.

The suggestion has come forward from a recent game played between the world champion Cleveland team and the Detroit Tigers. Manager Tris Speaker of the Cleveland team used no less than twenty-three men in the game, inserting pinch hitters, substitute pitchers and runners. The contention is made that the use of pinch hitters, etc., many times is abused and Eastern experts are of the opinion that the time is now ripe to limit the number of men who shall be allowed to participate. No effort is being made to say how many of any type of players, whether it be infielders, outfielders, pitchers or catchers, shall be used, but the new suggestion is made to simply limit the total number who shall play.

The twenty-three men used by Cleveland is the largest number used this year so far, but in other years and even this year many teams have sent twenty men into a game. In the Pacific Coast League pinch hitters, etc., are often used and on several occasions as many as fifteen men are used. So far this year Seattle holds the record, having used eighteen men against Los Angeles on April 19 last. In other games this season San Francisco, Salt Lake and Seattle have each used seventeen men and the same and other teams have on a number of occasions usd fifteen and sixteen men.

STRATEGY OVERDONE.

The contention made in the East is that pinch hitting strategy is overdone and that in a number of instances such use is almost an abuse and handicaps a manager more often than it helps him. Many of the Major league teams carry a number of outfielders for the purpose of opposing left handed slabsters with right handed hitters and the reverse. Batting records plainly show that the best batsmen can hit right and left handed with equal success.

Substitution of a pinch hitter has many times brought about d feat instead of a victory that was expected from the substitution. The sending in a "runner" is another angle of the game that has been abused, and as a general rule does not obtain the results desired. Relieving pitchers who are "up against it" is both desirable and many times popular as such removal many times prevents a lop-sided game and maintains a standard that the "fans" crave for.

The suggestion made is that managers shall be compelled to use only the men they start the game with the only exception being in the case of pitchers. In the case of a player being so severely injured that he cannot continue that of necessity would be cause for substitution, but using up man after man in so-called "strategy" is not considered the idea or the ideal of the National game.

California Tennis Stars Enter Finals in Phila. Tourney

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—Philip Neer of Leland Stanford will meet J. B. Fenno Jr. of Harvard in the final round of the singles of the intercollegiate lawn tennis championship tournament at Haverford today.

In the final of the doubles Fenno and E. W. Feibleman of Harvard will play Edmund Levy and Wallace Bates of the University of California.

Fenno easily defeated McNeil Drumright, University of Texas, 6-2, 6-1. His placement shots from deep court passed Drumright many times.

The other semi-final round match, played on a slow court, was between Philip Neer and Fritz Bastian of the University of Indiana. Neer's excellent cross-court shots and deep driving prevented Bastain from coming to the net and enabled him to take a 5-1 lead. Here he changed his style of game, attempting to smash Bastian's slow shots. He drove many into the net, and thus encouraged. Bastian won the next four games and the set. Reverting to his opening style of play, Neer won the next two games and the set. He continued this in the second set.

Levy and Bates entered the third round by eliminating Shipway and Dickinson of Princeton, 6-2, 4-6, 10-8. L. V. Williams and F. M. Bundy of Williams lost to the Californians in the fourth round, 6-4, 7-5.

Rude Shock Is Given Portland Baseball Fan

A Portland fan nearly died of heart disease the other day when he picked up a newspaper and found the Beavers at the head of the percentage column in the Pacific Coast League. His life was saved by the prompt action of a bystander who pointed out the the fact that the fan had his paper upside-down.

Pesky Sprott Should Prove Good Coach

If Pesky Sprott, the great halfback of last year's undefeated University of California football team is as great a teacher as he is a player and general all-around athlete, then the Bruin freshmen, who will have him for their guide and mentor, are likely to be a formidable organization of first year men. Sprott recently was signed to coach the baby class.

Baseballs Cost Major Leaguers Small Fortune

By WILLIAM UNMACK

Baseball fans and the public in general have no conception of the money needed by various clubs of the different leagues to pay the one item of baseballs. The national pastime in so far as the major leagues is concerned is a big financial undertaking. Uniforms, and other equipment runs into many thousands of dollars for each team, and the matter of baseball cost is a big item of expense.

The leather covered cork center "pill" is the center of a manufacturing business that is never given a thought and yet the various factories this season have been unable to fill orders for balls. One of the largest factories last week notified its Pacific Coast manager not to take any more orders for balls, that the factory was more than 7,000 dozen balls behind on orders, and that it was impossible to catch up on the orders this season.

COST $1.50 EACH.

The price of league balls at wholesale is about $1.50 each and these balls retail for about $2.50. The big clubs order their stock at the start of the season and place orders of from two hundred dozen for a minor league team to three hundred dozen for a major league nine.

An idea of the number of balls used by the big teams is shown by a recent statement made by Joe O'Brien, secretary of the New York Giants, who stated that last season his club spent more than $5,000 for balls and in games played on the home diamond used slightly more than three thousand balls. In every instance the home team supplies the balls, and it is safe to assume that all the major league teams used about the same number of cork centers that the Giants did.

MANY BALLS LOST.

The loss of balls is a big item to these clubs. There was a time when 90 per cent of balls hit into the bleachers were thrown back by the fans. During the days of the war, however, the fad of keeping the balls started, the cry then being "Give it to a soldier." "What we would like to know," said O'Brien, "is where all the balls go. A few hammered out of shape by hardy wallops by Babe Ruth and others, a few banged out of the lot entirely, a few kept by players for practice, but mostly it must be that the ones fouled into the stands are the largest inroads into the club's reserve supply of ammunition. We did not mind during the war when the fans kept the balls for the soldiers, but now the grafting of baseballs has grown rather alarming. The people don't realize they are taking something of value."

INTERESTING FACTS.

O'Brien gives some interesting facts when he tells that in the 77 games by his team last year on the home grounds from two to three dozen balls were used in each game. In double headers over four dozen balls were used. During the training season about fifty dozen balls were used, this being outside the number used in the regular league series. Bats are always tried out and tested on the training trips and more than 150 bats were so tested on the training grounds.

FUTURE GREATS PLAN A FLOCK OF BALL GAMES FOR HOLIDAY WEEK END

League and Independent Contests Galore Are Billed for Every Park in the Bay District.

By MAURY PESSANO.

Now that the first half of the pennant races in the Mission and San Joaquin leagues are over the little Joe Bushers around the bay will be given more attention by the fans for at least a couple of months. All the clubs in both the Mission andValley leagues will start out in the second half of the pennant race tomorrow afternoon, but real interest in those two leagues will not crop up until the clubs have played more than half of their games. The pennant chase in the Tri-County League rests between the California Cotton Mills and the Vallejo club. The program of games for tomorrow afternoon and Monday, the Fourth of July, is a good one. The fans who spend the Fourth at home will be well entertained.

The C. L. Best Tractors will meet the Maxwell Hardware club at San Leandro tomorrow and Monday afternoon. The teams in the Elks' league will remain idle tomorrow. The Santa Cruz Bills have dropped out of the league and a new schedule had to be drawn up, so the teams will start out next Sunday.

Several of the teams in the Mission league have signed up new material. With the loss of Gene Calder, Manager "Pop" Arlett of the Gilroy club had to do some tall hustling all week to sign Heine Lay to pitch for the club. The directors of the Watsonville club have released Bill Leard and signed "Chick" Autrey to manage the club. Bill Plummer, local youngster, who has been pitching for the California Cotton Mills in the Tri-County league, will be seen on the hill for Watsonville. The Mission and Valley league fans will be given a game tomorrow and Monday at the various diamonds in those two circuits. In the Mission league the Gilroy club opens up at Hollister tomorrow afternoon. Salinas winners of the first half of the fight travel to Watsonville Sunday and Monday. The two San Jose clubs play at San Jose Sunday and Monday. The game on the Fourth between Hollister and Gilroy is billed for Gilroy.

With the loss of Heinie Lay the Best Tractors will be somewhat handicapped, but Wagner is going to surprise the wise fans. He has a couple of boys playing the outfield who can do some pitching, and will bank on them to keep up the good work of the Tractors. Bill has lost four men to clubs down the valley, but is lucky to sign up good material to fill those shoes left vacant. Both games will start at 2:30.

Vallejo Club Will Journey to Napa.

Tom Sullivan, manager of the Vallejo club, will take his team to Napa tomorrow afternoon. The Millers should have easy pickings in Petaluma. The Millers and Vallejo are still tied for first place and will meet next Sunday at Beach park. This game should decide the winners. Rumors are out that the Petaluma club will withdraw from the league after the finish of the first half of the league. "Dutch" Lundberg will pitch for Vallejo and will be opposed by Ezette. With the loss of Bill Plummer, Frank Cotton of the Millers will use "Shorty" La Cloustra against the chicken club.

For the first time in several years, Washington Park, at the west end of Alameda, will be the scene of a big game of ball. Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 the Halton-Didiers will hook up with the Modern Woodmen. The park has been put into first class playing condition having a new back stop and grandstand. Much credit for this must be given to Al Benton, superintendent of parks and playgrounds in Alameda, who is a great lover of the national game, and a booster for the little bushers. The Woodmen will present a strong line-up against the Clothiers with "Lefty" Sprinkle doing the pitching for them. The Alamedans have several good pitchers.

Melrose Merchants Have Double-Header.

The Melrose Merchants will play a double-header over the holiday. Tomorrow afternoon on their home lot they will battle with the fast Calatone Water club, who have given a good account of themselves so far this season. Fred Mitawald will pitch this game. Monday, Edstrom will lead his boys up against the Goodrich Rubber club. The tire boys have been stepping at a fast clip lately. Bill Nurl will bend them for the Tire boys, while Gene Kersten may pitch against them.

The Clements Drugs will also play Sunday and Monday. Tomorrow they meet the Oakland Braves at St. Mary's College. On the Fourth they are scheduled to play the Indoor Yacht club at Fortieth and San Pablo.

The Oakland Elks travel to Fort Bragg for a pair of games Sunday and Monday. The Elks are taking a real team and hope to come home with a pair of wins.

The West Oakland Merchants will tackle the Goodyear Tire club tomorrow afternoon at Bay View playground.

Pentathlon Swimming Title Will Be At Stake Sunday, Monday

The first Pacific Pentathlon Swimming championship will be held at Neptune Beach Sunday and Monday. The Olympic club of San Francisco is entering its big three—George Schroth, Tony Karaczefsky and Jack Howell, men who are all good in free style, breast and back stroke.

The Neptune club will have Ray Jorgeson, former Pacific Coast 100-yard champion; George Mitchell, Pacific Coast 200-yard breast-stroke champion, and Phil Wallach, a good free style and breast swimmer.

The events are fifty and 220 yards, free style, 100 yards breast stroke, fifty yards back stroke, and five voluntary dives from the ten-foot springboard.

The judges are John Desch, George Lineer and Louis McLane. The event is under the sanction of the Pacific Association of the A. A. U., and is the first all-around swimming championship ever held in the United States under the official championship seal of a member of the A. A. U. There is a movement on foot to have this event listed as an American standard all-around swimming championship.

Tri-County League May Close Tomorrow

VALLEJO, July 2.—From reports current in baseball circles the Tri-county baseball league will come to an end tomorrow. The first half of the season's schedule is ended on Sunday, and it is stated that Petaluma is not in favor of league ball any longer, and that Santa Rosa will not join the league, even with better inducements offered than was the case early this summer. Vallejo, Napa and the Oakland Cotton Millers are the other members of the league.

HOMERS BY LEWIS HELP BEES TRIM COYOTES.

SALT LAKE CITY, July 2.—Duffy Lewis may not have been good enough to play in the big leagues, but he can have a job with Gavvy Cravath's Bees for a long, long while. In one of the wildest ball games ever witnessed here, the Bees defeated the Sacramento Coyotes 12 to 11. The locals held an 11 to 2 lead when the Coyotes went to bat in the ninth inning, but the visitors staged a rally that netted them nine runs and tied the score. The locals couldn't come back in their half of that inning, but in the tenth they filled the bags and Paddy Siglin drove over a run with a single to center.

Duffy Lewis was some star, hitting two homers and a double for the Bees, while Paddy Siglin and Joe Wilhoit each gathered three hits for themselves. The score:

Babe Ruth Needed His Hits in April

This season "Babe" Ruth knocked out his 28th home run on June 29. Last years this same clout was made July 14. August of last year he garnered only seven homers, which was his poorest month. Last July he hit out 13, which was his best month. Comparative April, May and June homers are:

	1920	1921
April	0	5
May	12	10
June	12	13

By this it will be seen that the "Babe" had considerable use for that start he got in April. Otherwise he'd be behind.

After an absence of more than two years the Twenty-third Avenue Merchants opened their season by defeating the Best Steel nine 7 to 6. It was a nip and tuck game until the 9th. With Rego on third, Ecker squeezed Rego in with the winning run. The pitching of Welsch and the playing of Rego at short was the feature of the game.

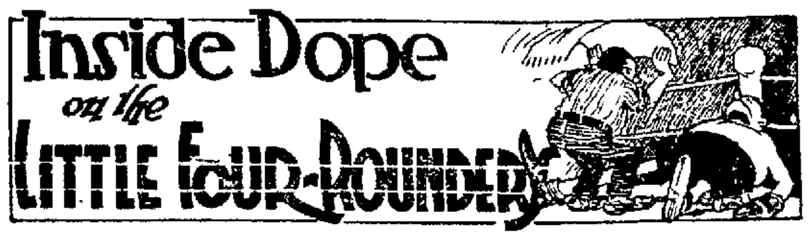
CLIFF LESTER WILL BE TENDERED BENEFIT SHOW WEDNESDAY

LOCAL BOXING FANS SPEND EVE BEFORE BIG BATTLE LOOKING FOR CARPENTIER MONEY



By BOB SHAND.

With the "Big Scrap" out of the way local fans will give the little four-rounders a tumble. The first card staged at the Auditorium in many months will be offered Wednesday night and as the receipts will be turned over to Cliff Lester the building will be jammed. The various local unions have bought entire sections of seats while the old guard who never missed a fight show are clamoring for their former locations. Tommy Simpson, who made the matches for the benefit show, stated this morning that the house would probably be sold out by Monday. Lester is at a local hospital badly smashed up following an accident and his wife and kiddies are in need of a little financial assistance.

The feature bout on the card will be the George Gibbons-Billy Arbuckle heavyweight match. Gibbons is the kid Tommy Simpson was training last fall and the lad kept up his gymnasium work while the sport was dormant. He is six feet three inches tall, weighs 220 pounds—and has never seen fight in his life. The kid dropped in from Byron one afternoon and announced to Simpson that he would like to be a box-fighter. Tommy liked his looks and his size and steered him into the gymnasium where he stood up gamely under punishment. That convinced the little West Oaklander that the lad had the makings of a fighter and he has kept an eye on him ever since. Tommy tried to get the boy to attend one of the fight shows and see how the regular four-rounders acted but George was willing to wait until he was one of the principals. Down at the Point the fans think he is a wonderful prospect and they look for him to win a flock of fights. He hits like a mule kicks and although still very green gets around the ring in good shape.

FROM 12TH AND BROADWAY.

Mr. Arbuckle is one of the many Twelfth and Broadway prides and will be well supported by the newsboys. He is a big good-natured kid who hasn't had much experience but who is willing to take a chance.

Eddie "Spec" Ramies and Benny Vierra will tangle in the main event and if they are as fast as they used to be the customers will get a lot of action. Jack Davis and Joe Tavis, another pair well known to the fans will tangle in one of the preliminaries. Here is the complete card.

Benny Vierra vs. Eddie Ramies—126 pounds.
Jimmy Diggins vs. Jimmy West—135 pounds.
George Gibbons vs. Billy Arbuckle—heavyweights.
Jack Davis vs. Joe Tavis—126 pounds.
Bat Larson vs. Mickey O'Brien—140 pounds.
Frankie Murphy vs. Jimmy Wolfe—130 pounds.
Jimmy Dunning vs. Johnny Derney—115 pounds.
Dave McClure vs. Toddy Dell—125 pounds.

Tickets for the show are on sale at the usual places and are also being handled by members of the Teamsters' Union.

The boxing card at Idora Park Monday afternoon should prove interesting as Matchmaker Bob Love has signed up all the champions of the Pacific fleet and the various naval training stations around the bay. Kid Constantine, who boxed once at the Auditorium but who was a big card at the Vallejo club will meet Light, of Goat Island, in a battle for the featherweight title. Constantine holds the crown at present but Light promises to make him hustle. Wagster and Williams, a pair of husky middleweights have an old grudge to settle and should make things interesting. Howard and Carlsmitz, a pair of heavyweights are also on the card. There is a lot of rivalry among the scrappers and there will be big rooting sections from the ships in the bay, Goat Island and Mare Island.

George Eagles, the local boxer now performing in Denver who told the world a few weeks ago he had changed his name from Eagles to Eagles, has made another switch.

"I will be known to the sporting world hereafter as George Tendler," writes George. "George Eagles is a very odd name and people don't seem to get onto it. I box the semi-windup to the Leonard-Coogan fight here (at Denver) with a good lightweight not yet selected."

Bill Scott, a former usher at the local fights show, post-cards from Monte Rio as follows and also to wit:

"Let's help that Lester benefit. Request all former ushers to report at the Auditorium July 6 and donate their services. Non-appearance on that date to call for same at future shows."

Joe Connolly, the handsome traffic cop who presides over the Thirteenth and Franklin street corner, also wants to donate his services and Walter Keesling, whose office is at Thirteenth and Broadway, also wants to help.

There is a letter in the hands of the sporting editor for Teddy O'Hara.

Huge Stadium On the Seine May Be Reality

Frenchmen Propose Modern Olympus Seating 100,000 Customers.

By NEWTON C. PARKE
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, July 2—The creation of a world sport capital, where all future Olympic games should take place, as urged by Frantz Reichel, a well-known French writer, who is trying to enlist the support of French athletic organizations and members of Parliament.

Reichel would have France contribute this great center of athletics to the sporting world. He would have this modern Olympis built just outside the gates of Paris and if possible along the river Seine, so that aquatic events could be seen from the Olympic stadiums. He is urging the government to act in time to have part of the new sport city built for the Olympic games in Paris in 1924.

The plans of the French writer are summed up as follows:

"The idea of recreating the Olympic games came from a Frenchman and it was in Paris that the project for the first Olympic meet of modern times, the one held in Athens in 1896, was conceived. Now is the time for Paris to construct an Olympic city, on ancient lines, in such grandiose style that all nations will agree to have all future Olympic competitions here. Let us create at the same time and within the walls of this sport city a splendid international athletic institute, with the best instructors in the world, a real temple of sport to which athletic youths of the world will flock as they flocked to Athens in ancient times.

"We should have the most modern installations, with all facilities for training and for caring for great crowds at athletic events. There should be a gigantic stadium capable of seating 100,000 persons, with stands 100 feet high encircling the fields for football and other athletic games. Under this stadium should be great message rooms, baths and well-furnished quarters, where the athletes might live during competitions, away from noisy hotels and city life.

"At one side of the stadium should be another vast terrain, where young athletes could carry on their exercises under the eyes of skillful trainers. There should be another stadium for swimming events, one for lawn tennis, a stadium for boxing and an open-air, as well as a covered gymnasium.

"Attached to this Olympic city should be doctors who know athletics and how to give advice to athletes."

Boxing Notes

With the Dempsey-Carpentier fistic battle a matter of history, there probably will be some persons, here and there who will get a thrill out of the announcement that another chess tournament will be held at Havana, Cuba, at the end of the year.

"Now that the big fight is over it looks as if a lot of sports editors would have to get back to work again," remarked The Genial Genial Grouch, as he sauntered into our sanctum. All of which is rather an unkind cut. Any one who has had to write a column of "stuff" a day for weeks on the training period when there wasn't anything to write about, will vouch for the fact that a holiday for the purpose of resting up is what ought to be coming.

An "expert" on matters pertaining to boxing is an expert if you, individually, think he is, when it comes to the fellow who tries to tell what's what through the medium of the printed word. One would incline to the belief that any one would accept what Willie Ritchie, one time lightweight champion of the world, said as "expert" stuff. Likewise the opinion of James Coffroth, who probably has staged more bouts than any other man in the world, if not any two or three others combined. Well, here is how they figured the winner of the big bout on the eve of the battle: Ritchie—Carpentier; Coffroth—Dempsey. This simply takes us back to our first statement, that in the final analysis you expert the "experts" yourself, according as to which man you think is going to win.

Now that the Dempsey-Carpentier affair is a thing of the past, perhaps we may be pardoned for making mention of the fact that a national track and field championships for 1921 is on the boards. These boys have had as much chance in the newspapers as the well known snowball in the nether regions.

Here is CLIFF LESTER, snapped while enjoying a little sunshine in the hospital grounds. Cliff's arm is filled with tubes and plates and things and may never be normal again. That's why his mates in the Teamsters' Union are staging the big benefit boxing show at the auditorium next Wednesday evening.

PHIGHT PHANS HERE HAD THEIR MONEY ON J. HARRISON DEMPSEY

The Broadway sports spent a busy evening last night trying to get "set" right on the Dempsey-Carpentier fight. From one ice cream parlor to another the boys wandered in pairs and threes—all looking for Carpentier money and finding very little of it.

Occasionally a gent would be unearthed who opined that the Frenchman would cop the title but the hordes of Dempsey supporters scared the life out of the Carpentier men.

Later in the evening the pairs and threes joined forces until there was a regular army of gents with sporting proclivities seeking other gents who might think the championship of the world would land in that Gay Paree this evening. Up and down Broadway they swept looking for action and finding mighty little of it.

About 10 o'clock last night a man showed up at Al White's and announced that Carpentier looked like a good thing. Bull Croll reached him first after trampling over Eddie White, Curley Blakely and six or eight other gents.

"How much you wanna bet" asked Bull.

"Oh, I ain't bettin'," said the stranger, "I was just offerin' an opinion."

Kid Parker, the hatter, looked out of his store yesterday to find the sidewalk blocked.

"They ain't no licker in the lids I'm sellin'," commented the kid "so why the rush?"

VICK STARTED SOMETHING.

Somebody, maybe Vicksburg had started a rumor that Parker had three thousand dollars to bet on the Frenchman. The fact was that Parker had the three thousand all right, but every nickel of it was for Dempsey, and early this morning it was still unplaced.

Freak bets galore were recorded but there was little wagering on the general outcome. The Dempsey people were offering three to one with no takers and a lot of even money was placed on the proposition of Carpentier not coming up for the sixth round. Some of the more ardent Dempsey supporters looked for a little ten to one that Jack would flatten the visitor in the opening chukker but there was nothing doing on the other end of the bout.

Wagers on the result were made with the understanding that all bets will be off if the fight goes the limit. Referee Harry Ertle stated he would give an unofficial decision after he gets out of the ring, but nobody knows anything about Ertle out here and his decision is not going to decide any bets.

Paddock May Be Through as Champ Sprinter

Pull On His Injured Tendon May Cut Short Track Career.

If Charlie Paddock "pulled" or injured a tendon in his recordbreaking sprints, then his days for further recordbreaking are done. No matter how trivial such an accident may seem, it has its ultimate effect on the competitive life of the man so injured.

It makes no difference who it is. History shows us such an injury is beyond repair. True the injured man will be able to run for some time and beat many high class men, but if an overtaxing of the driving muscles is indulged in, then the injury will assert itself and the runner is some day doomed to break down. Go back as far as you like in the sprinting history of the world and you find the man who has "pulled" a tendon is finished. Harry Hutchins one of the greatest sprinters who ever lived, "pulled" one and he never was himself thereafter. Getting down to more modern sprinters we find Howard Drew, George Parker, with the same ... and Morris Kirksey who has run Paddock to the latter's limit has now got a tendon that means his finish. Now comes Paddock.

It is something to be congratulated on that Paddock broke no less than eleven sprint records from 90 yards to 300 meters before he himself broke a tendon. Paddock will quite likely be able to compete in the national championships at Pasadena July 4, but there is no telling what will happen to that leg of his.

A REAL CHAMPION.

There is no question as to Paddock's greatness. He has broken every world amateur record in the sprints, but there are still several that show better times by professionals, notably the 90 yards, 100 yards, 130 yards, 150 yards and 300 yards. And further let it be noted that practically all the professional records were made on grass.

In the standard records that count for most, namely the 100 and 220 yards, Paddock has shown greater consistency than any other great sprinter of the past and that holds good for professionals as well as amateurs. He has done the 100 yards this year no less than five times in 9 3-5 and did 9 4-5 and 10 seconds on several other occasions. He has also run the 220 in 21 1-5 or better innumerable times.

Here is the list of Paddock's marks all made this year, and the records he broke or are better than his own.

Paddock	Distance	Previous professional or Amateur record
8 4-5	90 yrd	8 7-10	Walker S Africa
9 3-5	100 yrds	9 3-5	Donaldson Austral
10 1	110 yrds	10 4-5	Donaldson
10 2-5	100 mtrs	10 1-5	Donaldson
12 2-5	130 yrds	12	Postle Donaldson
14 1-5	150 yrds	14	Donaldson
19	200 yrds	19	Postle New Zeal
21 1-5	200 mtrs	21 3-5	Hahn U S
20 4-5	220 yrds	21 1-10	Donaldson
30 1	300 yrds	29 7-8	Donaldson
[illegible]	300 mtrs	[illegible]	Pelliot France

The list plainly shows that what Paddock is to amateur sprinting Donaldson was to professional sprints in his day and many of the Donaldson marks are still better than Paddock's brilliant performances. It is doubtful, however, if Paddock will ever again be able to break the Donaldson marks, if his leg has given way.

Make the Best of It If Your Favorite Man Loses, Says Lardner

By RING W. LARDNER

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Friday.—On the eve of what has been so aptly termed the battle of the century, though a few critics think that the Marne and Verdun was pretty near its equal in importance, I wish to offer a couple of suggestions to the general public of this country and France in regards to their conduct on and after July 3. These suggestions is called forth by some remarks made the other day by a French boxing expert that was sent over here to report the fight, and here is his remarks.

"France as a nation prays as one that Georges will be returned the victor. His success or failure is a matter of national concern. On the result may hinge the elevation of France. His defeat would be regarded as a national calamity."

Well, friends, if the here scrap means that much to La Belle France why it means that much to La Belle America, and as it looks like a cinch that either Georges or Jacques is going to get knocked for a ghoul, it is also a cinch that either France or America faces a calamity which it may take them years to recover from here perhaps never.

That is unless everybody keeps their head and schools themselfs to face the worst that can happen.

That is what I want to say in few words in regards to as I have an idea that maybe if I confide how I acted in different instants like these and made the best of situations even more desperate, why maybe the general public of France and America can profit by my example and conduct themselfs so as no matter how the fight comes out, they won't be no collapse of the ... at Washington or Paris.

Lardner Gets Excited Once in a While

Well, friends, you will doubtless remember last year when the resolute and shamrock was racing for the Lipton mustache Cup and one day the resolute had stormy trouble and couldn't finish the heat, and that meant that the English boat had won a temporary victory.

What did I do? Hired a taxi cab and told the driver to take me into the open space, where I got out and set under a leather tree and fought my battle alone in God's great outdoors.

"This must not break up my home," I says to myself, and kept repeating it over and over till I believed it and in three weeks time no visitor at our house could of told that I had past throug a crises.

Or take the day when word come that Mrs. Mallory had lost her tennis match to Mlle. Lenglen. The first impulse was to get a hold of a time table and find out when was the next train for honolulu, but I pulled myself together and with the little woman always at my side whispering words of encouragement it wasn't more than a week when I eat two eggs.

So I say to you loyal citizens of France and America, no matter if Jack soaks Georges or vice versa keep a hold of yourself, remember the wife and kiddies and if possible take up some musical instruments.

As my customers has maybe noticed from the date line on this despatch I am spending the eve of Battle in the citrus belt of Sunny New Jersey less than a half hour run from the thirty acres of boils.

Before retiring I may indulge in a rubber of bridge with mine host and the rival Mrs. but will play in a lighter vain as I always make it a point to give my brains a complete rest the night before a big fight. The fighters carry this custom to even greater extremes and go whole years without subjecting themselfs to unnecessary strain.

He Will Pick the Winner Tomorrow

In my next despatch I may be able to give you some idea of the win or at least where think wins. But I am firm to the last in my determination to not pick a winner. Suffice it to say that I learned this p. m. that Carpentier wasn't the only party that was floored at the manhassett training camp. One day this week a sweet lady reporter come to interview him and says she wanted to ask him a few questions.

"All right," says Georges.

"Well," says the lady, "I want to ask you first, when does that heart of yours beat the fastest, when you are in the ring or when you think of that little kiddie back home?"

According to eye witnesses the champion of Europe fell over backwards, hit his bean on the edge of a long island cuspidor and took the count of 102.

Here Is How Dempsey Won the Championship

Jack Dempsey played the accompaniment to Jess Willard's swan song on July 4, 1919, at Toledo, O. It was all over in the third round. Jess got $100,000 for the performance, many times the amount Caruso earns in a whole opera. Dempsey got $27,000.

The champion fell down and got up so many times in the first round that the referee became dizzy from counting, and failed to hear the bell. This was on the fifth liaison between Willard and the floor.

The gong sounded feebly on the seventh count, but Referee Pecord continued chopping the air over Willard. When he had finished he informed Dempsey that there had been a knockout and the champion left the ring, only to have his manager come running after him with the information that there had been a mistake.

That first round was awful. But it prepared everybody for the worst and no one was surprised when Willard lost in the third round.

Dempsey opened the fight by accepting some taps on the face. Then he hauled off and busted Willard in the stomach so hard that a dazed expression overspread the champion's countenance. Dempsey then landed several blows to the jaw and Willard dropped to the floor for six counts, only to fall again with a blow that greeted his nose.

As he got up a second time he turned his head away, but the Giant Killer struck him twice and he fell on his hands and knees.

Arising once more, Willard was cornered by Dempsey, who pounded him to the mat with rights and lefts to the face. Again he got up and once more he was knocked down.

Somehow the giant groped his way through the second round, suffering nothing more humiliating than a fall partly through the ropes. Dempsey tore into him again when the third round opened. Willard was groggy and weak, with one eye out of shape and everything gone wrong. His seconds threw the towel into the ring and called it a day.

THIS TIME LAST YEAR

Kauff traded by the Giants to the Toronto Internationals for Spencer. Sicking went to the Cincinnati Reds.

Larry Doyle made two singles, a double and a home run in four trips to the plate.

THE DREAMY ANGLER — By Edgar Guest

THE DREAMY FISHERMAN

There's something about a rod an' line
An' the gentle swish o' the willow trees,
That sets the wanderin' brain o' mine
To drowsy dreamin' of mysteries.

Out on the bank of the river, I
Can see what never I've seen before,
Ships an' their cargoes passin' by,
Jewels an' silks from a distant shore.

Out of the dust of the centuries
Kings an' pirates an' princes rise,
An' the bugles call to the summer breeze,
An' the wide world travels before my eyes.

I've talked with sages an' walked with men
Who lived an' died in the long ago,
They've sprawled on the bank with me, too, right then
An' chummed with me like the folks I know.

A lonely fisherman: Oh, not I.
There's never a minute that I'm alone,
For far off there in a patch of sky
I can see all things that the world has known.

GOLF

The California Junior championship is to be held at Del Monte on July 21 to 24, and is attracting the interest of boys of 16 years and under. Roger D. Lapham, president of the California Golf association, will return home from the East on July the 15th, and may be present at Del Monte to see the boys in their competition.

Work is going on at the sea side course at Pebble Beach to put the links in tiptop condition for the holding of the California championship in September. The tournament committee of the association has made recommendations for a number of changes, which will add length to the course and also bring about improvements.

A local rule has been adopted at both Del Monte and Pebble Beach courses making the penalty for a ball out of bounds for loss of distance only. Heretofore a ball out of bounds has cost stroke and distance. It was found that the majority of visiting and local golfers favored the idea of not making such a severe penalty for a ball out of bounds.

Portland Promoter Accused of Larceny

PORTLAND, Ore., July 2.—Bobby Evans, matchmaker of the Portland Boxing Commission, and Bert Hughes, a boxer, were arrested on charges of larceny.

They are charged with procuring a $150 ring belonging to Mrs. C. C. Culp of Portland by the misuse of the mails and assuming the name of G. T. Cummings, local business man.

Hughes is accused of stealing a pawn ticket from Mrs. Culp's apartment and Evans is said to have obtained the ring by writing the owner of the pawnshop in Seattle and forwarding the amount of the loan.

Here Is the History Of Heavyweight Title

Jack Dempsey is the eighteenth holder of the American heavyweight title and the fifth world's heavyweight champion.

With the exception of Tom Hyer, America's first title holder in the heavyweight class, and John C. Heenan, the Benicia boy, all the early champions were foreign born, coming either from England or Ireland.

John L. Sullivan was the first native-born citizen to hold title under Queensbury rules. Fitzsimmons was the only foreigner to take title under those rules.

Jeffries was the first American heavyweight to hold the world's title. He gained the coveted laurels by winning the American championship from Fitzsimmons after previously beating Peter Jackson, holder of the English and Australian titles.

Following Jeffries' retirement Tommy Burns captured the American championship by beating a majority of contenders and then made himself the world's champion by beating Gunner Moir, the British title holder, and Bill Squires, the Australian champion.

The world's title descended from Burns to Johnson, to Willard, and from Willard to Dempsey.

It was claimed on behalf of Sullivan that he was champion of the world, but he never held the title. He won the American title from Paddy Ryan in 1882 and lost it to Corbett ten years later. Sullivan never fought but one foreign pugilist, Charley Mitchell, who was not at the time English champion, and, in fact, never held the title. Mitchell and Sullivan boxed a draw.

At the time Sullivan was in his prime Peter Jackson was indisputably the heavyweight champion of England and Australia having stopped Jem Smith, English titleholder in two rounds, and knocked out Frank Slavin, Australian champion, in ten rounds. Sullivan drew the color line against Jackson and therefore never engaged in a bout in which the world's championship was at stake.

The heavyweight title descended to Dempsey as follows.

Name	Tenure of Title	Years

HEILMANN, SPEAKER IN CLOSE RACE FOR HITTING HONORS IN AMERICAN

Roger Hornsby Hits Slump in National, But Manages to Keep Over .400 Mark.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Rogers Hornsby, the St. Louis star slugger, who is topping the batters of the National League, went up against some stiff pitching the past week when the Cardinals battled with eastern invaders, and dropped 12 points off his batting average, according to figures published today, which include games of last Wednesday. He was then hitting .407.

Hornsby has passed the century mark for hits, the first member of the Heydler circuit to do this so far this season. He has cracked out 105 for a total of 162 bases, which puts him far in front of his rivals. His hits include 16 doubles, 10 triples and seven homers.

Pep Young of New York, who was in sixth position among the batters who have participated in 40 or more games, has advanced to second place with an average of .367, while McHenry, the Cardinal outfielder, though dropping 21 points, remains third with .361.

When George Kelly of New York banged out a homer during the week, he raised his total to 10, just one behind Meusel of Philadelphia, who failed to add to his string of 11.

Max Carey the fleet-footed Pittsburgh outfielder, and Frank Frisch of New York are having a neck and neck race for stolen base honors. Each added four to his string and again they are tied with 17 each.

Other leading batters: Roush, Cincinnati, .359; Meusel, Philadelphia, .354; Grimes, Chicago, .354; Mann, St. Louis, .354; Fournier, St. Louis, .353; Maranville, Pittsburgh, .351; Cutshaw, Pittsburg, .347.

Babe Ruth, the home run king, has recovered from his setback last week at the hands of Dick Kerr of the White Sox. He drove out four circuit hits the past week and brought his total up to 28, including games of last Wednesday. However, Ruth did not fare so well as regards averages, his batting figures showing a drop of six points to .366.

Ruth has made 69 hits for a total of 207 bases, and also leads in runs scored, having registered 73 times for the New York club. He has cracked out 20 doubles and seven triples.

HEILMANN HOLDS LEAD.

Harry Heilman, the Detroit slugger who is leading the men who have played in 40 or more games, got back into his stride and has been hitting the ball with some regularity. Heilman has boosted his average to .418. Tris Speaker, pilot of the Cleveland world's champions, also made up some of the ground he lost a couple of weeks ago and is the runner-up to Heilman with an average of .408. Ty Cobb, the Detroit leader, suffered a loss of eight points during the past week, but continued in third place with a .388. George Sisler, the St. Louis star, stuck to fourth place despite a drop of 12 points. He is hitting .365.

Sisler pilfered another base during the week and continues to set the pace in the American League with 15 thefts, with Joe Judge and S. Harris of Washington tied for second place with 13 each.

JONES HITTING .348.

Other leading batters: Veach, Detroit, .363; Severeid, St. Louis, .358; Williams, St. Louis, .355; E. Collins, Chicago, .353; Tobin, St. Louis, .350; R. Jones, Detroit, .349; Gharrity, Washington, .348.

Reb Russell, the former White Sox pitcher who is working in the outfield for Minneapolis in the American Association, is making a strong bid for batting honors in President Hickey's circuit, with an average of .379. Russell has moved into a tie with Kirke of Louisville for second place among players who have participated in 40 or more games. Butler of Kansas City, continues at the head of the regular with an average of .401, while Gainer, who was the runner-up a week ago, now stands five points behind Russell and Kirke with .374.

ANGLERS NOOK

The following information on fishing conditions in the Feather river district was compiled by the Western Pacific:

Belden—Fishing has been better during the past week than any time this season. Black helgamites and flies, also grasshoppers used as bait.

Paxton—Fishing improving at all points. Water clearing up and the weather is warmer. Good catches being made in the vicinity of Lake Almanor, and on Spanish and Indian creeks.

Pulga—Fine weather, clear, cool nights. Fishing poor in this vicinity. Lots of fish jumping but few seem to bite. Feather river is now normal and is clear.

Spring Garden—All streams are normal and clear. Many good catches are being made in all streams. Flies and bait of the usual variety are being used.

Mrs. Dempsey Will Get Fight by Phone

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 2.—"Everything all right, feeling fine; don't worry about the outcome," said Champion Jack Dempsey in a telegram to his mother, Mrs. Cecelia Dempsey, which was received late yesterday afternoon at the Dempsey ranch five miles south of Salt Lake.

"I am not worried over the outcome," said Mrs. Dempsey. "Jack has assured me that he will win and I know he will do his best. Mr. Carpentier is a good fighter and even if he does beat my boy it will be no disgrace."

Mrs. Dempsey said that she would remain at her home today and receive the fight returns by telephone.

Lincoln Car Wins Thousand-Mile Auto Race Over Nevada

RENO, Nev., July 2.—W. W. Bramblette in a Lincoln car won the one thousand-mile Nevada road race, which ended yesterday. George Harrison was second, Joe Nikrent third and M. Doyle fourth. The winners actual running time for the distance was 29 hours, 49 minutes and 49 seconds.

The second car, a Buick, driven by Harrison, negotiated the distance in 31 hours, 53 minutes and 2 seconds.

The route of the race was wholly within the boundaries of the state and covered desert roads, pavements and macadam. It was one of the most severe tests of stock cars ever staged here.

Of the four cars that completed the race all had more or less serious breaks on the road and a portion of the distance was run with makeshift repairs.

The first car to reach Reno was driven by Joe and Fred Nikrent, although first honors went to the Bramblette car, whose running time was four hours less than the first car to reach here.

Harness Horses Will Race At Golden Gate Park Stadium

Harness enthusiasts are taking a lot of interest in the coming Fourth of July meet at the Golden Gate Park Stadium Monday. In the free-for-all trot the fans are pretty well divided on the merits of Pete Byrne's Billy B Jr., to win from the rest of the fast field.

The 2:20 pace also finds a lot of contenders for the first honors. J. McNamara's Ethel Mack will have to keep moving if she is to win, as both Leo Roberts' Leanor and A. Hobson's Monterey Dan have done the same thing this year. The latter is an Oakland horse. A. S. D., another entrant, has not been seen on the track this season.

SATURDAY, JULY 2, 1921.

PACIFIC COAST DEFENSE

When the House of Representatives started to reject items for new projects voted to the naval appropriations bill by the Senate, it did not stop with the item for the proposed new Pacific naval base at Alameda. It slashed mercilessly and arbitrarily. Other projects which were killed include the appropriation of $2,500,000 for a dirigible hangar at Camp Kearney, $800,000 for an aviation station at Seattle, $1,000,000 for a submarine base at San Pedro and $100,000 for the purchase of much-needed land at Camp Kearney. The initial appropriation proposed for the Alameda naval base was $1,500,000. Other items were greatly reduced by the House.

It is to be observed that the above items were recommended by expert naval boards, the General Board of the Navy and the Secretary of the Navy Department as being urgently necessary for the proper defense of the Pacific Coast and the accommodation of the new Pacific Fleet which has been assigned to this ocean. Whatever the House meant to do by its action, it has given the effect of rejection of defense of the Pacific Coast and of proper facilities for the Pacific Fleet.

Apparently the motives of the House was to preen itself on deeds of economy and it was ready to accept with alacrity the desultory and immature discussions of the idea of curtailment of naval armament as an excuse to cover its abandonment of the idea of defending the Pacific Coast. The talk about restriction of armament permitted the House obstructionists to say in effect, "Let us wait and see what will come of this talk of disarmament. There may be something in it to justify neglect of preparedness. At any rate, let us delay."

That is an old song of Congress—delay. Just now the House is anxious to pose as the conservative, economical branch of Congress. It observes that economy is apt to be popular and it is not concerned about distinguishing between true economy and false economy.

The reasoning of the House on the subject of restriction of armament sharply illustrated this fact. The most that can be expected to develop from the conversations likely to be held among the great powers on the subject of armaments is an understanding to modify future programs of naval building and to keep down new construction to an agreed maximum. It would be foolish to expect that the nations will scrap or sink any of the naval units now in commission or in an advanced stage of construction.

And it is for the existing naval strength in the Pacific that the proposed additions to coast facilities are proposed. There is lamentable inadequacy of accommodations for the Pacific Fleet as it now stands. And orders have been issued by the Navy Department for certain additions to it, notably of capital ships of the largest and most powerful type. The new naval base is urgently needed for ships already in the Pacific. So is the aviation base, the submarine base and additional hospital facilities.

It is not for a theoretical naval force in the future, or for employment of the entire navy in the Pacific during a war emergency, that the new facilities were recommended. The House did not interfere with future plans of naval expansions; it crippled and suspended plans for taking care of existing ships in the Pacific, essential to reasonable security on this coast.

Congressional delegations from the Pacific Coast States and the people of this seaboard should understand the true character of the question. It is a live, pressing, present issue; not a question of future national policy. There has been no organization, no coherence of effort, among the Pacific Coast representatives in Congress. They must get together. They must present the issue squarely and truthfully and stand together for a right solution. There are no local phases to the question: it is a question of national defense against palpable dangers in the Pacific area.

The action of the House in rejecting the recommendations of the Navy Department is unwise and uneconomical. It is dangerous. That action must be corrected and the people and congressional representatives of the Pacific Coast can no longer be mistaken as to the tactics necessary for correction; there must be unanimity of understanding and unity of effort.

THE NEW CHIEF JUSTICE.

Former President Taft has been appointed to the Chief Justiceship of the United States Supreme Court. Thus he becomes the first citizen in the history of the Republic to hold the two most exalted offices in the gift of the people.

There is no reason to doubt that Mr. Taft will maintain the high traditions of ability, loyalty and integrity that always have attached to the Chief Justice. He is not a distinguished lawyer in the sense of having conducted famous cases and having received enormous fees. But he has been a profound student of law and has given splendid evidence of his attachment to law and the Constitution. His actual legal experience has been more than adequate to commend him for the high office he now fills, and it has been honorable as well as distinguished.

After all, the biggest and most solemn thing in the oath of office administered to the Chief Justice is the pledge to support and defend the Constitution. There is no ground for the fear that Mr. Taft will adopt a rule of negation and apply it arbitrarily to prevent the execution of legislation merely because it is not specifically authorized by the Constitution. That would not be in accordance with his temperament, his understanding or his open record. But he may be relied upon to stand for the upholding of the plain inhibitions of the Constitution. That he should do, for in no other way can the Constitution be preserved.

No citizen of the Republic so well deserves the honor Mr. Taft has just received at the hands of the President and no other offers a fairer promise that the confidence indicated will be abundantly justified.

RETIREMENT FOR STATUES.

A correspondent of the New York Times has suggested that there be established a retiring age for statues. A capital idea! Curiously, no one seems to have thought about that procedure before. Yet the obsoleteness and inappropriateness of statues has borne heavily upon the spiritual sense of thousands of citizens for the greater portion of their lifetime.

Most monuments to the memory of men have been erected for solid and enduring reasons, but there are a discomforting portion that have resulted from emotions and whims, without any considerable support of public sentiment. Frequently they have been raised by an individual to honor a relative or friend, when the people of the State or community never suspected that the person so honored deserved a statue. Sometimes the public sentiment has been just the contrary.

Naturally there comes a time when these emotional statues seem only to clutter up a park space or obstruct the traffic of a busy thoroughfare. Sad, but true, sometimes they become the provocation of smiles and derisive talk. These statues certainly belong to the class to which the retirement rule should apply.

Unless some method of getting rid of obsolete statuary is adopted, our public places in time will become crowded with reminders of the dead. It is so much better to use the space statues occupy for the growing of trees and blooming, flowery things. Living things are congenial to most natures; marble and bronze are depressing to the majority of healthy-minded individuals.

If a bee stings deeply and severely, leaving its stinger behind, it sacrifices its life. Human creatures, who try to sting their fellow creatures with the same venom, also pay heavily for the experiment.

DEFLATION IN FARMERS' FAVOR.

The economic axiom that all trade, in the last analysis, is an exchange of commodities is receiving ample demonstration in the present plight of the farmers. The past 12 to 15 months have witnessed sweeping price declines in every direction, but nowhere has deflation been so drastic as for the products of the soil.

Just how the farmer has borne the brunt of deflation is vividly shown by the latest index number of wholesale prices compiled by the Bureau of Labor statistics. This discloses that farm products are only 15 percent above the levels of 1913. On the other hand clothing is 86 percent higher; fuel and lighting, 99 percent; metals, 38 percent; building materials, 103 percent; house furnishings, 174 percent, and miscellaneous articles, 54 percent. All commodities are 54 percent higher than in 1913.

This means that for what the farmer has to sell he is getting pre-war prices or a trifle more, but for what he buys he must pay from 38 to 174 percent more than 1913 prices, if he purchases at wholesale. But while the farmer sells at wholesale, the bulk of his buying is done at retail, which makes the score still greater against him. The result is being reflected by mail order houses, implement, stove and automobile companies, and in fact all industries. Since the rural population comprises nearly one-half of the total of the country, it constitutes the greatest single consuming group. Inevitably anything which affects the ability of this class to buy will be reflected in all ramifications of business.

Fortunately rifts are appearing in the clouds and this is a good omen for all trade. Business leaders recognize that one of the pressing necessities of the moment is the restoration of a parity in values between manufactured products and the agricultural industry. As soon as transportation and wage costs will permit, lower steel and other industrial commodity prices are probable. The trend of all manufactured goods is downward. In the meantime the recent rise of wheat indicates that the common level is to be found by some appreciation in values of farm products as well as further declines in prices of manufactured goods.

Recently events have tended to smooth away some of the wrinkles from the brow of the farmer. In the winter he was deeply pessimistic. But the spring sun and the warm rains are causing the new crops to appear. These crops, it has been established by a careful survey, will be raised and harvested at a cost of only 40 percent of last year's total. All present indications are for a large yield of grain, which if raised at a lower cost and sold at a fair price will exercise a profound influence in restoring normal business. Ample credit this year for crop moving is another factor of encouragement.—Iron Trade Review.

NOTES and COMMENT

The Democratic attack on the measure to end the war is palpably because it is not proposed to end it in the manner outlined by the former administration. It discredits the League of Nations idea. The man who said the horse was sixteen feet high, and stuck to it though he afterwards realized that he meant "hands," was that way, also.

The dentists, in annual State convention for the forty-ninth time, go on record against pulling out all the natural teeth for the mere purpose of putting in crockery ones and characterize it as "nothing short of criminal." Considering that putting in the artificial ones comes in their regular business, this stand is in the nature of self-abnegation.

The drop in the price of milk may be due to several causes resulting from changed conditions, indicating a progress toward normalcy but the housewives are fully entitled to celebrate it and to believe that their agitation is entitled to the credit; and they did seem to have a decline.

Startling discovery by the Palo Alto Times: "A remarkable scientific coincidence that, so far as we know, has not yet been properly embodied in phrase and picture for a Sunday sup article, is the nice way in which, as the days get shorter, the nights get exactly enough longer so that always the two together precisely fill twenty-four hours."

Senator Knox is reported in a despatch to hold that the difference in the House and the Senate bills which would end the technical state of war with Germany are "immaterial." Yet days have been consumed in conferring and negotiating, to the delay of most important business, to get the two bodies aligned, and the retardation of progress on the way toward normalcy.

The efforts to stop the big fight were made with serious and worthy intent, no doubt; yet that about the Puritans inhibiting bear baiting, not because it was tough on the bears but because it afforded pleasure to the spectators, might by a slight stretch be considered apropos.

A news account says that Banker Stillman is still "mum" regarding two affinities. Though the principals in this controversy have not heretofore been mute as to anything, it can hardly be expected that a man will be loquacious on such a subject as two affinities.

After all his striving to give away his money, the estate of Andrew Carnegie foots up $25,933,014. Considering the many instances of estates dwindling notwithstanding strenuous efforts to increase rather than to deplete them, this is altogether exceptional.

The four senatorial exceptions to the appointment of former President Taft to the Chief Justiceship serve to emphasize the satisfaction of the vast majority of the more than a hundred million American citizens. There can be no doubt of the popular approval of his appointment.

This looks as though the editor of the Marysville Appeal is spare in build: "Fat men may be more honest than thin men, as the bonding companies say, but don't bank too much on that."

The Fresno Republican says this, and there seems to be no redress: "In the old days the rum hound came home with a lovely black eye; but if he wears one now, it's a home bruise."

SPIRIT of the STATE PRESS

This is a bit of annual advice, but it is always timely and always sound: Take a vacation this summer. Whoever neglects to take a summer vacation sins against himself and his year-around associates. Not only does the vacationist improve himself physically and otherwise, but the change often wrought thereby in human disposition makes the returned vacationist a more agreeable fellow.—Palo Alto Times.

Mare Island officers are greatly interested in the announcement that an officer is soon to be named as aide for navy yards, and that commencing with July 1 all matters referring to navy yards will be handled in this assistant secretary's office.—Vallejo Chronicle.

It seems that the young men are not enrolling very rapidly for the civilian training camps. Probably they figure mere military training will never fit them for the rigors of a life of peace.—Marysville Appeal.

No more liquor to be exported to Mexico, according to John Exnicios, to come right back across the border to be sold in the United States. Even if we are not sure of the pronunciation, some are beginning to find out what "Ex-nix" stands for.—Stockton Record.

Hats off to Judge Latimer of Contra Costa! He sentenced a man convicted of driving an automobile while intoxicated to six months in the county jail. The law punishing drunken drivers was introduced into the Legislature of this state on January 17, 1911, by Senator Archie Campbell, at the behest of the Byron Times.—Byron Times.

San Francisco's "B-B" sign, originally "Be a Booster," seems to have a new meaning judging by the city papers, and is now "Build a Bridge." Whether the enthusiasm on the original movement will be lost sight of in the new quest remains to be seen.—Merced Star.

CROATIA

"A brief cable item concerning a proposed Peasants' Congress in Croatia may seem remote to many Americans, but it is home news for some hundreds of thousands of Croatians and their kin in the United States," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Before the World War the emigration stream from Croatia flowed from Fiume and Trieste as constantly as the water trickles through and under the limestone plateau of the Karst region, a noteworthy physical feature of Croatia. And it is because parts of Croatia are barren of soil that indigenous human product had to transplant itself to subsist.

"Another physical feature of Croatia, the bora, a violent northeast wind that sweeps down the Adriatic coast from the back country plateau, seems symbolic of the country's history. It has been said that Croatia was to Hungary what Hungary was to the fallen Dual Empire. For centuries Croatia struggled to throw off the yoke of Magyar domination.

"But one should not conclude that Croatia is barren or desolate. To the northwest is the majestic range which gives to the region the nickname of 'Croatian Switzerland.' The plum brandy 'Slwowitz' betoken the luxuriant orchards of Slavonia. For the full title of the present component part of Jugo-Slavia which formerly was a crown and of Hungary is Croatia and Slavonia, having an area twice that of our Massachusetts and two-thirds the population of the Bay State.

"Though Croatia and Slavonia is rich in agricultural land, has vineyards, pastures and forests, lack of capital has handicapped commerce and industry. Indeed its southwest, rich in forests and grazing land and accessible to the sea, is accounted one of the least developed regions, economically, in Europe. The chilling blasts of the bora have something to do with the sparse population and backwardness of this region.

"Wine is cheaper than water in some sections. A curious by-product of the vineyards is the 'grape cure' at Zombor, a sanitarium where the chief prescription is a stipulated ration of the variety of grapes held to be beneficial for the ailment under treatment.

"Croatia's chief city, center of her politics and culture, is Zagreb, formerly known better by its German name, Agram. Here is a modern, busy city, with art collections, a university, parks and proportionately as many statues, it would seem, as Washington, D. C. For a thousand persons to gather here in a week en route for a port to set sail for America was no uncommon event in pre-war times.

"But the rural regions of Croatia, with an almost patriarchal or family order of life, naturally betray customs and costumes of remote generations. As one writer to the National Geographic Society puts it:

"'In Croatia every village and hamlet has its particular costume. So one who knows the countrysides can tell at once the girl from Sissek from the vineyard lassie of Zombor, and she can tell you who has come from Ogulin, where the moss grows heavy on the roofs, and who makes her home besides the Plitvice Lakes, the summer resort of all Croatia.'

"An handkerchief, not a ring, is the engagement present of a Croatian swain to his lady love. If he finds favor in her eyes she acknowledges his gift with an apple. Marriage is the Croatian girl's long contemplated aim. At seven or eight years she begins knitting stockings, for custom decree that the bride must bring enough stockings to last both her and her husband for the rest of their lives."

MADE PLYMOUTH'S SHOES.

One Thomas Beard, arriving on the Mayflower in 1620, was the first shoemaker to come from England to America. He settled at Salem, Mass.

More than $400,000,000 is now invested in American shoemaking and more than 200,000,000 wage earners are employed.

Lynn, Mass., with more than 100 factories, is the leading shoe city of the world.

Of the world's shoes and boots more than 47 per cent are made in Massachusetts.

John Brook Nichols of Lynn adapted the Howe sewing machine to sew the uppers of shoes in 1851, and this was the first important step in the application of machinery to shoemaking.

William F. Trowbridge at Feltonville, now a part of Marlborough, Mass., applied horsepower to the shoemaking machinery of 1855. Steam and water power came later.

The poet Whittier was a shoemaker in his youth. Henry Wilson, the eighteenth Vice-President of the United States, was called the "Natick cobbler," and was always proud of his shoemaking days.

Ebenezer Breed of Lynn is credited with securing by personal influence the first protective tariff on shoes. He was a merchant of Revolutionary times.

August Destony, a New York mechanic, invented, in 1862, the first curved needle to sew shoes.—Illustrated World.

About YOUR HEALTH

How to Banish the Blues and Be Your True Self Again.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Sometimes you feel like resigning your position and hiding in some out of the way place. You are going to "quit" everything. You give serious consideration to leaving your clubs and giving up all human society.

You feel blue and miserable. Nobody understands you. Your activities are not appreciated. You are hurt by adverse criticism.

You cannot smile. It is hard to be polite. You avoid conversation with your family and friends. You are mentally out of sorts, cannot sleep and seem on the verge of a breakdown.

What is the trouble? Is the mind giving way? Is there danger of softening of the brain? Is there the slightest hope of permanent recovery?

My! This does seem a hopeless condition!

But, dear friend, do you know what's the matter with you? You will hardly believe me.

Your digestion is out of order—that is all.

You are not going crazy. You haven't lost your "grip"! There is no organic difficulty.

Your body and mind do not function for the simple reason that your system is "clogged." You are just as badly off as an automobile is when the cylinders are filled with carbon, when there is water in the "gas," and when the "mixture is too rich."

A dose of castor oil, two or three extra hours of sleep for three nights, a brisk walk in the sunlight every day and lots of fresh air, day and night, will restore your viewpoint.

You are eating too much, or too often, of the wrong food. What about candy, cake, pie, doughnuts, pancakes, coffee and fat meat?

How much tobacco have you used of late?

There is said to be a time for everything. There is certainly a time for eating. That time is mealtime.

Eat as much as you please of simple, substantial food at the regular hours for meals. Chew the food thoroughly, take your time for eating, talk and laugh at mealtime. Invite an agreeable friend to share your luncheon if you eat that meal away from home. It is cheaper to buy an extra meal than to hire a doctor.

Stop worrying about your brain and nervous system. They are all right. You aren't going to an asylum.

With a little common sense, a little good food, a little more exercise, a little more water to drink, enough exercises to develop honest perspiration, plenty of sleep and occasional recreation, your good nature will return and you will find yourself able to hold your position for some time to come. You will be cheerful about it, too. Just try it and see!

OUR CHIEF MENACE.

America is not menaced by anything half so much as by indifference of the citizens to public questions.—Omaha Bee.

IMPORTANT JOBS REMAIN TO BE FILLED

Secretary of the Civil Service Board, Building Inspector, and Park Director Are Still to Be Selected for City

With the echoes of yesterday's political convulsion still resounding through the City Hall, breathless politicians have already started to comment not only on what the city council did yesterday, but what it didn't do.

Nobody was appointed to the office of secretary of the Civil Service Board, the most important public office of the lot from many angles.

No successor to Joseph Lloyd as building inspector was named.

No one was nominated as member of the Board of Park Directors to take the place of Dr. S. H. Buteau.

No switch was made whereby Commissioner William J. Baccus was made head of the street department and Commissioner Edwards was shunted to the finance department.

EXPLANATION GIVEN.

For each one of these omissions, however, a logical explanation is given. In Baccus' case he does not desire to take hold of the street department till he can have the services of the engineer he desires, it is explained, and the engineer, Marston Campbell, is at present tied up under contract with the school board.

For building inspector, Thomas Ryan is slated, according to admissions by the new administration. Building Inspector Joseph Lloyd was yesterday morning notified from the mayor's office that he was "fired," but in a reply which made the telephone lines sizzle, Lloyd retorted that he was appointed by the Commissioner of Public Health and Safety, and was not under the mayor's office.

The new commissioner, it is explained, had his hands full yesterday and lacked time to act on Lloyd's position, but this will be done as soon as the council can meet again to appoint a successor, unless the administration changes its mind about Lloyd.

The council, it is explained, has had little time to think about Buteau's successor, because of the press of weightier business.

CAN CHOOSE SUCCESSOR.

Colbourn admits that he has been promised the power to name his successor to the office of secretary of the Civil Service Board, but has reiterated that he desires that this office shall, above all, be filled by the most competent man attainable.

Every city employee must pass under the scrutiny of the secretary of the Civil Service Board. Every abstruse point in the city charter must be interpreted by him, and he must also prepare examination papers of the most technical kind, ranging from architects and engineers to sign painters and boatmen. He must know enough of all these occupations to be able to ask the right questions and analyze the answers.

Colbourn occupied the job for years. He says he wants only a man who can handle such a large contract as this job means.

Bill Excludes Alien Government Workers

HONOLULU, T. H., July 2.—According to unofficial estimates, approximately five thousand aliens, mostly Japanese, employed on federal government army and navy projects in Hawaii would be thrown out of work by final enactment of the Hawaiian Rehabilitation bill, passed Thursday in Washington, D. C., by the house and already approved by the senate. The bill would bar aliens from working on such projects in the Hawaiian Islands.

It is pointed out, however, that if the aliens are relieved from government service they probably will be available for work on the plantations. Loss of alien labor, it is stated, would considerably impede construction work on Schofield Barracks.

Two Blocks in Lodi Swept by $200,000 Fire

Starts Near Fruit Packing Shed and Is Believed of Incendiary Origin.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

LODI, Cal., July 2.—Fire of mysterious origin at 5:45 o'clock this morning swept the two blocks bounded by the Southern Pacific depot, Pine street, Walnut street and the alley between Main and Stockton streets, with a loss amounting to $200,000. Incendiarism is suspected. The fire started in a pile of car strips on the west side of the Earl Fruit Company's packing shed.

8400-TON OIL SHIP LAUNCHED AT UNION YARDS

At 10:30 o'clock this morning the third of the four sister ships to be built by the Union Construction company for the Anglo-Saxon Petroleum Company, Ltd., the Ampullaria, a tanker of 8400 deadweight tons, slipped down the ways at the Key Route fill and became a part of the merchant fleet of the United States.

The launching was accompanied without a hitch. She was sponsored by Miss Marjorie Lewin, daughter of R. A. Lewin, secretary of the Shell company of California.

The Ampullaria is driven by triple expansion reciprocating engines and is designed for a full load speed of 11½ knots an hour.

According to present plans the ship will be ready for delivery in about six weeks. The fourth tanker, the Amalthus, will be launched early in August.

This evening at 8:15 o'clock the Moore Shipbuilding company will launch the largest merchant vessel ever constructed on the Pacific coast when the S. S. Tamiahua will slide from her ways into the Oakland estuary. The Tamiahua was constructed for the Southern Pacific company's Atlantic steamship lines. When she was designed she was the largest oil tank ship in the world. In the construction of the vessel a record was established by the Moore company, the craft having been 67 days on the ways.

Among the Southern Pacific company officials who will witness the launching of the Tamiahua this evening will be William Sproule, president of the company, and C. W. Jungen, general manager of the company's Atlantic steamship lines. Mrs. Sproule will act as sponsor. The vessel is designed to carry 16,340 deadweight tons, and cost $3,250,000.

Three Bandits Raid Soft Drink Parlor

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Three armed bandits entered the soft drink parlor at 1801 Post street shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, and held up Samuel McDougall, the proprietor. One of them asked for a glass of beer, and the others drew guns and compelled McDougall to submit to a search. They took a platinum diamond ring valued at $200 from his finger, a $10 stickpin and $10 from the cash register. Running from the place they jumped into a roadster at the curb and escaped. McDougall fired six shots after them and believes he hit the car.

Woman Run Down And Hurt by Auto

Deborah Dickson of 3556 Dimond avenue was struck by an automobile at Twelfth and Fallon streets late last night. The machine was driven by Ivan Ritchey of 1701 Thirty-eighth avenue. She was taken to the Emergency hospital by Ritchey and treated for cuts and bruises.

In the machine with Ritchey at the time of the accident were Mildred and Lillian Partridge of 5100 Bond street. Ritchey told the police that he was traveling about ten miles an hour. He was later arrested and charged with having no operator's license.

Paris Doctor Finds Cure for Neuralgia

PARIS, July 2.—Dr. W. Janowski has discovered a new cure for neuralgia and has described it in the Presse Medicale. He found that repeated pressure on the affected nerve where it comes out from the skull is an effectual remedy. The doctor holds the patient's head firmly against his own chest while he presses with his first finger on the nerves at its point of emergence. Pressure is kept up for only one second, and with intervals of one second it is repeated about ten times at each sitting.

"More Air!"

Have you not observed the "stuffiness" and enervating atmosphere that has greeted you upon entering a gas heated interior? The almost uncontrolable impulse is to throw open a window and let in "more air." The system cries out for relief. And then the agreeable and approving sense upon meeting the pure, normal warmth and fragrance of a well-ordered and equipped home or apartment where the hot water or steam radiator quietly and unobtrusively ministers to the comfort and health of all. These benefits are above price. You cannot afford to fall into error in your original installation. Let a Heating Contractor aid you.

TUNNEL AND BRIDGE MAY BE COMBINED

Matter of Terminals for Bay Span Project Is to Be Determined by Experts Here: Favor Combination Plan

A combination tunnel and bridge for San Francisco bay is believed to be favored by John Vipond Davies and Ralph Modjeski, the engineers brought here by the Motor Car Dealers to make a survey of the situation. While neither expert has given out a statement in the matter, each one has let drop a number of opinions and comments that would indicate neither the bridge nor the tunnel is considered practicable.

The tunnel plan, for vehicular traffic, would not do, Davies intimated, on account of the difficulties in ventilation. One for trains, he pointed out, is practically self-ventilating, but a tunnel long enough to cross the bay and to be devoted to motor trucks and automobiles as well as trains would necessitate a ventilating system different from anything yet constructed.

The fact that the eastern part of the bay is more shallow and that the United States War Department on a former occasion has approved the combination scheme is taken to mean that the type of span to be recommended will be a bridge from this shore extending westward as far as the last 1000 feet, which will be tunneled.

The matter of terminals is still one of question. The engineers, in their study of traffic, have found what they believe would be the best natural places, but they are not certain that those places are within the possibility of engineering. It is evident that a point near the Southern Pacific mole has been considered as the eastern terminal and that one in Alameda has also been marked as a possibility. The Alameda terminal, the engineers intimated, would call for an improvement in the arrangements for bridging the estuary in Oakland.

It is considered that the more difficult question will be the San Francisco terminal, and that upon the choice over there will depend the selection on this side. No location will be named until after the engineers depart for the East on July 7.

BAY BRIDGE APPROVED.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the Santa Fe Improvement Association at its meeting on June 28.

Whereas, all bay cities are to a certain extent interdependent and their interests are of an allied nature, and

Whereas, the development of the entire bay region has long been retarded by inadequate bay transportation, and

Whereas a bridge spanning San Francisco bay and bringing the bay metropolitan area into closer communication is a most urgent present day need, therefore be it

Resolved, by the Santa Fe Improvement Association, in regular meeting assembled this twenty-eighth day of June, 1921, that it give its hearty endorsement to the project of bridging San Francisco bay in such a manner as engineers may determine, that will serve the greatest needs of the greatest number.

Preliminary Hearing Of Tong Men Set

The three Chinese tong men, who are alleged to have shot and killed a Chinese and Japanese on Wednesday in a rooming house at 820 Eighth street, were jointly arraigned today on charges of murder before Police Judge Mortimer Smith. The preliminary examination was set for July 20.

The men charged with murder are Ching Fung and Law Kam, both members of the Suey Sing tong and Sam Low of the Suey Dong tong. Wong Wa Yuen, who was a member of the Bing Kong Tong, was the man who was killed at the outbreak of the tong war in this city. Yoshimatsu Nezumia, a Japanese gardener, died last night at Providence hospital as the result of injuries received when struck by a stray bullet. He was in the rooming house at the time of the shooting.

TAX RAISE IS NOT FIGURED IN BERKELEY

Tentative Budget Shows Plan to Finance College Town; Improvements Outlined for Newly Annexed Territory

BERKELEY, July 2.—Approximately $754,000 will be spent for municipal purposes in Berkeley during the coming year, with no increase in the tax rate to be levied, according to figures disclosed in a tentative budget which will be acted upon next week by the city council.

While substantial increases have been made in the budgets of several departments, this can be accomplished without an increased tax rate as a result of the annexation of Cragmont and Thousand Oaks to the city. Taxes estimated at $10,000 will be received from the new districts.

Practically all of the extra money received from this source will be devoted to the erection of a firehouse in North Cragmont and the installation of apparatus as well as for other improvements for the district.

The sum of $174,000 will be allowed for the fire department this year, an increase of $10,000 over last year. Charities will be given $25,000, which is $10,000 more than last year and but $5000 less than was asked for in the budget submitted by philanthropic agencies conducted by the city.

Estimated receipts from all sources for the coming year total $756,000, leaving a surplus of approximately $2000 under the present budget figures. In addition to the dollar tax rate, 35 cents will be levied for school purposes, 10 cents for the maintenance of the library and 13 cents as interest on bonds, a total tax rate of $1.58.

TENTATIVE BUDGET.

The tentative budget as prepared by the council is as follows:

Mayor's urgency fund, $500; mayor, $4550; auditor, $6200; city clerk, $5520; commissioner of finance and revenue, $1835; commissioner of health and safety, $1858; commissioner of supplies, $3162; commissioner of public works, $3070; assessor, $11,500; treasurer, $11,000; justice, $6400; attorney, $4850; city hall, $5930; pound, $3500; wharf, $4400; engineer, $12,000; inspection, $10,000; police, $86,000; fire, $174,000; streets, $35,000; sanitation, $48,500; outlays, $10,000; parks, $33,350; playgrounds, $29,130; health, $20,000; city planning, $4400; charity, $25,000; water bill, $71,000; municipal market, $5000; compensation fund, $5000; cash basis, $11,000; garbage, $10,000; sewer, $18,000; pension fund $4400; contingent fund, $5000.

BOND ISSUES.

A total of $96,775.87 of the budget will be allotted to bond interest and redemption. Payments on the four bond issues voted by the city will be made as follows: 1915 bonds, principal $12,500, interest $21,275; 1913 bonds, principal $15,000, interest, $24,300; 1906 bonds, principal $7452, interest $11,360.87; 1900 bonds principal $2500, interest $2387.50.

Dislocates Hip in Fourth Preparations

BERKELEY, July 2.—Preparations for Fourth of July landed E. S. Benning, 2001 Berkeley way in the hospital this morning.

Benning was hoisting a flag at the plant of Peet Brothers, soap works, Sixth and Carlton streets, when he slipped from a ladder and fell to the ground. He was rushed to the emergency hospital, where he was found to be suffering from a dislocated hip. He was later taken to Roosevelt hospital.

Father Joseph McQuaid was the officiating priest.

Commander J. W. McLeon of Golden Gate Post No. 10, American Legion, of which Bunch was a charter member, a large contingent of members and many of the "Grizzlies" now organized as the 144th Field Artillery Association were present.

Bunch was born in San Francisco 41 years ago. He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Rose Ann Bunch.

SCHOOL CLINICS AIM OF DENTISTS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Establishment of public school dental clinics throughout the state has been adopted as the big program of the California State Dental Association, which adjourned its annual convention in San Francisco today. The creation of a division of dentistry in the state board of health will become an object of the association.

"Prevention" beginning with the mouths of the children will become the watchword for the coming year, according to Dr. J. Camp Dean of Oakland, the newly elected president, who was formally installed last night. He declared in his inaugural address that the policies which had been followed by the retiring executive, Dr. Louis Graham of San Francisco, would be carried out.

Dr. Dean together with Dr. Arthur E. Hackett, Dr. B. Frank Gray, Dr. Walter Thompson and Dr. Frank H. McKevitt, are elected delegates to attend the National Dental Association convention in Milwaukee, August 15-19.

The California delegation is united on obtaining the 1922 national convention for Los Angeles and the election this year of Dr. John Buckley of Los Angeles as national president.

The National Dental Association, with 25,000 members, was declared in convention to be the largest professional organization in the world.

PACIFIC FLEET DAY AT IDORA FOURTH OF JULY

All is in readiness at Idora park for the entertainment of the thousands of blue jackets of the Pacific fleet who will participate in the monster two days' Fourth of July celebration at Oakland's most popular resort. The celebration in the Eastbay will center at Idora this year where, in addition to the many regular attractions and amusements, the men of the Pacific fleet will hold their annual Fleet day Monday.

Sunday afternoon there will be a big wrestling tournament at the park in which there will be six matches, and Monday afternoon the men of the fleet will hold their annual boxing tournament. There will be six fast bouts Monday, including two in which the feather-weight and middle weight champions of the fleet will defend their titles.

MANY GIRLS.

Thousands of girls have been invited to the park to help in the entertainment of the Jackies, and the two days celebration promises to be the gala event in the lives of the men. Orders have been issued to permit every man from the ships in the harbor to spend some portion of the two days at Idora.

Sunday and Monday nights there will be beautiful and colorful fireworks displays, in which the latest creations of the nation's fireworks experts will be fired. The many pieces which will be shown will offer to the people of Oakland an entirely new departure in fireworks and will delight mothers and dads as well as the younger folks.

FIREWORKS DISPLAY.

Monday night there will be displayed in special honor of the men of the fleet a piece representative of the battleship California. This piece will be one of the most remarkable from a realistic standpoint ever shown, and has taken considerable time to build, so careful have the designers worked out the outline and other details of the giant sea-fighter. The piece when fired will show the man-o'-war in an outline of brilliant fire, with smoke and steam pouring from her funnels and her big guns fore and aft sending forth a deafening roar of cannonading.—Advertisement.

POLICE AND FIRE BUDGET $2,035,670

Increase Over Last Year Is About $200,000; Salaries of Additional Men Given As Reason for Part of Gain

The total financial requirements of the Department of Public Health and Safety will come to $2,035,670, according to a belated budget estimate which arrived in the office of the finance commissioner this morning.

Last year the public health and safety department received $1,840,321.50 for the police, fire, pound, electrical, health and street lighting functions of the city government.

The department budget follows for the coming year:

Police	$ 658,003
Fire	907,911
Building Inspector	20,309
Pound	6,000
Electrical	59,930
Health	132,785
Street lighting	184,466
Wood yard	6,275
Total	$2,035,670

For the police department, the salaries are estimated at $559,560 and improvements at $68,932. The latter includes provision for two new lieutenants, two sergeants, two corporals and 25 men.

The fire department salaries amount to $669,600 while light, fuel and power for the department is expected to reach $129,100. Improvements are estimated at $47,000, including $30,000 for a new fire boat.

In the health department, $102,905 is for salaries, and the rest for materials and improvements for quarantine, milk inspection, bacteriological examinations, food inspection, water inspection, rodent extermination and the various other functions of the department.

The municipal wood yard spent $9803.25 during the past fiscal year, but only asks $6275 on the ground that industrial conditions may ease in the coming year. During the past year the wood yard authorities received several appropriations to aid it in its work of feeding homeless men.

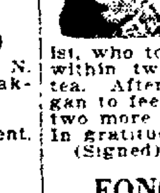
Kidney Trouble Relieved



Oakland, Cal., May 12, 1921.

I had kidney troubles for a long time I tried different doctors and remedies without any good One old Chinese doctor here in Oakland tried me for eight months without any result. Then I went and consulted the Fong Wan Herb Specialist, who told me I would be all right within two months by drinking his tea. After taking three weeks I began to feel results, and continued for two more weeks I was entirely well In gratitude I made this testimonial.

I am against rent profiteers. I am a former union carpenter, with about fifty lots in Upper Fruitvale on Hopkins street, at the end of the Thirty-eighth avenue car line. I want to talk to people who desire to get out of paying rent. The summer is coming and I will allow anyone to occupy one of my lots with a tent or any temporary structure, providing they agree to buy the lot at $10 down and $10 a month. Thus you will immediately reduce your rent bill. During the summer you can build a house for next winter. My lots have city water, sewers, sidewalks, electric lights, gas and street work—all in. Laurel grammar school in the center of the property. Two car lines. Stores, etc., on the property. Wonderful soil for flowers, vegetables and chickens. If you do not want to build your own house, I will build for you or furnish the lumber and materials on easy terms. In fact, I stand willing to meet, with this fine property almost any easy term requirement desired by anyone who is anxious to get out of the devilish clutches of the diabolical rent profiteers that are infesting this free country. Take Thirty-eighth avenue cars to end of line at Hopkins street. You'll find me living here, at my little office, all day and every evening.

PACIFIC FOOD PRICES AND WORLD'S COMMERCE

$70 TON IS PAID FOR CUCUMBERS BY PICKLE MEN

Local Deliveries Started Now; Pre-holiday Trade Fair; Prices Uneven.

Initial quotations of $70 a ton have been set by pickle canners on the No. 1 cucumber crop. This is approximately $20 below the price paid last year, although it is considered to be a good quotation. The crop, it is said, will be ample.

No. 2 pickles will bring $45 a ton this year and No. 3s about $25, it is announced.

Deliveries of cucumbers to the market from Alameda gardens continue to increase. Today southern offerings were forced down as low as 50 cents a small lug.

The first pickling cucumbers also were seen. They were sold at about 5 cents a pound. The average price, it is expected, will be about 3 cents a pound when the crop really begins moving.

Saturday, the market closing until Tuesday, was a day of contradiction. The price trend was very uneven, while trading was generally brisk as retailers stocked with goods to carry householders over the double holiday.

The uneven tendency was due chiefly to overheavy deliveries in some divisions. Warm weather also affected the trend of buying. There were 705 chests of berries delivered.

While lettuce went to below $1 a crate, fruit and melons generally advanced. Cantaloupes were generally 25 cents higher. There was a heavy call for watermelons. Berries ranged stronger, strawberries selling up to 70 cents and raspberries to $1, while logans brought $6 a chest. Good peaches sold up as much as 50 cents a basket.

Sweet corn was approximately $1 to $1.50 a sack higher this morning.

A sort of farewell flurry was staged in asparagus today, when the "grass," which has now reached the end of the cutting and after today will come only in trivial scattered offerings, was quoted up to 10 cents a pound, a gain of 2½ cents from Friday and of practically 100 per cent on the week. Holiday demand and failing supply were given as the causes.

BUSINESS and FINANCE

There is no intention on the part of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation of closing either the Alameda or the Potrero plants, it is announced by Joseph J. Tynan, general manager of the Union plant and a vice-president of the corporation. Tynan has just returned from an extensive trip east. If the plants cannot be kept busy building ships, they will be turned to other uses. The steel corporation does not propose to let the expensive installation of machinery lie idle.

Incidentally the officials are optimistic that there will be general activity very soon.

Declaring his opinion that affairs had reached bottom and had started up the hill again, Tynan declared, in a San Francisco written interview, last night:

The report that we are going to shut down our Alameda plant is without warrant. We have no intention of closing either the Alameda or the Potrero works. If we lack contracts for ships to build, we will manufacture something else.

Tynan predicted that the nation is on the eve of a great industrial revival, "the greatest the world has ever seen, and said his company proposed to share in it.

Of the Bethlehem plans, Tynan gave some indication:

We have obtained the rights to build the best Diesel engine known. We are going to build these engines here, and we're going to build everything that goes with them, including ships and auxiliary machinery.

Bethlehem engineers now are in Europe, familiarizing themselves with the engine plans, and will be back soon, Tynan said.

He concluded his statement with:

It took a lot of time and money to get our organization together. Our plants on both sides of the bay represent a tremendous investment in the highest type of equipment. We're going to hold our organization and make that equipment pay for its keep. We're too busy getting ready for the busy days ahead to be downhearted. San Francisco bay region has more to be grateful for than any city in the world.

FOUR EUREKA BANKS IN DUAL MERGER.

Four Eureka banks, the Humboldt National, First National, Home Savings and the First Savings, were merged into two today. The First National bank took over the federal business of the Humboldt National, and the Home Savings took over all savings accounts.

Officers of the merged institutions were named last night.

BERKELEY BUILDING SHOWS STRONG INCREASE.

Increased building activity was experienced during the last week, the business summary of the First National Bank of Berkeley said today. The increase in building permits for the week over the previous six days amounted to $34,267, and totaled $97,425. The summary attaches considerable importance to local building conditions; first, because of the necessity of greater housing facilities; and second, because of the influence of building on business conditions generally. That building is practically on a normal basis in Berkeley while being conducted under the American plan indicates, the summary believes, an era of industrial improvement that should affect every line of business. The bank continues:

Bank clearings for the week amounted to $2,324,898, which was slightly below the previous week, but was $123,346 greater than the corresponding week a year ago.

Freight movement in Berkeley for the month of May, figures for which have just been compiled, show that there was a greater volume of freight received here during May of this year than for the corresponding month last year, while the freight movement out of the city decreased during the same period. In May, 1920, 148,579,949 pounds of freight were shipped out, while in May, 1921, but 12,533,493 pounds left Berkeley by rail. Incoming freight for that month in 1920 amounted to 65,761,860 pounds, while 229,528,445 pounds were received in May, 1921. The falling off in freight shipments is accounted for by a cutting down of local factory production. The increase in freight received is due in a large measure to the increase in local building activities.

HAY MARKET DELIVERY SHOWS DECLINE.

Hay tonnage delivered to the bay market was only 1318 this week against 1496 last week, the A. W. Scott company reported today. Nevertheless at that figure trade requirements were much exceeded, says the company.

The report continues:

Constant shading of prices is needed to stimulate buying.

Country conditions have been excellent for hay curing. Reports indicate a total yield larger than normal, but of a quality below the average. The bulk of the crop is of wild oat, much mixed with clover, and of barley cut for hay.

Producers of hay are now seeking a wholesale market, and heavy offerings are made daily at figures very much lower than quoted a few weeks ago. Even with this drop, however, few sales are reported, and dealers appear inclined either to wait for better terms or let the farmers carry the stock, with the idea of buying only as the demand calls for it. The continuous discussion as to a reduction in railroad freight rates also causes a feeling of uncertainty and indecision that delays buying in any quantity.

Local hay business is a trifle better. Many ships have been moving; building is starting again, and general business is livelier than for some weeks.

Alfalfa is dragging badly and can only be sold by concessions in price. Mill feeds generally are lower, as the market on coarse feeds and grains is easier and prices off.

SPECIAL AGENT NAMED ON CLOSED SEATTLE BANK

John P. Duke, Washington state supervisor of banking, who took over the Scandinavian-American bank in Seattle, announced last night that R. A. Langley had been appointed deputy supervisor in liquidating the institution. Suspension of the bank apparently had no effect on other Seattle banks, it was reported.

NOTES.

The Tobacco Association of the United States adopted a resolution at its annual convention in Washington yesterday, denouncing the alleged re-importation by speculators of American tobacco products purchased from the French government. The materials were sold by the American government to France after the armistice at a very low price.

Polish marks have fallen more than 500 points in the last two days. The Diet is about to consider emergency action. The American dollar now is selling at 2530 Polish marks.

All bids at Portland, Ore., for purchase of Canadian and foreign bonds and two small lots of American municipal bonds to judge Earl C. Bronaugh, trustee in bankruptcy of the estate of Morris Brothers, Inc., have been rejected because they were "unreasonably low."

FOREIGN TRADE AID PROMISE OF U. S. TREASURY

Gov. W. P. C. Harding Gives Clew to Plans During His Trip in South.

NEW YORK, July 2.—A thing which the Treasury Department now is considering, when arranged is expected to overcome part of our foreign trade difficulties and bring relief to the cotton and wheat producers and stockmen. That plans are far advanced was admitted by the governor of the federal reserve board, W. P. G. Harding, in an address a few days ago at Houston, Tex., to some 200 Texas bankers.

A brief report of this address has reached New York, and there are two features in it which have caused considerable discussion here. First, Governor Harding spoke as he did during his whole visit to the West and Southwest, in a spirit of fine optimism. This does not differ from the views which he has given to some of the bankers of New York with whom he was some weeks ago in informal discussion.

In his view the year in which conditions justified some feeling of pessimism was 1920. Bankers know that had it not been for the federal reserve system it is doubtful whether or not a panic could have been prevented.

"SHELL SHOCK."

Governor Harding in his Houston address told the bankers that a "tremendous improvement had come since 1920." By looking back to 1919 and giving some thought to the condition which characterized the country in 1920, it now is realized and Governor Harding is frank enough so to assert, that the American people after the armistice and especially during the first part of 1920, were possessed by an inexplicable indifference, reckless in what they spent, careless about accumulating debt.

Harding says that the country was then suffering from a sort of shell shock which led to hallucinations. Suddenly, in the spring of 1920, there came an awakening. Since then this country has been working out the problem which must be solved if healthful conditions are to be restored.

The wave of depression which has spread over some parts of the country is regarded by Governor Harding and by others as no more than a reaction from the extraordinary splurge, so to call it, which so many of the American people indulged in the year and a half after the war was ended.

OUR FOREIGN TRADE.

It was while referring to the falling off in foreign trade since the first of January this year that Governor Harding told the Texas bankers that he is confident that many of these difficulties will soon be overcome. He merely hinted at the action which the Treasury Department is considering, saying that the time has not come to reveal the nature of these considerations, although there was no reason why he should not say that he is confident of the outcome.

This inkling of the Treasury Department's consideration of foreign trade difficulties is the first positive statement of that kind which has been publicly made. Some of our bankers appear to have had some intimation of what is going on in the Treasury Department so far as these foreign trade difficulties are concerned. But the wonder is how this department can so act as to bring relief to the producers of cotton, of wheat and to the stockmen.

TRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

Private capital acting with the moral support of the government and operating under the Webb export trade law, was able to finance exports from the United States in the fiscal year now ending, of $220,000,000. They financed the export of $127,000,000 worth of steel, copper and cement and they sent $25,000,000 in machinery and locomotives to other lands.

It may be that the Treasury Department is contemplating increased facilities for the financing in this way of American exports. It may also be that the Treasury Department, speaking through the federal reserve system, is to counsel the banks of the country not to press debtors too hard, especially the farmers and the men who raise stock.

Governor Harding has discovered signs of improvement in all parts of the southwest which he has visited. He noticed an improvement in Texas and is confident that this will continue. The report of this address served to strengthen the feeling of optimism which those who talk with some of the financial leaders do not fail to observe prevails. But it is not a feeling of ill-judged enthusiasm. It does not justify speculation. It is, instead, the optimism which is described as sane, sensible and conservative.

MODERN METHODS.

Resort is being made by some of the great banks to the newspapers. What would Moses Taylor, who almost created the National City bank, have said were he living and able to read a full page advertisement of the National City bank which has been appearing in the daily papers? He would have regarded is as a symptom of weakness or as a desperate attempt to gain business.

James Stillman, too, who developed the bank until it became the greatest of American banks and one of the greatest in the world, would have shuddered if he had read a full page advertisement of this kind published at the time he was president. Other banks have adopted this modern method. They have become conspicuous among the large advertisers. It is not now regarded as undignified to set forth in large type and upon a full page the strength in resources and the character of business which distinguishes the large New York banks.

The Waterfront

Today the first automobile ferry steamer began service for the Southern Pacific Company at the new pier at West Oakland. The steamers Thoroughfare, Melrose and Garden City were placed on that route for today, Sunday and Monday, leaving the steamer Encinal to run on the creek route to the foot of Broadway from San Francisco, making a round trip every hour and a half. This schedule will be kept up on Sundays and holidays only, until other arrangements can be made. In case of a heavy travel the steamer Newark will help out on the Creek route after 6 o'clock at night, when she is through with her run on the narrow gauge route.

Under the name of Homeric the former German liner Columbus, a 35,000-ton steamship, has been purchased by the White Star Line, from the Reparations Commission. This craft was launched eight years ago, and is now at Danzig where she was building, but when the war broke out the work of completing the big craft was stopped, but is now under way. She is 775 feet long and 85 feet beam, with a 28,000 horsepower engine, which will drive her along at a twenty knot gait. She has a passenger accommodation for 2700 people, with 425 first class, and will carry a crew of 764 in all. It is expected that the new craft will be ready for her first voyage before the end of the year.

The fire tugs Dennis T. Sullivan and David Scannell were placed in commission yesterday, after being tied up for almost a year. Captain John Kearny is master of the Sullivan and Captain Silvio Rocca has the Scannell.

The new tanker Achatina, which was built by the Union Construction company of Oakland for the Anglo-Saxon Petroleum Company, was out on a trial trip yesterday around the bay. She was launched on May 21 and flies the British flag. The Shell Oil Company has the vessel chartered for her first voyage. The new craft will carry 8400 tons dead weight when loaded.

The new Matson liner Manukai sailed for Honolulu yesterday on her maiden voyage. She will go to Seattle to load some cargo first. Captain Lindberg, one of the pioneer skippers of Alameda county, was appointed master. The new craft was built at the Moore shipyard, Oakland, and carries a cargo of 18,000 tons dead weight. She will return here with sugar and canned pineapples.

The steamer Johanna Smith arrived in port last night from Coos Bay with 1,500,000 feet of lumber, and tonight the steamer C. A. Smith will arrive here with the same size cargo. The five-masted schooner K. V. Kruse left Portland yesterday with 1,800,000 feet of lumber for Oakland and will arrive here some time during the coming week. It is expected that some of the coastwise steam schooners will again operate from this port during the week.

With a full cargo of general cargo, the steamer West Togus put into San Pedro with one of her boilers out of commission. She is en route to this port from the Atlantic coast. Repairs will be made when she reaches this port.

At noon today all of the shipyards, lumber mills, foundries and other plants along the waterfront had closed down until Tuesday morning on account of the Fourth of July. All the vessels in Oakland Harbor will have their flags flying on Monday, but no work will be going on. Tonight the Moore shipyard will launch the big tanker Tamiahua for the Southern Pacific, and a large crowd is expected.

The ship Annie M. Reid has finished discharging her cargo of 2500 tons of copra at Howard wharf, Oakland, and was towed to Crockett, where she will remain until a charter can be secured for her. It has been rumored that the big craft will take grain to England next month, but so far no charter has been secured.

Tomorrow and Monday the fleet of bay launches will take visitors aboard the battleships now at anchor in the bay. All the launches are being prepared to handle the passengers as fast as they come.

TONE OF STOCKS IS ABOUT STEADY EXCEPT FOR OILS

NEW YORK, July 2.—Aside from the unsettlement occasioned by recurrent weakness of foreign oils, notably Mexican and South American issues, the stock market this week maintained a fairly steady tone.

Rails and railroad equipments showed a decided tendency to throw off their prolonged spell of depression on better earnings and another decrease in idle freight cars. There were indications also that large equipment contracts would soon be awarded by transportation companies.

Approach of the mid-year witnessed a further slowing down of operation in the steel industry, but the motor trade was subjected to conflicting conditions, curtailment at some centers being offset by increased production elsewhere.

Business in general, as reviewed by authorities, continued very irregular, the trend being one of quiet repression. Reports received by the Federal Reserve Board indicate that acceleration of the decline of prices has been beneficial to many retail lines of merchandise.

Easier money rates prevailed at this and other important financial centers. There was little to warrant the belief, however, that July interest and dividend payments would be accompanied by any pronounced increase of investment purchases in the securities market.

STREET CHIEF IS OUT OF JOB AFTER ALIENATION SUIT

Town Marshal Made Defendant in Suit for $10,000 by Dismissed Man.

An order for the dismissal of Joseph A. Avellar as chief of the street cleaning department of Hayward was being prepared today by J. P. Daken, town marshal, as a result of Avellar's trip to Oakland yesterday at which time he instituted suit for $10,000 damages against Daken, charging him with stealing the affections of his wife, Mary E. Avellar.

In announcing the dismissal of Avellar, Daken, who is named as the principal in the suit, declared the action was taken due to Avellar's "neglect of duty in leaving Hayward and going to Oakland without permission." There was considerable speculation in Hayward today regarding the marshal's right to dismiss Avellar.

Avellar brought his suit for $10,000 heart balm in connection with a suit for divorce in Superior Judge J. J. Trabucco's court here yesterday. Avellar, who was an appointee of Daken's in the street cleaning department, claims that the town marshal contrived by many devices to win the affections of his wife, the mother of his two children.

The suit, which was filed by Attorney E. H. Christian, claims that Daken's alleged action in stealing the affections of his wife damaged him to the extent of $10,000, and asks that the court render judgment against the town marshal for that amount.

Judge Trabucco yesterday ordered Avellar to pay temporary alimony to his wife of $50 a month pending the settlement of her husband's divorce action in which Daken was named as co-respondent.

Mrs. Avellar attempted to secure an order to force her husband to move from his home, but failed. The court warned him to make no threats or trouble.

UNIONS CONSIDER TERMS TO SETTLE BUILDING TIE-UP

Proposals Include Standard System for Settlement of Strikes.

Proposals that hold promise of settling the building tieup in the cities about the bay are being considered today by the carpenters and plumbers in Alameda, San Francisco and San Mateo counties. With the acceptance, which is said to be probable, there are indications that the other crafts in the building trades will follow and that the long-awaited resumption of building activities will take place.

Bay District Council of Carpenters has been offered by the Industrial Relations Committee of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce an agreement calling for a wage reduction of 7½ per cent, for union conditions, and for certain changes in the requirements for apprentices. Union hours, days and overtime are to be continued. The whole matter was discussed at a meeting of the carpenters last night and the question was taken to the individual unions. It is understood that the proposals include one for the perfection of a standard system for the settlement of strikes. Acceptance of the terms by the general meeting means that if the locals in each city do the same the carpenters, at least, will be back on the job.

A similar set of proposals has been submitted to the plumbers and has met with approval. No statement of the meetings and no formal report have been issued. At the headquarters of the carpenters and the plumbers it was said that it had been agreed to say nothing concerning the matter until everything was settled.

Veteran Educator Is Retired On Pension

S. G. S. Dunbar a leading educator in Oakland for the past 34 years, is retired on pension by the state board of education. Dunbar began teaching in Tuolumne county in 1865, a year later going to the schools in San Joaquin county where he remained until 1887. He served as county superintendent of schools and was a member of the state board of education. Dunbar has the longest known record of any pedagogue in the state.

Amador Association Holds Yearly Outing

The fourteenth annual outing of the Amador County Association was held today at Shellmound Park, with several hundred members of the organization present. The program began with a basket lunch and several impromptu sketches, and closed with dancing about 5 o'clock in the evening. Al Williams' twenty-piece orchestra rendered music for the dancing.

Native Sons to Mark Spot Kit Carson Carved Name

TO mark the spot where Kit Carson, pioneer, carved his name upon a tree in 1844, the historic landmarks committee of the Native Sons of the Golden West will on Sunday, August 7, dedicate the bronze tablet, which is to be placed at the summit of the Sierras, in Alpine County.

A section of the tree, containing the name of the pioneer guide and scout that was carved when Carson conducted Colonel John C. Fremont and his expedition to California, is now in the museum at Sutter's Fort, Sacramento.

It is desired that all grand officers, and as many Native Sons as possible will attend the placing of the tablet. The spot can be reached by automobile over the road leading from Jackson to Sutter's Creek, and along the boundary line between El Dorado and Amador counties.

This road over the Sierras is one of the most beautiful in the state, and will be in fine condition by August. The Kit Carson Pass is not far from Lake Tahoe, so that after the dedication anyone that so desires may proceed to the lake.

This dedication will be the beginning of work which will be undertaken by the Native Sons to mark all pioneer roads and trails leading over the Sierras.

PEOPLE ASKED TO OBSERVE FOURTH

Proper observance of the 145th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence was asked of the citizens of Oakland today in a proclamation issued by Mayor John L. Davie. This year it is particularly fitting that citizens of the United States should celebrate the Fourth of July, especially in Oakland where the committees in charge of the day's events are all veterans of various wars, the mayor said, and are taking charge of the day upon the request of the city council and various civic organizations.

Three destroyers of the Pacific fleet docked at the Clay street wharf today and will be open daily for inspection by the public. The destroyers are in Oakland as an added feature to the Fourth of July celebration and will be docked in the estuary until Tuesday afternoon. Their crews will assist in the land exercises and mimic battle to be staged in Lakeside park on the shores of Lake Merritt. Major Harry F. Buber is chairman of the committee in charge of the day's events.

Army Discharges to Be Given Applicants

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Enlisted men of the United States Army will be granted a discharge upon application so that reduction of the armed forces of the nation can be accomplished without complication and delay, according to an order received at the Ninth Corps Area headquarters today. The order stated that all men discharged would be given travel pay but would not be permitted to re-enlist until general recruiting was resumed. The reason given for the issuance of the order was for "the convenience of the government."

The army must be reduced to 150,000 men by October 1, it was declared at the army corps headquarters, and the order received today shows that drastic steps are being taken by the government in eliminating red tape and unnecessary work in reducing the army to its required strength.

OLIVER MOROSCO SUES FOR DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—Oliver Morosco Mitchell, Los Angeles theatrical producer and known to the world of drama as Oliver Morosco, has filed a suit for divorce from Mrs. Annie T. Mitchell, in Detroit, according to information received here today.

Details of the suit were unavailable here and Mrs. Mitchell stated at her home here that she had not been served with a copy of her husband's complaint.

Mrs. Mitchell announced, however, that she had been notified that the suit had been filed and that she will contest the action.

News of the filing of the divorce suit came as a considerable surprise as it had been generally believed that the marital difficulties of the Mitchells had been settled definitely a year ago. At that time Mrs. Mitchell dismissed action for separate maintenance and a division of community property, brought in the superior court here.

The domestic troubles of the noted producer and his wife were disclosed when Mrs. Mitchell filed her separate maintenance suit and charged openly that her husband had been unduly friendly with Miss Selma Paley, Los Angeles actress.

Japanese Dies From Tong War Bullet

Yoshimatsu Nezumia, a Japanese gardener, who was accidentally shot during the tong war last Wednesday night, died last night at Providence hospital. The shooting took place at 820 Eighth street in a Chinese rooming house. Wong Wa Yuen, a member of Bing Kong tong, was killed while in his room by alleged members of the Suey Ying Suey tong. Nezumia was visiting a friend in a room across the hall, and was shot in the back by a stray bullet.

PRISONER FIRES TOWN JAIL AND MAKES ESCAPE

Frank Franco Adds Unexpected Thrill to Concert on San Leandro Plaza.

SAN LEANDRO, July 2.—If someone writes the Ballad of San Leandro gaol it will be full of fire, provided it records last night's exploit of Frank Franco, who was the jail's only prisoner. Franco set fire to the jail and escaped. Only the most strenuous efforts on the part of the San Leandro fire department saved the building from destruction.

Franco was arrested yesterday on a warrant sworn to before Justice of the Peace W. J. Jannon by Franco's wife, Josephine. He was charged with disturbing the peace. Specifically, it was charged that Franco slept with a knife under the pillow, informing his wife that he would kill her when the rooster crowed at 4 a. m.

Franco was taken into custody by Police Officer J. O. Brown. Later two of Franco's friends visited him in the jail. It is thought that they may have supplied him with a small quantity of gasoline and other inflammable material.

Last night there was a band concert in the public square and all San Leandro turned out to enjoy it. The jail, a wooden structure, is just back of the city hall and Police Officer Brown, who is also night watchman, detected the smell of smoke. When he investigated he found that one wall of the jail was on fire. He heard the prisoner escaping down an alleyway and gave chase, firing one shot from his revolver. Franco made good his escape. The fire department was called and the flames were extinguished, but not before considerable damage was done.
